A serious accident to a little two year old child of E. E. When he drove the car out, the child was not near, but as he started to back in again for some reason, he was attracted by the exclamations of his wife, and stopped, but not until the little one had been knocked down by the back part of the auto, and somewhat bruised. A second or two later the machine must have passed over the child, with what results may be conjectured. How the baby got out there so quickly, is what puzzles Mr. Hoffman.

MANY AUTOMOBILES VISIT ON NESTUCCA

Last Sunday, a Tillamook man counted three hundred autos parked along the Nestucca from Valley points. The owners of the vehicles were over to catch Steelheads, and if they didn't catch them it was not the fault of the fishes, as the river seemed well stocked with that species of fish. Some complaint has been voiced by dairymen and farmers of that section on account of the habit many of the fishermen have of throwing down fences, leaving gates open that lead to stock pastures, and other acts that do no set well with the farmers of Nestucca. Every Sunday sees a big crowd from the valley on that stream, and many fish are taken away by the outside sportsmen. Portland is especially well represented on such occasions. It is understood that a big garage is being constructed at Wheeler, and that other improvements have been outlined for the near future, based upon the proposed completion of the Brighton-Jetty creek gap in the Roosevelt highway, and there is a feeling of depression on account of the probable delay in closing the above gap in many quarters.
