

SOME CHEESE IS STORED

been placed in storage during the earlier part of the summer when the market dropped to 23 cents. The secretary reported that the market at present is three cents lower than at this time last year on account of Wisconsin influences.

The new loaf cheese has increased greatly in popularity, it was reported, and the Tillamook factories are now prepared to turn out 2,100 of these cheeses daily. The triplets and the loaf are the two styles now being made by the association.

The invasion of California markets by an inferior grade of Idaho cheese, sometimes selling as low as 20 cents, was brought to notice of the association. It was stated at the meeting that this invasion must be fought by raising the quality of the local product to such a degree that Tillamook can maintain the advantage.

One event of the year for the creamery association was the purchase of eight lots in this city to be used for warehouse and dockage purposes. A large warehouse has also been erected and equipped at a cost of about $10,000.

Secretary Haberlach stated that 1924 is beginning to show a considerable increase in production over last year and that prices will be at least as good this year as last, with a reduction in the cost of feed.

F. W. Christensen, cheese inspector for the association, reported that seconds for the past year had shown a decrease, 3,065 being in triplets, 59 in Americas and 572 in loaf. Mr. Christensen stated that 38 per cent of the seconds were made in the month of July, and lays the blame on the hurry and rush of the haying season. The creamery association in September passed a resolution requiring all evening's milk to be cooled, with the result in the following four months there were less than 200 triplets reported as seconds, said Mr. Christensen.

The high scores of Tillamook makers at the various exhibitions on the coast was remarked by the cheese inspector.

The same officers were retained by the association for another year, W. H. Christensen, Oretown, president; T. W. Lyster, South Prairie, vice-president; Carl Haberlach, secretary-salesman; and F. W. Christensen, inspector.

THIS STORY NOT FIT TO PRINT IN JOURNAL

A Journal reader handed in the following story, but in our judgment it is not fit to be published in this paper:

One day, not so long ago, a man from this town was out hunting. During the day a rainstorm came on. In order to keep dry he crawled into a hollow log. When the rain began to fall the log began to swell, until he got pinched so tight he could move neither way. He thought of all the wrongs he had done, and when he recalled that he had not paid his subscription to the Journal he felt so small that he crawled right out of the log without any trouble at all.

Now there really are some Journal subscribers who haven't paid up, and who know they may want to go hunting too some time, so we will please ask you not to read this story; it's no good for us.—Buffalo County Journal, Wisconsin.

Each county game club is entitled to one representative or delegate to this annual state meeting, where discussion is had along various lines.

G. E. Simmons of Eugene was chosen president of the association for the ensuing year.

FROM OUR EXCHANGES

The family of Ed C. Dunn moved to Tillamook last week, where Mr. Dunn has acquired an interest in a grocery store.—Dallas Itemizer.

Commissioners Wismer and Livermore met with members of the county courts of Yamhill and Tillamook counties at Tillamook last Friday and conferred regarding the survey of the Trask route which is proposed for the coming season. Washington county has paid a part of the expense of the survey of the Wilson river route, but feels that as both Yamhill and Tillamook are inclined to favor the Trask if a practicable route can be found, that the survey expenses should be spread out. It was finally decided that the matter be laid before the state highway commission at its meeting this month and endeavor made to secure assistance or have the state make the survey.—Hillsboro Independent.

FOREST FIRES IN 1923

The following is taken from the report of the state Forester for 1923, which will be found interesting to many of our readers:

A total of 886 fires was reported as occurring on forest-type located outside the boundaries of national forests.

Following is a classification of fires as to their origin: incendiary, 112; logging, 93; lightning, 156; lightning, 135; hunters, 12; burning, 76; campers, 72; workers, 9; berry pickers, 5; men, 5; miscellaneous, 32; unknown, 10.

Of the total number of fires 1 per cent were caused by lightning and 99 per cent by the carelessness or thoughtlessness of man and were preventable.

During the fire season the acreage was unusually free from fires and the lookouts were therefore to function most efficiently. High percentage of visibility both by day and night resulted in the early detection and suppression of fires while in their incipient stages, preceding ten acres in size.

The efficiency of the season's work is demonstrated by the fact that with nearly the average number of fires occurring all were confined to an area 40 per cent less than the annual burned-over acreage for the past twelve years. The total loss of all property destroyed amounted to $189,462.76, a reduction of $235,000 from that sustained in 1922 forest fires. Following is a breakdown of the property lost:

Amount merchantable timber killed, 20,761 M. B. F.; Amount killed timber salvageable, 13,582 M. B. F.; Amount fire killed timber salvageable, 7,179 M. B. F.; Net merchantable timber valued at $639.35; Net loss of logs and all logging equipment, 134,000 M. B. F.; Loss of all other improvements, 581.91.

The air for a couple of days week has been suggestive of spring. Daffodils, the earliest to bloom, are in flower, and willows have been in bud for some time past. The twenty-first of February is the beginning of Spring. The rains have added a deeper green to the pastures in the fields, and caused the lawns of the city to be their prettiest. Birds that were here in the summer are re-appearing from their winter homes in the north and altogether there is a feeling we shall have an early spring. Few of the townsmen have already begun early garden planting.
