KUBLI, AS SPEAKER, DRAWS BIG CROWD

Patriots Gather For Day in Memory of Close of World War

PARADE WAS HELD HERE

Speaker at Meeting Brings Out Applause by Stirring Remarks

Armistice day was well observed in the city last Monday. The day was auspicious, and a large crowd estimated to number at least one thousand persons, gathered in front of the city hall at 8:30, when company K, Oregon nation guard, commanded by Capt. J. E. Shearer, and preceded by the Elks band, paraded to inspiring music through the principal business streets of the city. The Oregon guard unit was followed by the Boy Scouts, led by Scout Master George Harness. When the marching contingent halted in front of the city hall the crowd soon filled the hall and balcony to overflowing.

A programme of patriotic songs, in which the audience joined, was rendered. "Lead Kindly Light," the favorite hymn of the martyred President McKinley, was sung by a mixed quartette in good style.

Capt. Shearer, in a few well chosen words, introduced the speaker for the occasion, Hon. K. K. Kubli of Portland, late speaker of the House of Representatives, who received an ovation from the audience. Mr. Kubli spoke as follows:

"Throughout this great nation to-day—in every city, village, town and hamlet—the American people with feelings of joy and sorrow are commemorating the signing of an Armistice that brought back to the

BOY DELINQUENT WAS SENT TO SALEM

Upon complaint of his parents Lawrence Poole, a 14 year old boy of Hobsonville, was adjudged delinquent by County Judge Mason last Tuesday, and committed to the reform school at Salem. Young Poole is the boy who pilfered some checks and money from the Ramsey dock at Bay City some months ago, and later took a lavallier and flash light at Brighton. He was not prosecuted on the first charge as most of the money was found or returned, but the last offense at Brighton, decided his parents on their action in making out a complaint. As in the case of most boys, there is always a good mother who has to bear the burden of the wayward child's criminal propensities.

PAROLE VIOLATOR HELD FOR CLATSOP

R. E. Weeden was picked up at the Cloverdale sawmill last Thursday, on complaint of the Cloverdale lumber company charged with petit larceny in taking a suit case not his own from the mill bunk house. He is being held here subject to the call of Sheriff Slusher of Clatsop county, who may want to take him back to that county.

Weeden was arrested in Astoria some time ago for complicity in some daring robberies in connection with Dale Arthur, a burglar. Both were convicted, and on the showing made in the case of Weeden, he was paroled from the bench after the trial. Arthur is now serving time.

Arthur won some notoriety while in jail at Astoria, by requesting the Sheriff to handcuff him to a bar in the corridor. Left to himself a few minutes he removed the handcuffs and appeared in the Sheriff's office a short time after without any steel jewelry on him. Thereafter he was placed in a steel cage for safe keeping until he was taken to the penitentiary.

TILLAMOOK CATTLE ARE RIBBON WINNERS

Tillamook Has Second-Best Cow in United States, is Claim by Judge

Tillamook pure-bred cattle exhibited at the International stock show at Portland fared well in the distribution of prizes this year.

It also developed at the stock show that Tillamook county has the second best cow in the United States, at least that is the opinion of R. E. Hager, one of the stock judges, whose home is in Algonquin, Illinois. As a result of his judging, he made the following statement:

"The grand champion cow at this show, Tillamook Daisy Butter King DeKol, is in my opinion the second best cow in the United States."

Ribbons were awarded to Guernseys from this county as follows: Cows five years or over, Oregon Queen, Cottonwood farm, second prize; third prize also went to Gail of Sequoia, Cottonwood farm.

Junior yearling heifers: Third to Gail's Annabel; tenth prize to Cottonwood farm on unnamed calf.

Senior heifer calves: Third to Buttercup, and eighth to Lady Molly, Cottonwood farm.

Cow having official yearly record begun at 5 years old or over, third on Janis of Sequoia.

BURNS UP BOOZE TO BEAT SHERIFF

A. E. Woods of Portland was arrested last Monday at Dolph by Deputy Sheriff Leslie Lucas, charged with having intoxicating liquor in his possession. Woods appeared before Justice Stanley on Tuesday last, and pleaded guilty to the charge. He was fined $150, and the Sheriff took charge of his Ford roadster which may be confiscated to the state.

Bad luck seemed to shed its baleful light from a star of ill-fortune, when Woods started to bring his keg of booze toward the city of Tillamook. At Dolph, he had a collision with another auto, and it was then that the eyes of the man whom he collided with, discovered the tell-tale keg, sloshing about in the wreckage, and promptly tipped off the Sheriff's office over the phone. Deputy Lucas sped eastward, and arrested Woods.

Woods told a weird tale of finding the keg by the roadside near old Grand Ronde, and said he thought it would make a good vinegar bar, and that if it contained anything of a spiritous nature, he was ignorant of the fact. However, after the collision, he poured out the contents of the keg, and then applied gasoline to the contents, or what remained of it on the ground, and touched it off with a lucifer match. The keg was next smashed with a hammer, and hidden under a lumber pile. The remains of the keg were found by Lucas after a short search.

Woods in default of fine money, is in jail.

CO. CLERK BRIMHALL ATTENDS CONVENTION

County Clerk H. S. Brimhall, took a few days respite from his duties in the court house this week to attend the yearly convention of county clerks of this state at Portland, and while gone the office is in the hands of the lady clerks, who are competently attending to the business of the office until he returns. The chief, who is an indefatigable worker, has earned a little vacation, which is the first one he has taken for many months.

WHITNEY LOGGER HAS HAND HURT

P. C. Blythe, for twenty years, a logger on the Pacific coast, had the bad luck to run a jagger from a wire line completely through his right hand a day or two ago while working in the Whitney camp above Idaville. He came to this city and received medical attention and at present is nursing a very sore hand.

ESTIMATES MADE ON WILSON ROUTE

Survey of Last Summer is Bringing Results For New Road

15 MILES YET TO BUILD

New Route Will be Great Adjunct to Roosevelt Highway For Valley People

Last summer engineer Hobbs of Hillsboro, and a force of men surveyed the Wilson river route, and that engineer is now busy making estimates of the probable cost of macadamizing that road from Forest Grove to Tillamook.

Washington county is anxious to get a short route either by Wilson river, or through Cherry Grove to the north fork of the Trask, thence down that fork to a junction with the old Trask-Yamhill road, which is connected with at a point a mile and a half below the Trask House, about fifteen miles east of this city. Next summer, or as early in the spring as weather conditions will permit, will occur the initial work of surveying a route from Cherry Grove—out from Gaston, about 10 miles—on the last lines above indicated. It is probable that this work will be done by Tillamook county surveyors as Washington county, it is understood, has borne the expense of the Wilson river survey.

When both routes have been surveyed.

TRUCK AND AUTO WERE IN COLLISION

A. A. Woodenbaugh of Portland, went off the Miami grade last Tuesday, about two miles above Garibaldi Cove, and rolled down an embankment. According to an account of the accident filed here, Woodenbaugh was cut about the face and bruised, and his wife also sustained bruises on her body.

Woodenbaugh claims that he was crowded off the grade by a big truck registered to Rudolf Zweifel, but that Zweifel was not the driver who Woodenbaugh alleges drove off without offering assistance. Woodenbaugh was going north, and the truck was headed south. The Portlander's machine was badly wrecked. No report has yet been filed by the truck driver.

PHELPS LECTURED IN THIS CITY FRIDAY

Large Audience Hears Speaker on Religious Issues at City Auditorium

N. Wayne Phelps, recently a resident of this county, and now editor of the Range and Valley, at Astoria, Oregon, spoke to a large audience in the city hall last Friday night in answer to two lectures given here some weeks ago by Priest Duran of Portland. He also paid attention to the Catholic Truth Society, with headquarters in Portland. Evidently his audience was in rapport with the speaker, for he received spontaneous and hearty applause, as he answered statement after statement made by the Catholic priest and the alleged Catholic Truth society's propaganda.

He stated that the Catholic Bible is practically the same as the Protestant Bible, but that the average Catholic has to get written permission from the Catholic hierarchy to read it. He also stated that the Roman Catholics do worship metal images for God and the Virgin Mary. He said that St. Peter, the alleged first Catholic Pope, was a married man, and asked what about the present Pope and the priests. He scored the Roman Catholic hierarchy for its activity in politics as a church, and alleged that several of the Presidents of the United States had been killed by Roman Catholics. He also read an affidavit from a man who was partially initiated into the Knights of Columbus, in which the man stated that he recognized Ben. W. Olcott in the ranks of the Knights of Columbus, who sought to initiate him. The candidate balked at taking the oath of the order, and retired from the Portland lodge uninitiated.

Phelps is out in the Protestant lecture field, and interspersed his address with witty anecdotes that illustrated his points. At other times he hurled his facts with dramatic vehemence that brought vigorous response from the audience.

W. O. Woollever introduced Mr. Phelps, and closed with an appeal to Protestants to further encourage such speakers.

ARMORY BUILDING IS RAPIDLY RISING

The new state armory building is rapidly nearing a state where the roof will be put on, in case bad weather does not prevent. The contractors have been fortunate in the extraordinary weather this fall and the contract will doubtless be finished on time, which is February 1 according to the terms.

TILLAMOOK BAY KEY FOR DEVELOPMENT

Vast Forests of Timber to Be Moved in Very Near Future

BAR INTEREST CENTER

All Interests Should Cooperate in Obtaining Needed Deep Water Work

Western News Syndicate Special
Recently we stood upon the top of a hill southeast of this city, and looked eastward at the vast expanse of fir, hemlock and spruce that crowned the nearby portions of the Trask watershed, and turning to our companion, a prominent timberman of this section, made inquiry: "How long will it be before this great body of timber is moved to market?"

The timberman smiled: "It will not be long before it will begin to move."

"But, how," inquired the first speaker. "There are now no railroads building in here to take it out."

"When the owners get ready to move it, they will construct their own railroads, and take it to the bay," said the timberman.

"Then the moving of these great tracts will not depend upon railroad extensions into the Tillamook country?"

"No; an operator who is able to manufacture his timber, is also able to build his own railroads to tide water. If we can get the necessary bar and harbor improvements on Tillamook bay, there will be a movement in timber in this county that will sur-

TILLAMOOK STUDENT OUT FOR BASKETBALL

Oregon Agriculture College, Corvallis, Nov. 4.—Hubert E. Mathews, a Tillamook man attending the college, is out for freshman basketball. Mathews is one of 71 basket shooters who appeared in basketball clothes for the opening practice of the year. When the active season starts the squad will be cut to about 20 men.

Some of the yearlings out for the first practice showed promise of making real basketball players, and of being real assets to future Oregon Aggie hoop teams, according to Coach R. H. "Bob" Hager. The coach expects more freshmen out for the first year team this season than ever before.

STEINBACH SHOPS WILL CONSOLIDATE

Wheeler Plant to be Brought Here and Manufacture of Gas Donkeys Started

The Steinbach iron works of this city will soon consolidate the Wheeler foundry and machine shop with the local plant.

Workmen are now getting the Wheeler plant ready for removal to this city. A new building has been constructed here for the machinery from the shop up north, and work here will be concentrated on the manufacture of the new Steinbach engine to be attached to Fordson tractors. Mention of this invention was made in a former issue of the Headlight. Since that time, three donkeys have been made, and one has been sold, at Booten Springs in this county. Many inquiries have been received concerning the new donkey, and it is believed, that it will be in good demand.

Five men are now at the Hovett logging company near Adair, in this county, working on a logging engine which was recently wrecked on the camp road. The work will require a month to put the locomotive in good operating order.

HOME OF CHAS. WELLS DESTROYED FRIDAY

The large two story frame farm house, belonging to Charles Wells four miles east on the highway out of town, was totally destroyed by fire at about 12:30 Friday afternoon. The attic was well ablaze when the occupants, Bob Neilsen and family, discovered smoke coming down the stairway leading to the upper room.

The alarm was sent to the fire department in this city, and the big Stutz engine was soon on the way, making a hair-raising run. Once at the scene of the fire, which by this time had practically enveloped the whole building, the city firemen discovered that they could not connect with water at the Tillamook river, owing to the steep banks. The wells on the place also were practically dry, so that beyond exhausting the contents of the hand chemical tank and the Babcock extinguisher, nothing could be done to check the fire, which soon left nothing but the chimney standing.

Chief Coates is of the opinion that the fire originated from a defective flue, in the attic, and thus spread.

C. S. Wells, the owner, is reported to be quite ill, and lives in another house on the place.

It is said that it would cost over $5,000 to replace the burned building, at this time. The Hartford agency at this place has a policy of $3,000 on the property. Very little, if any of the house contents were saved.

CRANBERRY CROP BIG IN TILLAMOOK COUNTY

The Atkinson cranberry marsh has been very productive this year, and the berries are meeting with a good demand from the grocery stores in this city. The cranberries this year are remarkably fine in appearance, and are unusually large. The cranberry crop is rapidly increasing in this county, with a ready sale for the product.

LODGEMEN UPSET WHILE ON WAY HERE

Last Tuesday evening about 7 o'clock, the Portland-McMinnville-Tillamook stage, containing a jolly bunch of McMinnville Odd Fellows to the number of 23—note the numeral: 23—upset at a turn on the surfaced road about five miles east of this city, while seeking to avoid another car, and the stage piled up against an embankment, on one side.

No one was hurt, but as the doors of the stage were all on the side of the car that rested upon the embankment, the passengers were forced to crawl through one of the stage windows, one by one, to terra firma. Nothing daunted, the lodgemen were conveyed by the stage company to Tillamook in time to take part in the lodge ceremonies and festivities, none the worse for the accident. The next time, however, they will make the number 22 or 24. Some of the boys think the hoodoo number was responsible for the upset.

ROAD COMMITTEE ASKED TO MEETING

A committee composed of H. H. Rosenberg, G. A. Reher and C. I. Clough has been asked by the Forest Grove commercial club to meet with that organization next Monday for the purpose of discussing the Wilson river road project.

Washington county people have been very enthusiastic about getting the new highway through and were instrumental in having the recent survey made.

FAIR GROUND SURVEY FOLLOWS ELECTION

Board Meets and Considers Problems of Future Construction

FOLLOW STOCK SHOW

One-Mill Tax Passed by Substantial Majority, Indicating Favor of Improvement

Following the voting of the one mill tax for fair improvements at the recent special election, the county fair board held a meeting in the circuit court rooms in the court house last Wednesday, and talked over plans for initial improvement of the new fair grounds which comprise altogether a tract of ninety acres.

After a short session in which matters were tentatively discussed, the board went out to the new fair grounds where they inspected the area with a view to the probable location of the buildings. Stanley Coates, county surveyor, it is understood, will soon begin a survey of the grounds, in accordance with suggestions made by the board members.

From what could be learned of the intentions of the board, it is believed that the fair buildings will be patterned after the International stock show plan, and that all of the buildings will be connected, and practically under one roof. This idea seems to meet with favor, it is understood, with the board.

It is believed that an ample race course will also be surveyed, and that it will be made large enough to induce the owners of fast horses in their several classes, to come over and furnish some real amusement for fair goers.

The majority for the one mill tax was substantial, and leads to the belief that a majority of the taxpayers of the county believe that the fair is an important factor in giving publicity to stock, farm and other interests in this county, and therefore, should be continued. The matter was put squarely to the people, and their votes decided, and is an example of majority rule. The demand evidently was for a larger and better fair, which can be had only by improvement of the new grounds.

Big Events in the Lives of Little Men

CLOVERDALE GIRL HAS DISAPPEARED

Portland, Ore., Nov. 13 (Special)—Lois Cochran, 17-year old daughter of J. A. Cochran of Cloverdale, Oregon, disappeared Thursday morning while on her way to classes at the Franklin high school from the home of her sister, Mrs. Harold Epplett, 1085 East Sherman street.

The Cochran home at Cloverdale was burned several weeks ago and the parents of Lois and Mrs. Epplett had been staying at the Epplett home here.

The girl was of quiet habits and it is not thought that she left her home voluntarily, the abduction theory being considered most likely. Detectives are working on the case.
