SOLDIER APPLICANTS ARE REPORTED MANY

At the close of business December 31, 1922, the Oregon state bonus commission had received 33,655 applications from ex-service men, of which number 22,312 elected to receive the cash bonus, while 11,343 accepted the loan feature of the law.

The last legislature amended the bonus law so that ex-service men who accepted the cash bonus under a misapprehension as to their rights could, upon so proving, refund the amount of cash received and take advantage of the loan. This privilege expired December 31, of last year, and on that date 25 of these applications were approved by the commission. Of the 255 applications authorized 27 had filed their loan applications, and the remaining applicants will have until June 30, 1927, to complete their loan applications.

There were 19,745 cash bonus payments authorized during 1922, aggregating $4,464,270. These bonus payments averaged $226 each. A total of 1603 bonus payments were made during 1923, aggregating $312,705, and averaging $195 each. Cash bonuses authorized up until December 31, 1923, aggregated 4,776,975. This was the last date for filing these applications.

Administrative expenses from July 1, 1921, to December 31, 1923, follow: July 1, 1921, to December 31, 1921, $27,492.25; January 1, 1922, to December 31, 1922, $87,928.87; January 1, 1923, to December 31, 1923, $46,077.10.

Although the number of cash bonus claims paid in 1922 exceeded by 18, 142 those in 1923, and the loans paid in 1922 were greater by 656 than those paid in 1923, the examination details connected with the 1923 claims were numerous and more complicated than in 1922. Despite this, however, the work of the department in 1923 was conducted with a force of clerks much smaller than in the year 1922.

The commission has authorized and instituted foreclosure proceedings on 17 delinquent loans with the following results: Bid in by state on foreclosure sale, 4; Bid in by state, non-leased, 1; Bid in by state and sold without loss or gain to the state, 1; Delinquency paid up prior to actual foreclosure, 4; Foreclosure proceedings suspended account of negotiating sale, 2; Foreclosures pending, 5; Total, 17.

It was pointed out by Major Simpson, acting secretary of the bonus commission, that, while the statement shows that the commission instituted foreclosure proceedings involving 17 properties, the state has only five of these on hand and security is abundant to protect the loans.

The total number of loans made to December 31, 1922, was 2833, amounting to $7,145,800. Total number of loans in 1923 was 2117, amounting to $5,155,700. The total amount loaned to December 31, 1923, was $12,301,500.—Pacific Legion.

FROM OUR EXCHANGES

J. L. Ketch of Tillamook who recently owned a rooming house in Sheridan was in town last week with F. Beals, also a Tillamook man. They were negotiating a trade of the rooming house now owned by E. H. Worthington for the old James Booth farm above Willamina. The deal was closed according to reports. Mr. Beals will make many needed improvements in the place, which is located at the corner of Main and Bridge street.—Sheridan correspondent in McMinnville News Reporter.

A. G. Beals of Tillamook, has signified his intention to run for the republican nomination of joint senator from Tillamook, Washington, Yamhill and Lincoln counties. Mr. Beals is a resident of Tillamook.—Sheridan Sun.

The Sheridan Creamery now is making two trips weekly to Tillamook with products of the creamery and Sheridan farmers, which means a cash return to Sheridan of $1000. The creamery is also finding an outlet for its surplus ice cream at Tillamook.—Sheridan Sun.

There is a general revival of land clearing operations in Washington county this season, due largely to the distribution of war salvage powder by the government. Over 56 tons of this war explosive have already been ordered and distributed to 250 or more farmers. A fourth carload is being assembled. A part of the new land cleared will be planted to walnuts and filberts.—Oregon Farmer.

Like a family quarrel in which bias and prejudice are permitted to run rampant and rule over reason, the Oregonian, a widely read and respected newspaper, has engaged in a sorry political controversy with Governor Pierce over prohibition issues that is bound to benefit neither but certainly will seriously impair, hamper or retard prohibition enforcement in the state. The Oregonian asserts its defense of a legal principle; the governor a moral. The Oregonian has arrayed against the governor discordant elements among the district attorneys of the state who are employed if not peeved because the governor has seen fit to send special prosecutors into various counties. The Oregonian, in its enthusiasm for its cause, has brought into play other interests antagonistic to the governor and his state prohibition enforcement officers, the effect being to discredit both. Mr. Pierce has retaliated indirectly. The episodes have resolved into mud slinging. Yet the principles both defend are not irreconcilable. But the destructive criticism continues. In the name of common sense and in behalf of the respect we all should have for the prohibition law, let destructive criticism be paralyzed into permanent silence.—Sheridan Sun taken over by the city on a lien for the unpaid costs of the above mentioned pavement improvements. Witnesses also testified that the property after pavement improvements was no more valuable than before the improvements were made.

A large number of witnesses were examined both for and against the plaintiff, whose object is to have the court set aside the legality of the Third street improvements for reasons named in the complaint. The judge will decide upon the evidence and the law in the case, no jury having been summoned. Numerous exhibits from the records of the city were filed in the case by the city's attorneys.

The attorneys appearing for the city are Barrick & Hall, and Roy F. Shields, assistant chief counsel for the Union Pacific railroad company. For the plaintiff, attorney T. H. Goynes is playing a lone hand, and is making a hard fight for the interests of his client.

Should the court decide in favor of the plaintiff, it will put the city in rather a bad position insofar as the Third street improvements are concerned, as there are several cases similar to that of Austin, who have property of the same street.

The costs of the improvements now under fire, aggregate many thousands of dollars, owing to the several liens that have been foreclosed, the property and title of which may be affected in case Austin wins his case. Austin claims, it is understood, that the property was improved on other than the correct street lines and grades, which the city introduced witnesses to attempt to disprove.

The termination of the case is awaited with considerable interest by the city public. The court room has been well filled during the hearing of the case.

THE DAYS OF THE WAGON TRIP

Geo. W. Phelps of Netarts, was in the city Friday. Mr. Phelps came to Tillamook county in 1882, when Tillamook was making butter for shipment to Portland by wagons, instead of making cheese to go forward by train. In 1883 he went to Netarts and established a store and hotel, and was among the first to open a sea-side resort. For many years farmers from the valley drove into Netarts in wagons and buggies, and camped, and had a first-rate time. And there are many who believe that they enjoyed the outings of that date more than the whizzity-bang auto trips of today, when most of the time of the outer is spent driving from one beach to another. One thing is true in that regard. The coast visitors got more physical rest than they do now days and went home better satisfied.

IF YOU LOSE YOUR HEALTH DON'T LOOK—

"One minute essays on health by Dr. H. L. Babu"

Uncle Ben Says:

"Before marriage a man yearns for a wife, and afterward he earns for a wife."

If you lost your health don't look for it to return unexpectedly. Health is only recovered by effort and sacrifice. If you make mistakes trying to locate the road back, you may suffer needlessly long.

Chiropractors say that disease is caused by disturbed alignment of the spinal vertebrae, causing pressure on spinal nerves, and reduced function in some organ of the body. You can easily find out whether this is true in your case and save time playing with other methods when only the spinal correction can restore a healthful condition in your case.

Chiropractic spinal adjustments have restored health to sufferers from diseases of the eyes, ears, nose, throat, lungs, heart, stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels and lower organs.
