STATEMENT TO THE PUBLIC

I desire to correct some false statements, as well as a false charge which was brought against me last week, while driving the Tillamook-Portland stage. I was wrongfully accused of using very obscene language. I do confess that I stopped and called down a gentleman for hogging the road, but in doing so I tried to keep the place of a gentleman. I not only make this statement in defense of myself, but also in defense of the stage line. I apologize for saying a word, and at the same time I think I have an apology coming to me. I know that I am innocent, and feel that you who accused me at least owe me an apology. I shall always try to conduct myself in a manner both becoming the stage company and myself.

Charge of Tillamook-Portland Stage line.

LOUISIANA TREE 2,500 YEARS OLD

Edenborn Brake Is Placed by Scientists as Fifth Oldest Living Thing.

New Orleans.—The fifth oldest known living thing on earth, and the third oldest in North America, is a giant cypress tree in what is known as the Edenborn Brake, in Winn parish, this state, according to Carleton F. Poole, of the Louisiana state conservation department.

The age of the tree has been placed at 2,500 years by Prof. Herman Schrenk of St. Louis, and other scientists who have examined it. According to records, it is exceeded in longevity only by the Santa Maria del Tule cypress, near Oaxaca, Mexico, 5,000 to 6,000 years old, the Dragon tree at Orotava, Island of Tenerife, 4,000 years old, the Sequoia trees, California, 4,000 years old, and the Baobab tree, Senegal, 4,000 years old.

The Edenborn cypress was budding into life when Jerusalem was taken by Nebuchadnezzar. It was a lusty young sprout when the battles of Marathon and Thermopylae were fought, when Assyria was at the apex of the world dominion and when Rome was a village of mud roads and hovels. The tree was 900 years old when Christ was born in Bethlehem, a veterinarian.

eran when the Roman legions were withdrawn from Britain to leave the savage tribes of those islands to fight out their differences, and was more than 2,000 years old when Columbus sailed into the Atlantic to begin his voyage of discovery.

Peculiarly Situated.
The tree was one of a number of its kind in a tract of pine timber purchased by William Edenborn some years ago, and when logging began he refused to permit it and three others almost as large to be felled, although the giant contains approximately 23,000 feet of lumber. It is peculiarly situated for one of its species, for while the cypress usually grows in swamps the Edenborn specimen stands in a hollow between hills.

One of the three cypresses left standing with it was felled by a storm some months ago. Mr. Edenborn has offered the aged giant and its two companions to the conservation department to do with as it sees fit, so long as none is injured. The department plans construction of a highway to them so that the spot may be visited more easily by tourists and home folk.

A SICK DOG NEVER WAGS HIS TAIL

"One minute essays on health by Dr. H. L. Babb"

When we say that a sick dog never wags his tail we are simply calling attention to the fact that health and happiness are closely related. It is possible for the human being to be happy though sick, but it isn't probable.

All life is transmitted over nerve lines to the different organs, cells and tissues of the body, and this thing we call "Life Force", the thing which marks the difference between the living and the dead, is propelled from the brain. When every organ gets an equal share, then all is well, but when the spinal bones become misaligned, there is pressure and interference with spinal nerve lines and we have disease. Realignment of these bones brings back the conditions of health.

Chiropractic spinal adjustments as given by this office have restored health in a number of cases in the past few weeks. The sufferers have been made well of diseases of the eyes, ears, nose, throat, lungs, heart, stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels and lower organs.
