The picture at the top of the page shows Mt. Etna as seen through the camera during its recent eruption. The next is not a skyline of a large city that has been built or is about to be erected, but a huge toy brought out recently by the Scott Mfg. Co. of Chicago. The last one is of Jerome A. Henley, an American captive of the Chinese bandits, arriving at relief camp after struggle to free himself. The man holding the donkey is a brigand guide.
