Up-to-the-Minute Jimmie Listens in on Radio

Jimmie is a modern lad and he is doing as all other humans, "listening in" on his radio set.

This photo shows Jimmie in his nightie, listening to a concert before he retires for the night.

Jimmie understands English perfectly, and he enjoys the programs immensely. He wants to sleep with the receivers on.

Veteran New England Square Rigged Vessel

The big steel bark Eugenia Emilia is shown drying her sails at the New Bedford, Mass., state pier, under the first warm spring sun. A sight such as this is very rare.

ligger and dops. She was sold at auction under a government label seeking customs penalties. She is a craft of 80 tons and was a former German boat.

False Teeth Choke Man Falling in River

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Charles E. Logan, marine engineer on the government steamboat Swan, was choked to death by his false teeth when he fell into the Monongahela river.

It had been thought Logan was drowned when he fell into the water while hurrying back to his boat from a visit to his four-year-old daughter. He had dreamed the child had been drowned and hurried home to learn the dream was false.

Grave Digger Finds 55 Snakes

Stratonsville, Pa.—A nest of 55 garter snakes was dug up here by Frank Freeman and Anthony Richardson, Jr., while they were digging a grave in the Methodist cemetery. The grave diggers were down about four feet when the wriggling mass of reptiles was unearthed.

Gets $1,000 to Repay $51 Loan Made in 1912

Hornell, N. Y.—Edward Congdon, Erie train despatcher, has received a draft for $1,000 in payment of a loan of $51 in 1912. Congdon and Jake Griffin of Omaha had been friends in Japan. They met later in San Francisco, where Griffin was broke. Congdon bought him a ticket to Omaha and gave him money besides, Griffin promised to repay. Congdon got a letter from an Omaha lawyer saying $1,000 had been deposited to his credit by Griffin.

KNIGHTHOOD IN SWEDEN IS SLOWLY DYING OUT

During Last Generation 125 Lines Have Terminated.

Stockholm.—Knighthood is still in flower in Sweden, although the petals are falling one by one. This sentiment is suggested by the fact that the assembly of nobles, which comes once every three years, has just been held in the historic Hall of Knights, attended by actors of counties and baronetcies many hundreds of years old.

The chamber of nobles, as such, has not been active in Swedish government since 1866, and scarcely any titles have been created since that time.

Thus many emigrants to America and other countries have sought new fortunes at the price of old titles. It is also a law that a Swedish aristocratic house must be declared extinct when there has been no male birth in it during a period of 90 years.

Swedish nobility had its origin, probably, in the Twelfth century, in privileges awarded for military service, and a great number of titles were created during the first half of the Seventeenth century by the famous King Gustavus Adolphus.

A few years after his death was built the beautiful Hall of Knights, where the assemblies are now held. With its curiously carved copper roof, its walls hung with gorgeous armorial bearings, it is one of the show places of the capital.

The Swedish nobles of today are great patrons of arts and sciences. Many are found in military and political posts, while others engage in model farming on their estates.

Norwegian Preacher Starts Labor Trouble

Bergen, Norway.—The latest "dream preacher" one Maria Akerblom, has been arrested in Finland. The woman caused such a furor among the working classes that the authorities felt forced to take action.

Going from place to place on horseback, with flowing hair, Maria foretold the immediate end of the world. She declared that in view of this to own a house or land, to save money or do any kind of work, was useless.

Below the thin crust of the earth covering the lower Alaskan peninsula and the Aleutian archipelago, these spirits, the natives assert, are holding nightly revels and emerging periodically to hurl fire, smoke and thunder at the heads of the invaders.

The fanciful recital of the natives is that on Chirikoff island, long famed as haunted, a half hundred natives were lured into a log compound, set upon by savage enemies under direction of the Russians, murdered and despoiled of priceless sea otter skins. Their spirits are appearing again in protest.

The eruption of three volcanoes in January is, they say, a re-visitation of these spirits and will continue until they are avenged.

For many years Chirikoff island has been a place seldom inhabited by natives of whites. Many harrowing tales from Chirikoff were brought here by Captain Nick Galikema, who has visited almost every nook and harbor along the Aleutians. Last summer the skipper braved the Valley of Snakes, emerging with the shoes burned from his feet and with many stories to tell.

Kill 500 Horses a Week for Food in Berlin

Washington.—Five hundred horses a week are being slaughtered for food in Berlin, according to reports to the Commerce department. With the increased scale of prices and added difficulties in food supply which have followed the Ruhr occupation, horse meat sales are said to be increasing rapidly.

Big Telescope for Russia. St. Albans, England.—One of the most wonderful telescopes in the world is nearing completion here for shipment to the Nikolaioff observatory, Russia. It weighs about nine tons, the inside diameter is 45 feet, the refracting telescope for photography is 32 inches, and the whole will be fitted to a revolving turret of steel.

Japanese Women Drop Out of University Lectures

Tokyo.—The authorities of the Imperial university, Tokyo, are beginning to doubt whether the women of Japan are as sincere in their desire for higher education as had been thought. When it was announced that the lectures at the university would be open to women, many applications for admission were received, but of the 90 women to whom these were granted, all but a few dropped out. This year there were very few applicants for the privilege.
