EARTH'S SURFACE ADRIFT, BELIEF OF SCIENTISTS

Theories of German Savant Arouse New Controversy.

London.—An interesting controversy has been excited in British scientific circles by the remarkable theories of Prof. Alfred Wegener, a German, who declares that the earth's continents are drifting westward. His thesis is that the earth's continents are of lighter material, and float like icebergs on a heavier plastic material, which reaches its highest level at the bottom of the oceans.

This startling theory has been strongly criticized by P. Lake of the Royal Geographical society. By means of maps he showed the way in which Wegener has reconstructed the land surface of the globe. According to this reconstruction North America was once in physical contact with Europe; India and South America was brought into contact with Africa. Since then the continents have drifted away from one another into their present position.

Among a number of carefully reasoned criticisms, Mr. Lake pointed out that in order to meet his theory Wegener had flattened out the Himalayas in order to lengthen the peninsula of India, but he had not flattened out others of the world's mountains in a similar way. He also declared that the argument based on alleged correspondence in geological formation in the various continents would not hold good, because Wegener's geological facts were not accurate.

As an offset to Mr. Lake's views, a number of other British observers seem inclined to support Wegener's revolutionary theory. Prof. J. Joly of Trinity college, Dublin, writing in the current issue of Nature, thinks that Wegener is in error in working out the theory on the basis of a westerly drift of the continents. The theory, he says, grows in probability if an easterly drift is indicated.

Breaks Precedent in Admitting Welsh Girl

Phyllis Curtis, a pretty, modest and gentle little Welsh girl, who has just been admitted to the United States after the Immigration board at Ellis Island broke a precedent. Brought before the board, Miss Curtis admitted that she came to the United States solely to be near her sweetheart who lived in Nanticoke, Pa. She also admitted that she was too young to get married just now and that she was to live with her beau's folks. When girls come to the United States and are too young to marry they are usually held as "likely to become public charges," excluded and sent back to their mothers. However, Miss Curtis proved so sweet that the inspectors just couldn't help but admit her.

Oldest Bell on Record Used in Italian Church The oldest known bell still in use in the parish church of St. Mary Loreto, at Villalago, in the Abruzzi mountains, and bears the inscription "Ave Maria" followed by "Anno Domini 600." Considering that bells were invented, according to church authorities, by Pope Rablinal, who died in 600, no older bell is recorded.

Fox Fur High in Leipzig. Leipzig.—The fur auction here, which has closed after three weeks, was attended by many American buyers. These paid high prices for raw fox furs, which were even higher than the usual figure for this class of pelts.

Gang Had Been There, Police Dancers Found The police of Rochester, N. Y., wound up their annual dance with the band playing "Hall, Hall, the Gang's All Here."

When the merry-makers retired to the cloak rooms, they found the gang had gone, and with it the choicest furs, overcoats, and other wraps that the members could lay their hands on.

The loot is expected to run into four figures.

British Homes Happy, Say Divorce Figures

London.—Domestic felicity is steadily gaining strength in England and Wales, if recently published statistics regarding divorce may be taken as a criterion. During 1921 the number of divorces in these countries declined by 33 per cent. In the previous year matrimonial suits showed an increase of 355 per cent over the pre-war totals.

In recent years additional legal facilities have been accorded to poor persons seeking divorce in England, and this has brought a large increase in the number of cases. During the last nine years 24,209 matrimonial suits were filed. Of the 3,404 suits entered in 1921, 1,702 petitions were filed by husbands and 1,750 by wives. In 95 per cent of the cases the petitioners were successful.

Of the parties concerned in the total number of suits for the year under survey 3,282 were bachelors and 3,381 were spinsters at the date of the marriage, but by far the greater proportion were married at ages between 21 and 30. The proportion of childless marriages was high, reaching a total of nearly 2,000.

Professional men head the list in the number of divorces, with 1,148 cases, while the clergy is at the bottom of the table, with only six. Army officers, soldiers and sailors figured in 343 cases, actors in 105, physicians in 70, schoolmasters in 18 and journalists in 15.

Village Bars Domino Games on Sundays

Dunbar, W. Va.—Blue laws of ultra-marine hue are being enforced in this municipality. The policy of the administration is to keep the lid down tight. Somebody slipped over the line of demarcation the other Sunday and played dominoes. News of the crime reached the ears of Mayor R. H. Garrett, and he forthwith caused the following notice to be published in the Dunbar Advance:

"Must close Sunday! "Notice is hereby given that the playing of dominoes in any public place in Dunbar on Sunday will not be permitted after this date. R. H. Garrett, mayor."

Japanese Women Drop Out of University Lectures

Tokyo.—The authorities of the Imperial university, Tokyo, are beginning to doubt whether the women of Japan are as sincere in their desire for higher education as had been thought. When it was announced that the lectures at the university would be open to women, many applications for admission were received, but of the 90 women to whom these were granted, all but a few dropped out. This year there were very few applicants for the privilege.

PORT AND STARBOARD: HAW AND GEE

Thos. Coates returned from Portland Wednesday where he went to attend the Royal Arch Chapter of the Masonic lodge also the Eastern Star chapter. While in Portland he got red and green headlights for the Stutz engine and the hook and ladder truck which will appear on all the cars at night.

The red light is on the low side and the green on the high side of the engine and truck and if that isn't plain enough the red is on the port side and the green is on the starboard side; but if that is not comprehensive enough the red is on the side from which you mount a horse and the green is on the side from which you milk a cow. With these explanations Fire Chief Coates thinks the public will be able to know when the fire machines are going to or coming from a fire.

PARSON GOES AS BUCK PRIVATE

Geo. Harness, pastor of the Christian church of this city is a member of company K, O. N. G. of this city and leaves this week with his company for the big mobilization at Camp Lewis as a "buck private" and will also officiate as chaplain if asked. George saw the big world war as an army chaplain and now goes to get the soldier part of army experience hoping, as he says, that opportunity may come to do some spiritual good while "over there" in Washington. During his absence, the church having given him a two weeks vacation, the Gospel Team of Every Man's class, consisting of four residents of the city will have charge of the church work here. Chas. Gross, a graduate of the Bible University at Eugene, will have charge of the class using the same lessons which the pastor would have used. Next Sunday morning the pulpit will be filled by Chas. Gross and Wm. Gould, laymen and on Sunday eve, the ladies class will have charge of the services. A week from Sunday morning, June 24, Ira Lance and Frank Pike will officiate, and Lee Doty and Frank Conover will have charge of the evening service, while Frank Pike will take charge of the weekly prayer meetings until the pastor's return.
