NEWSPAPER ASSOCIATION MEMBER, NO. 5299

The county was to vote on a bond issue which would cross-cut it with hard roads. At a public meeting in the county seat the arguments presented from the forum were largely directed against the issue of bonds, based on the higher taxes which would be paid and the fact that "we already have all we can pay."

The chairman was an anti-bond advocate. After a pro-bond speech, to which he listened with ill-concealed impatience, he called Farmer Jones to his feet. "You tell 'em, Brother Jones," he said. "You would be heavily taxed, and yet you wouldn't be within a quarter of a mile of the road." Turning to a lieutenant he smiled. "He'll tell 'em, too! I've heard him talk before. He's hot against extra taxes for roads!" "Friends," began Farmer Jones,

"fo years I have fought good roads at county expense. I was wrong. I'm here to tell you why. Last winter my little girl got sick. She was awful sick. I got the doctor on the telephone and he said he'd be right out. It took him eight hours to get to the house. He got mired in down by the horse pond. When he got there it was too late. My little girl choked to death with diphtheria. My road tax might have cost me fifty dollars a year for a few years; and I'd have a daughter. I saved the money... and bought a tombstone with it, and the roads are just as bad as ever. I'm for the bond issue, and when the road is built, I'll build my own quarter of a mile of road so I can get to it. I've still got two children." The bond issue was passed.

From the fourteenth to eighteenth of January there will be held in Chicago, the greatest exhibition of road machinery, materials, and methods ever staged in the history of road making. It is difficult to estimate the importance of such a great exposition, either from the standpoints of the intimate contact thus made possible between makers of machinery and maker of material can not but aid both to do better work. The bringing together of so many different ways of road making must be of incalculable value to the road buyer; the county and State engineer, and the road supervisor, and the taxpayer.

But perhaps the greatest benefit from this mutual contact of the forces which are behind the good road, is in the laying before the country, the magnitude of the effort involved and showing forth to the world what progress has been made in the hard surface highway idea. Twenty years ago, before the automobile was more than a toy, the road idea was dead. "We didn't need roads. The roads we had were good enough. To spend money for roads was foolish. The railroads gave all the transportation necessary. Roads were merely an expense, a luxury, not an asset!" Such arguments were common. There were no road builders, there was no road building industry. Today there are thousands of engineers, hundreds of firms making hard road building machinery and products for hard road making, and there is not a State uninterested in modern highways, not a county which isn't talking good roads, not a farmer who doesn't realize the need of them.

This great road exposition is a reflection of the times, and the sentiment which is behind roads; hard roads, the sort of roads which minimize the hauling cost and give the maximum of speed and intercommunication. The road exposition at the Coliseum, in Chicago, is more than an exhibit; it is monument to the modern idea of transportation.

COUNTY WARRANTS ARE NOT BEING SOLD

An interesting fact regarding the esteem in which the county warrants are being held was brought to light this week when it was learned that one local man, wishing to invest $2500 in what he considered good paper, spent three weeks trying to buy county warrants at 97 1-2 cents. After the three-week period he had accumulated about $107 worth. People who have been paid the county warrants do not seem to be in any hurry to dispose of them, and apparently consider them as good as currency.

officials toward the plan is a statement of E. Arthur Ball, department commander for Indiana, that while the Legion views any suggestion for universal peace with interest and with hope, the members will at all times be wary of any idea which may tend to compromise national honor or be in variance with what they were taught by the experiences in the mud of Flanders. Other officials declare that "Any plan the Legion may approve ought to be workable."
