Lincoln county dairy herds are said to be nearly free of tubercular trouble. It is noticeable that where county veterinarians are active in conjunction with the work of county agents, that herds are becoming physically better and better each year. Tillamook county has made an enviable record all over the northwest, with its cow-testing associations, and the weeding out of infected and non-productive cows has raised the standard of all pure-bred stock, and brought corresponding increase in milk production. Farmers are finding out that it pays to adopt modern methods for caring for the milk cow.

FEW GAME VIOLATIONS REPORTED IN COUNTY

George W. Russell, deputy state game warden for this county, stated this week that there had been few game law violations in this county during the open season which ended on the 20th.

He reports that grouse and native pheasants are not as scarce as many people imagine. The pheasants nests in the mountains, as does the grouse, and toward fall they come down to the lower altitudes; staying until spring. The season on grouse and pheasants ends October 31. After that date, the six inch limit on trout also expires. But trout ten inches or longer in length may still be taken in all streams affected by tide water. Side streams, however, are closed by law after the 31st inst.

STAGE MEN HURT WHEN CAR UP-SETS

About six o'clock Sunday morning, while about two miles east of this city, on straightaway road, the Oregonian truck skidded, struck the side of the road and turned over once and partly over the second time. The driver was uninjured, but L. H. Hennessy, the regular driver, who was inside the truck asleep was thrown out and pinned under the wreckage. A. B. Dufur, owner of the line, who was with the driver, sustained head contusions, but assisted to get Hennessy from under the machine. The truck was damaged so that it could not be driven in, and a city truck driven by John Mathers, went out and conveyed the three men to town, and also brought in the papers. Dufur was taken to a hospital, where it was found that he was suffering from bruises to the head, but was taken to his home in Portland Monday, and Hennessy, who sustained a broken rib and a wrenched shoulder, accompanied him. In the hospital with a broken leg is another victim of a similar turnover of the same truck, which occurred about two weeks ago, when the same driver, left the highway at a point east of Hebe Hennessy, who had been driving Sunday last, and who was taking a nap in the truck, was rudely aroused when several bales of Sunday Oregonians fell upon him, disturbed by the law of gravity. The driver and Dufur both stated that the accident was not due to the rate of speed, which was moderate, but to the slippery condition of the pavement and the driver's inability to control the truck.

HOUSES IN WHEELER SCARCE, IS REPORT

There is a big demand for houses to rent in Wheeler, and that bustling little sawmill town will have to provide more living rooms for its increasing population. In fact the situation of Wheeler is like that of most of the sawmill towns along the coast. The population is increasing faster than it can be accommodated.

The event promises to be an interesting one in the history of Tillamook educational functions and doubtless will be well attended by parents, children and all others who are interested in the progress of our common school system.

BURGLAR CONFESSES TO SEVERAL THEFTS

Chester Vanderpool who, shortly after his capture by Sheriff Aschim, confessed that he had robbed the stores of Burge, Plank and Conover Brothers, later said he and his two associates, who left this county by way of Wilson river road to Washington county, were guilty of the theft of food and bedding and other articles found at the Reeber houses, some miles this side of the summit. Mr. Reeber was called upon at this place, to identify some of the luggage found in possession of the fugitives by the Washington county sheriff.

and discovered his bedding in the lot. Vanderpool told the sheriff that he became conscious of the fact that he was being watched here after the store burglaries and that was what caused him to suddenly leave. He stated that in all of his robberies he wore gloves so that there would be no tell-tale finger prints. Being in a loquacious mood, he further stated that if the sheriff had not been watching him he would have headed for Small's safe out of town on a dark and there rifled it. Evidently he was preparing to do a land office business in the looting line in this city.
