THE CIRCUIT RIDER

There were no more self sacrificing nor earnest men than the circuit riders of the Pacific northwest. These rustic pastors served a country that has become an empire, and laid the cultural foundations of three States, but it would seem that their very names have been buried with them. Oregon, Washington and Idaho were settled by sturdy, home loving people, not by adventurers or goldseekers. Such people founded homes for their families, lived righteously and called their ministers to their aid.
In all this vast area towns were few and small but each town had its church. The circuit rider would start from his home at stated times, and on horseback, by canoe or even on foot, make his roadless way to the settlements, landings, and scattered houses of the outposts of civilization. He carried primarily religion, together with advice, admonition and often the law and physicians services, and physicians services.

Through the wet forests of the coast, to the arid plains of the east, these men were welcomed or dreaded as their hosts were just or unjust. Many a prominent man of to-day, owes his prominence to the help of these pioneer clergymen.
The father of R. A. Booth of Salem, was a circuit rider. Mr. Booth has commissioned A. Phimister Procter to make a bronze statue of an equestrian circuit rider, in memory of his parent and the other pioneer missionaries. The governor has accepted the offer on the part of the state and assigned the statue a place in the capitol grounds at Salem. The dedication date will be set soon.

Mr. Booth has offered a prize of one hundred dollars for the best poem on the subject of the circuit rider. The competition rules have been drawn and limit the contest to the residents of Oregon, Washington and Idaho.

MY PATIENT AND I ONLY ARE ON TRIAL

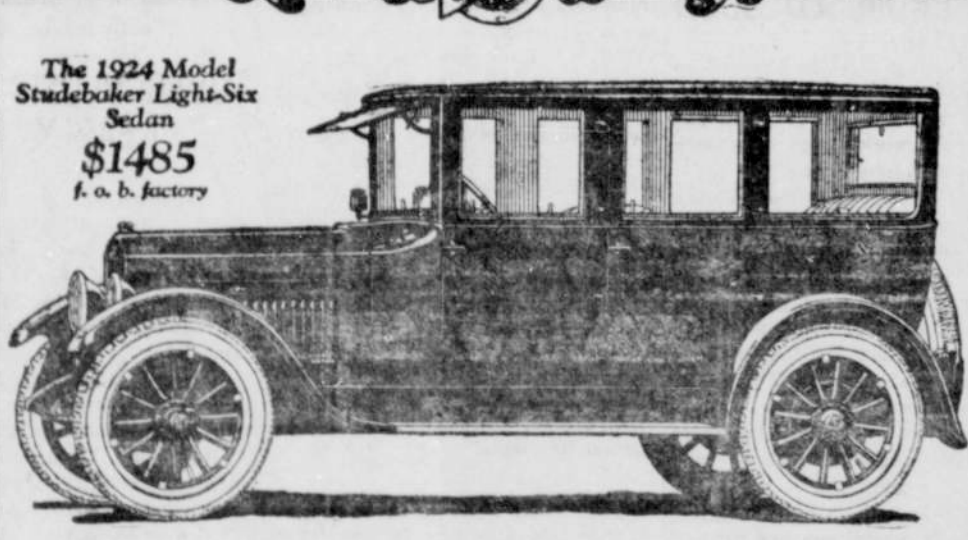

"One minute essays on health by Dr. H. L. Babo"

Uncle Ben Says: "Time and tide wait for no man, Nephew, and besides that, if you're late, you are apt to get caught in the undertow and drown."
In every case I take, there are three things. First there is chiropractic, second there is the chiropractor and third, there is the patient. Chiropractic is not on trial. It has succeeded. Yes, even in a case like yours.
The only ones on trial are my patients and myself. I can lay down the rules that must be observed, I can apply the principles of spinal adjustment with intelligence and skill, and yet fail, because the patient has not given full co-operation. This is primarily the patient's fault, but it is also mine. Come prepared to do your part.

Chiropractic spinal adjustments have restored health to sufferers from diseases of the eyes, ears, nose, throat, lungs, heart, stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels and lower organs.

In addition to the deals recently is said that there is a crew of loggers working under the direction of the Northern Pacific railroad along the Willamette river west of Elk creek and the north fork Willamette. This is thought to be the purpose of determining the amount of timber for assessments for road building purposes.
It has long been a recognized fact that the timber along the Willamette river would have to be moved out of the fire of 1918, which aged a large portion of the timber in that vicinity.
