

WILL IMPROVE BEACH

and larger store building, in which a confectionery and a new soda fountain will be installed. Still another improvement for this year has been decided upon, by the proprietors, which will consist of an electric light system, for which Wm. Cheney of this city, has the contract. It will be operated by a gasoline motor, and will be ample in its power to light the whole beach city and the streets, to what it is believed will be, a satisfactory extent. And don't tell anybody we told you—but there is a possibility that a big white screen will be tacked to the perpendicular south wall of Maxwell Point, and that upon this screen will be thrown entertaining pictures twice a week at night, during the tourist season. This will be something novel, but the Rosenbergs propose to make of Oceanside a real amusement center, plus its natural assets of scenic beach, its woodland trails, waterfalls, caves, agate treasures; still plus its big off-shore rock aviary of strange and wonderful seabirds, its menagerie of sea-lions, which give impromptu performances every day in the year, rain or shine.

By their recent purchase of "Short Beach," to the north along the coast, consisting of fifty acres of shore line and upland, they now have four hundred acres in the Oceanside playground, including mountain scenery, picturesque old trails, springs, streams, rivulets, and a source of pure mountain water for domestic use, wild canyons, roaring creeks, and stately trees. And there is the "old light-house trail," consisting of a mile and a half of wonderland; and when the new suspension bridge is put in over Short Beach creek, the trip will be lengthened to include Cape Mears light-house, completing a most wonderful panorama of big trees, locally historic side-trails, beautiful ferns, and many species of forest flowers indigenous to the west coast, that mingle with the native grasses, and attract the nature lover, thus adding a new world to the tired professional or business man from the drudgery of city life, who comes over to the beach for rest and recreation.

The Rosenbergs are not resort "grabbers." The farmer or dairyman, the workman, the business man—all may come and spend the day on their big playground without charge. No fee for parking; no charge for a rustic table upon which to spread your dinner; and all are welcome. If you pitch your tent and stay all night or a week, you pay a small fee; otherwise you can spend the whole day without paying a cent on the grounds, if you do not want to.

Water is piped to the grounds from a pure mountain creek; and last year the health authorities of the state pronounced Oceanside "absolutely sanitary." Garbage cans are kept on the grounds, and at all houses and tents, and cleanliness is insisted upon, and excuses do not go. At convenient places, campers and tourists will find out-door fireplaces where they can make coffee and cook their meals.

Among the owners of fine cottages at Oceanside, are the following:

Miss Grace Hobbs and Miss Swafford, both high school teachers of Portland. Their cottage has five rooms; Dr. Frank Menne, five room cottage, Portland; the Carrick four room cottage; J. H. Rosenberg, six room cottage; John Linberg, six room cottage; H. H. Rosenberg, four room cottage; Dr. Elmer Allen, five room cottage, and others. Frank Brown, a prominent stockman of Carlton, is building a pretty eight room bungalow, with a garage; and Lloyd Edwards of this city, is also having built a neat four room bungalow.

Worthy of special mention, also are the twenty-two for rent cottages and tent-houses owned by Allen & Fleming, the former a dentist of this city, and the latter a former resident of McMinnville. The cottages are well furnished for light-housekeeping, and are kept scrupulously neat and sanitary, and are fitted with good mattresses and springs, insuring real comfort. Water is piped to hand, with other modern conveniences. In front of their houses, the parking strips have been planted to sweet peas, gladiolus, dahlias, tulips and other popular floral growths, which will make their summer residences doubly inviting to tenants.

It is learned that many new Oceanside homes will arise this summer, as many lots have been purchased for that purpose, and numerous letters inquiring relative to building, have been received from prospective builders already this year.

The proprietors expect to clear up underbrush, and open new camping places along the old government roadway through their grounds, thus affording pleasant drives and inviting stopping places for the day. Numerous springs will be made available along this mountain road, which commands a fine view of the beach panorama far below. A suspension bridge over "Short beach" creek will allow pedestrians to visit the Cape Mears light house this year, which is about two miles distant over the old light house road, from the beach town. The scenery along this route is, without exception, the finest on the coast, say visitors who have passed over it. It combines the mountains, the waterfalls, the gorge of Short Beach creek, the light-house, Three Arch Rocks, and the vast expanse of ocean—all in one trip. And then there is the trip at low tide down to "Lost Boy Cave," one of the natural curiosities of the Tillamook coast, including Agate, Moonstone and Short beaches, all within the Oceanside ownership. The beautiful Oceanside Falls on Short beach, alone, is worth the trip. There also is the silvery falls near the light-house. On the south side of Cave mountain is Hermit Rock, a stately beach eminence, which is reached by a trail leading down from the old government road. It stands a treelined sentinel at the south approach to Short beach, and is an example of the eroding processes of the ever restless tides of the ocean.

On Moonstone beach is the popular suspension bridge that connects with Neptune Rock from the mainland, over the sea. At high tide, one stands directly over the surf, and the detached rock furnishes a fine place for fishing. There also is a fine place for fishing beyond that point on the slope of Cave mountain.

The attractions of the Oceanside beach resort are so varied and numerous, that to keep within the restriction of newspaper space, is well nigh impossible. Nature furnished all the attractions at Oceanside, and the proprietors are merely adding the human conveniences to enjoy it under modern life conditions.

SUNDAY DESECRATION AT TWIN PEAKS

There was revelry in our neighborhood one Sunday afternoon, when twenty kids and kiddesses, danced to a social tune,—

Which Billy Jones he played upon, an old tin flageolet; And say! Things was a doing there, you could safely bet. Clint Perkins bowed and balanced to little Hetty Green; And Sam Akers promenaded with black-eyed Susie Green; Joe Higgins he do-ce-deoed with Osie Anna Glass; While Muller's boy, he swung around with the Newcombe lass. O, wasn't it plumb lovely, till that rough-neck Parker guy, Got jealous of Clint Perkins, 'and soaked him on the eye? The girls all climbed upon the fence, to watch the gory fray, While the boys got in and "mixed it," at the close of that fair day. Bill Jones he took his flageolet, and smashed it sleek and clean, Upon the tow-white noodle of Salamander Green; And Clint Perkins and the Parker boy, they rolled upon the lot; But Clint he finally licked him,—

THE IMPORTANCE OF CHILDREN

"One minute essays on health by Dr. H. L. Babb"

Uncle Ben Says:

"The ideal of most fellows, nevvys, is to earn a million before thirty, and spend forty years waiting for the end."

The children of today are the things of most importance. In them lies the hope of the future. The mistakes of this generation may be corrected in the next by the children of today.

This being true, the future health and well being of a child cannot be neglected unless we sin, not only against the helpless but against society. Let's see that the children's bodies and spines are given proper care.

Chiropractic spinal adjustments have restored health to sufferers from diseases of the eyes, ears, nose, throat, lungs, heart, stomach, liver, kidneys, bowels and lower organs.

cause he was heavier set. And the tin-cans and the brickbats and the chunks of old dried mud, found marks upon the actors, with dull, resounding thud. Then Smith's little Johnny boy, got Sidney Ashton down, And sat astride his stomach, and acted up the clown. Till Sally Ashton's blood arose,—no more she couldn't bear, And enterin' of the fracas, she grabbed the Smith boy's hair. Then other budding ladies took, full hands in the game. Till that fair and balmy Sunday, was all botched up with shame. O, while the battle lasted it was bloody,—and the hair, That was jerked out by the handful, it nearly filled the air. There were cries and imprecations, wicked thuds and panting breaths; But with all the awful carnage there were scarcely any deaths. How long it would have lasted, no mortal could presage; Had not some one shouted "Marsh-all!" sad would have been the page. They scattered like young chickens, to the shelter of the coop. Till no warrior on the battle-field, was left to sound his whoop. Out in the gentle zephyrs, red hairs, strayed with golden brown, And the shocked sun set so sadly, in the west end of our town.

HIGH SCHOOL

(By High School Reporter)

The Sophomore class gave the Seniors a very lovely party last Friday evening in the gym. After many interesting games and songs the Sophomore president, John Gienger, called the attention of the guests to the fact that they were to adjourn to Mrs. Heyd's room. There they found the room very beautifully decorated and a veritable banquet awaiting them. After the repast, which was served by girls from the Sophomore class, John Gienger, as toastmaster, called upon Coach Sheeley, Prof. Bennett, Mrs. Heyd, Senior Class sponsor, Joseph Maxwell, and Eugene Hamrick, Senior president, all of whom expressed their appreciation of the Sophomore efforts. The Seniors all feel that this party eclipses any tribute tendered them thus far in their high school career.

Saturday proved to be a very poor sort of a day for the high school picnic, but a few, namely, Arline, Joe, Hubert and Erma set forth for Oceanside and when questioned Monday, declared that they had had a "lovely time." We suppose they did.

The student body enjoyed very much a talk on "Character Building in Athletics," given last week by Sam Dolan of O. A. C. Lowell Edwards also from that school, was present at the same time and made a few remarks. Other visitors to T. H. S. were Hubert Mathews and Henry Boschler both from O. A. C. and Rodney Farley from University of Oregon.

Two interclass basketball games have been played. Monday the Seniors, with the aid of Coach Sheeley, won 8-0 from the Juniors. Last week the Juniors won 3-0 from the rest of the high school. The Senior girls are wondering what Monday's victory was due to, and have formulated an opinion.

The More Durable Semi-flat Tread

Under weight the massive tread on these big oversize C-T-C hand-built low inflation cords compresses into a greater wear-resisting mass.

With this scientific semi-flat tread the natural "hinge" is thrown up into the body of the tire instead of occurring near the junction of sidewalls and tread where extreme bending more easily causes separation. Mark the powerful sloping buttress to each giant traction block. This prevents tearing loose by stress or blow.

There is also a C-T-C hand-built balloon tire for extreme low inflation, which fits any standard wheel and rim. C-T-C Tubes add mileage to almost any casing.
