

DOINGS IN SOCIETY

The L. D. club met April 6 at the home of Mrs. Sam Moulton with Mrs. Frisbie assisting hostess.

Eleven members were present and three guests, Mrs. Cardiff, Mrs. Laurence Moulton and Mrs. Lowell Moulton.

An enjoyable and profitable afternoon was spent. Refreshments were served. The club will meet April 20 at the home of Mrs. Breeden with Mrs. O'Dell assisting hostess.

The Thursday Bridge club was entertained last week at the home of Mrs. D. O. Spitzmeyer, with Mrs. C. W. Barrick assistant hostess. Mrs. Emmett Bales was a guest. Mrs. John Carroll was unable to be present on account of illness. The high score for the afternoon went to Mrs. Bales and the consolation to Mrs. W. D. Pine. A delightful lunch was served by the hostesses. Mrs. W. F. Nichols and Mrs. J. N. Shaw will entertain the club at its next meeting.

The Kill Kare Klub was organized in 1912 as a study club, with fifteen members. Later this quota was raised to twenty. The present membership. Mrs. Ethel Bales was the first president of the club and Mrs. Mae Hoskins secretary and treasurer. In the latter part of 1914 the club was federated with the Oregon Federation of Women's clubs. Mrs. Ethel Bales and Mrs. Albert Plank were the first convention delegates. The club has been represented at the federation conventions in Salem, Seaside, Portland, Prineville and Pendleton and was hostess club in 1922.

Russian and Chinese history, travels and history of the United States, foreign art and literature, South American history, immigration, birth control, improvement of motion pictures and the freeing of criminals are some of the topics which have been studied by the club.

The club has subscribed to the Scholarship Loan Fund nearly every year, has done considerable Red Cross Belgian Relief and Armenian relief work, and during the past year has donated 48 quarts of canned fruit to the Pacific Coast Rescue and Protective society and $5 to the W. C. T. U. childrens home. $137.39 worth of Christmas seals were sold by the club last year.

The present officers of the club are president, Mrs. S. W. Conover, vice president, Mrs. H. A. Franklin; secretary and treasurer Mrs. A. W. Plank; press chairman, Mrs. A. A. Pennington. Other members are Mesdames W.B. Alderman, Emmett Bales, R. N. Henkle, Carl Haberlach, D. Kuratli, John Lamar, Homer Mason, Leo Morrison, Fred Poorman, J. E. Reedy, H. H. Rosenberg, J. H. Rosenberg and Merrill Smith.

Mrs. John Carroll's house was the scene of a gay party Wednesday, April 11th. Early in the afternoon the members of the J. U. G. club came for their regular meeting. Twice during the year the J. U. G. has a "pot luck" lunch, where everyone entertains and brings what best suits their own fancy for lunch. This was one of the occasions and an indoor picnic was held.

At the end of the afternoon the girls all gathered around one large table and feasted on a variety of goodies.

Mrs. C. O. Dawson, who is visiting at the home of her mother, Mrs. T. H. Goyno, was the only guest.

At the business meeting Mrs. Geo. P. Winslow was chosen as a delegate to the State Federation of Women's clubs convention to be held May 22-25 at Medford. Mrs. John Carroll was elected to be an alternate. The president, Mrs. Fred Christensen, will go as a regular delegate.

Mrs. A. F. Coates and Mrs. A. W. French were hostesses to the Monday Musical club which met last Monday at the home of Mrs. E. E. Koch. At this meeting the committee in charge of the Easter Monday tea reported that to date the proceeds of the tea were $23.05, and that some donations were not in yet.

The club is now federated with the National Federation of Music clubs, having received their receipt at this meeting. After the program the hostesses served some very delicious refreshments.

DIG 33 YEARS FOR KING TUT

Carter and His Aids Defy Torrid Heat, Wild Beasts and Insect Plague in Search.

Do you think what they got was worth digging 33 years for?

Valley of the Kings, Luxor, Egypt.—While the world has been following with unabated interest and curiosity the wonderful archaeological discoveries in the Valley of the Kings, little thought has been given to the years of toil, research and patience given by archaeologists in these far-off ruins.

It is perhaps little understood that the recent unearthing of the tomb of King Tut-Ankh-Amen by Howard Carter, British excavator, represents a continuous effort of 33 years of research and excavation. Carter began digging on the site of Thebes, the ancient capital of Egypt, when he was eighteen and has never ceased his labors.

He was never rich enough to conduct his own excavations, but has invariably worked for others. Some of his most notable work was done under Theodore M. Davis of Boston, who from 1907 to 1914 discovered six royal tombs and a wealth of rare and valuable antiquities. In more recent years Carter has been associated with Lord Carnarvon, who financed the excavating work of Tut-Ankh-Amen's tomb. Carter has derived no pecuniary reward from his years of research. American visitors at the newly found tomb have remarked that the now famous excavator wears the same suit of clothes, the same hat and shoes, daily, Sunday, and throughout the year.

Called Modern Hermits.

Carter's devotion and labors in the cause of Egyptological science are typical of the example of all excavators, British, American and French, in the ancient ruins of Egypt. These men may be described as modern hermits in this 5,000-year-old Valley of the Kings. They lead a one-sided and narrow existence. Cut off from all civilizing and uplifting influences, the score or more of them who comprise the foreign colonies of Luxor move within a narrow groove and seldom even come in contact with one another.

The Valley of the Kings and the Theban hills, 450 miles up the Nile from Cairo, are infested with wolves, jackals, wildcats, foxes, snakes, lizards, scorpions, vultures, beetles and vermin. The archaeologists live in unpretentious stone and mortar houses with nothing but the barest rough-hewn furniture and the most primitive household equipment. The house occupied by the American experts was built through the generosity of the late J. Pierpont Morgan, who was moved to pity by their privations and exposure.

Plague of Flies and Insects. The natives of the valley are pathetically poor and untutored. Food is scarce and expensive. Water, where it exists at all, has to be brought from afar in hand buckets. The nights are cold and fuel is difficult to obtain. The heat of the valley is severe during the day, and the entire area is plagued with flies and pernicious insects.

The American visitor to the cavernous valley which holds the imperial dead of bygone ages is overawed by the majesty and dignity of the great, precipitous sandstone cliffs that stand sentinel on either side of the necropolis. He is reminded of the heights of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado, or of Yellowstone falls, when the noonday sun transforms them into a golden valley.

Sleeping in the heart of these mountains are Tut-Ankh-Amen and his royal kinsfolk. Some of the tombs go down 150 feet and extend back a distance of three city blocks. The ancients believed these were the portals to heaven and everlasting life.

Aged Veteran Tells Gold Teeth to Poor

San Francisco.—Michael Cahill, a Civil war veteran, who died recently, wrote his last will and testament in a spirit of repentance and charity. In concluding his will Cahill said: "Obedience to the Divine law in death may in part compensate for disobedience in life."

Although his fortune was small he overlooked nothing in its distribution. "To the poor," he said, "I wish to give the gold in my teeth."

For himself he made but one request, and that was that no embalming fluid be used on his body. As authority for this he referred to Ecclesiastes 12:7.

"Then shall the dust return to the earth as it was and the spirit shall return to God who gave it."

After making small bequests to relatives Cahill gave $200 to the Red Cross, $100 to the Hebrew orphanage.

Has All Nationalities. Ottawa, Ont.—Men of every nationality secured status of citizens of Canada during the fiscal year ending March 31, 1922. Altogether 10,390 foreigners were naturalized. Americans with 2,296 and Russians with 2,000 led in the number of persons who became naturalized Canadians.

78 of the first 161 motorists who passed the corner of Market and Kearny Streets, San Francisco, answered "Red Crown" to the question "What kind of gasoline do you prefer?"

The result of this check, in which "Red Crown" led its nearest competitor by 160%, is typical of the entire Pacific Coast field, where the majority of motorists get best results by using Red Crown, the gasoline of quality, and nothing else.
