

BRIGHTON MILLS CO. HAS SAWING RECORD

One of the biggest business enterprises in the county is that of the Brighton Mills company at Brighton. While not the largest mill in the county it has established several records that are yet unbroken. Employing 275 men in the camp and mill, the average monthly payroll is $40,000.

At present the company is operating only one camp, Camp 4, near Mohler. A large camp is being constructed at Rector which is expected to be ready for operation about the first of September. In addition to the output of the Brighton camp the mill is using the output of the Hoevet Logging company, Lund & Neville, and the Wheelwright Logging company, the latter at Enright.

During the last month the average cut for each eight hours was 177,500 feet, the highest cut for any day being 105,000 feet. Each month for the last four months this company has shipped more cars of lumber than any other mill in the county and in the month of March they shipped 259 cars, which is more than has ever been shipped in a month by any mill in the county. These cars carried 5,361,000 feet of lumber, 1,222,000 lath and 920,000 shingles.

8TH GRADE PROGRAM IS THO'T SUCCESSFUL

The annual commencement exercises of all the eighth grades of the county, were held in the school pavilion at the county fair grounds last Saturday. C. W. Barrick gave an address of welcome. Following a basket luncheon that was enjoyed by all those present George N. Harness pastor of the Christian church, delivered the graduating address. County Superintendent of Schools G. B. Lamb presented the diplomas, 134 in number, about two-thirds of the graduates being in the audience.

The eighth grade of the Fairview school, presented their teacher, Mrs. Todd, with a cut glass dish, and the Tillamook high school orchestra gave their instructor, Miss Helen Pettit, a handsome silver mounted baton. The above organization furnished excellent orchestral music for the occasion, and the junior school band of Garibaldi, consisting of ten or twelve players, gave some creditable band numbers. It was estimated that fully 500 people from Tillamook and other points in the county made up the audience. The following program was given:

Flag Salute by everyone; song, America, by everyone; music, Garibaldi Junior Band; address of welcome, C. W. Barrick; music, Tillamook school orchestra; reading, Agnes Arney, Hemlock school; piano solo, Dorothy Cooley, Garibaldi school; charade, Bay City eighth grade; song by four boys, Fairview school; school boy's essay on "Bones," Dolph school; school annual, Helen Barber, Fairview school; music, Garibaldi Junior band; song by four girls, Cloverdale school reading, Evelyn High, Cloverdale school; music, Girls of Tillamook Eighth grade music, Tillamook school orchestra; noon, luncheon.

1:30 p. m. Music, Tillamook school orchestra; address to graduates, Rev. Harness; music, Garibaldi Junior band; Presentation of diplomas, G. B. Lamb.

Paul McCracken was a stage passenger to Portland Thursday morning. Orrie Mapes went to Portland Thursday.

Born to C. B. Stanley and wife of near this city May 21, a daughter reports Dr. Boals.

35 YEARS IN TILLAMOOK

One of the few living men, who resided in Tillamook county for a half century, is A. H. Bunn of this city, who came across the plains with his fathers family in 1865. Mr. Bunn was then six years of age, and remembers many of the incidents of the trip during the monotonous trek across the sagebrush wagon road that led from the Platte river westward into the Rockies, and thence down the tortuous Snake river, through the Grand Ronde country to the Dalles and the Willamette valley. The elder Bunn, when a single man had made a previous trip to Oregon in 1853 returning later to Illinois where he married, later coming back to the Beaver state in 1865 with his family.

One incident that was indelibly stamped upon the juvenile mind of the young pioneer traveller across the plains, was when somewhere on the Snake river road, the train encountered a great army of big fat crickets that filled the wagon trail, and over which the wheels crunched. Young Bunn was barefooted at the time, and became disgusted with tramping upon the wriggling insects, as did his young companions. They finally came to a wide, swift stream, over which the crickets could make no progress but were carried down stream by the current. Here the cricket episode happily ended.

There were several Indian scares, when the men of the train, watched the hills and took due precautions against surprise. Bunn remembers hearing some one in the party remark that "no doubt Indians were watching the train from the summits of the nearby hills," and the remark was rather disquieting to him at the time, but the train got through without any open fight with the Indians, who all along the emigrant trail were especially hostile that year.

The Bunn family settled in Lafayette, Yamhill county, when they arrived in the Willamette valley and in 1873 the family, consisting of six children and the father and mother, came to the town of Lincoln, now Tillamook, when there were but three houses in the town. There were settlements outside of the town, however, and some of the early settlers had taken donation land claims, including Trask, Wilson, Vaughn, Quick, Thos. and Captain Stillwell's father, and possibly one or two others. And still other settlers were on homesteads or bought places.

After staying in Lincoln for some time, the father bought some school land upon the Miami river and the family moved up there.

Later Mr. Bunn took up a homestead on the Nestucca river near Beaver, where he lived 35 years continuously. When he went into the Beaver section, there was nothing in the way of a road, but a trail over which provisions and other goods were packed by horses. Mr. Bunn is still active in business, and at present is engaged in the culture of loganberries and is one of the pioneers of this county in the culture of that dependable and popular berry.

SEE 'PURPLE FLASHES', IS ADVICE OF ELKS

Arrangements are rapidly being perfected for the presentation of the Tillamook Elks' local production "Purple Flashes," which will hold the boards at the High school auditorium on Monday and Tuesday, June 11th and 12th. Committees have been appointed and C. J. McNaughton, professional show director will arrive in the city on May 27 to take charge of rehearsals.

"Purple Flashes" will be one of the most pretentious productions staged here in years. All scenery, costuming and effects for the show, which carries a cast of sixty people, were built and designed at a cost of over five thousand dollars, and the production has been produced with sensational success by the Elks in coast cities from Los Angeles to Seattle.

One of the novel advertising features of the show will be the publication of an eight page humorous Elks paper, which will be sent free to five thousand homes within a radius of thirty miles. It will be full of jokes and stories on all the Elks throughout the district, and the show committee says it will outshine "Life" or any other humorous paper.

Walter F. Nichols, has been appointed chairman of the show committee and will be glad to hear of any talent in speaking lines, or in musical lines. The other members of the committee are C. H. Coe, E. E. Koch, J. R. Patterson, Wm. B. Matthews.

The Elks have won an enviable reputation for putting over clever entertainments, so this should be a winner.

LOCAL O.A.C. STUDENT IS IN TOURNAMENT

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, May 23—George Lienkaemper of Tillamook, is on the motor transport wall sealing team that will compete in the military tournament at O. A. C. May 26. The motor transport team will have teams from the infantry, cavalry, field artillery and the engineer units as its opponents. The winner of this contest will be awarded points toward the J. K. Partello cup that will be awarded the unit winning the most points.

The exhibition will start with a military review by all the R. O. T. C. units. Following this a plow game will be played and the litter bearing, tug-of-war, and machine gun contests will take place. A team will be entered by each of the five units in each contest.

The last event will be the presentation of sweaters to members of the rifle and pistol teams and the awarding of the Partello cup. The show will be concluded with a night sham battle. All the units will take part in this sham battle to make it one of the largest ever staged in the northwest.

COW OF IRA G. LANCE HAS STATE RECORD

Once more a Tillamook cow has come to the front as a winner. We have world record cows in this county, and now comes a two year old Guernsey cow, who is entitled to be called a state leader. The animal in question is owned by Ira G. Lance of River Lawn dairy farm, the well known Guernsey breeder near this city. This fine little Guernsey closed her year last October, but it was not until a few days ago that Mr. Lance got the returns which placed her at the head of her class in the state. The little cow is Imported Country Lawn II, No. 105534, and the returns show that she made 9656 2-10 pounds of milk, with an average of 5.29 per cent, totaling 511.25 pounds of butter fat for the year, making her state leader of her breed and class in Oregon.

Imported Country Lawn II was sired by Gay Boy VI, of Myrtle Place by Governor of the Cheene, the greatest bull of the Guernsey breed. He has 107 A. R. daughters and 26 A. R. sons; dam Country Laura, she by the Prince of La Croisec, who has ten A. R. daughters.

Mr. Lance also has two other heifers now on official test, each two years old, both of whom have more than made their yearly requirements for advanced register work in the first six months of the year's work. Both are running in the double G class.

Mrs. R. W. Bennett will leave for a visit at Dallas next Tuesday.
