PERSONAL MENTION

Oscar Schultz left for Portland on business Friday afternoon.

David Kurath, who returned last week from a week's trip to Medford Ashland and other points in Southern Oregon, reports that crops and business both look good to him in that section. Good rains have made crops down there and stock is reported fat and in good shape in the dairies and on the ranges.

Rudy Zweifel, a leading business man of Mohler, returned to his home Saturday after stopping for a few hours in Tillamook on business. He had just completed a business trip to Portland and other valley points.

It is reported that down in Coos county a new kind of moonshine is made from the milk of kicking cows to give it the required action. It is called milk kick shake.

C. W. Reed who has been working on the Monte Goodspeed place near town for some time past, left for his home in Estacada last Saturday.

INSURANCE COMMISSIONER AFTER "PIRATES"

The man who comes into this state and operates for some eastern insurance concern which has not complied with the state laws in regard to insurance, is called a "pirate." It is understood that agents representing eastern companies having no guarantee up with the state to protect the insured have been operating through this state of late and have secured considerable business by cutting rates as much as 30 per cent in some cases. State Insurance Commissioner Will Moore was over here from Salem last week on the trail of some of the alleged pirates and doubtless will cause them some trouble as there is a law that provides $100 fine for each offense, when the agent has not complied with the state law.

Miss A. Askerberg and Miss C. Storrie of Garibaldi passed through town Saturday for Portland going out by stage.

COYOTES NOT NUMEROUS

Delbert Long of Pacific City was in town one day the latter part of the week to claim the bounty on a coyote scalp. For some reason, the coyote does not seem to flourish in the Cascades, or in the Willamette valley brush and timber lands. Roy Hanson of Hebo brought in three wild cat pelts the latter part of last week and secured the bounty.
