CATTLE HOOF DISEASE BROT UNDER CONTROL

CATTLE ORDERED KILLED

Tillamook Farmers Asked Not to Hire Help Which Might Have Come from California

(Contributed to the Headlight) Checks for February milk will be out on the 22nd of the month. There has been some delay due to the fact that some of the cheese was not sold until about ten days ago.

Practically all of the March cheese has now been shipped; most of this going at 24 and 25 cents, Tillamook. Wisconsin cheese declined Saturday as follows: Twins, 15 1/2 cents; dairies, 15 1/2 cents; and longhorns, 16 cents. It is hoped that the Tillamook prices may be maintained at 24 cents for triplets and 25 cents for loaf, but should Wisconsin show a further decline on Saturday of this week, it will be necessary to decline the Tillamook market further because it would be poor business to permit the Pacific coast markets to be filled with Wisconsin cheese at this time of the year.

Demand for cheese continues heavy from California. Some of the buyers are already commencing to store for next winter's use.

The hoof and mouth disease is at present under better control than it has been for ten days. Carl Haberlach reports having received the following letter, which will give the Tillamook people an idea of the situation in Los Angeles county: "Re: Hoof and Mouth Disease. The situation here briefly is as follows: As you know, cases of the disease appeared in the Los Angeles stock yards about ten days ago, and the federal and state authorities immediately took the necessary steps to prevent spread of the disease, and the customary quarantine regulations were put into effect.

"A few days after this happened it was generally understood that the matter was under control, and in fact, the authorities were on the verge of lifting the quarantine when fresh cases broke out in two dairies near Pasadena, likewise, a large hog ranch in the San Fernando valley. These three herds were immediately destroyed, large trenches dug by steam shovels, and the dead stock buried with quicklime.

"The Globe Milling company, who operate a large stock yard in the southeastern Vernon district just out of the city, found it necessary to destroy their entire herd of cattle steers destroyed. The packing houses ceased all killing operations effective yesterday until further notice, and we understand that some of the Denver packing houses have found traces of the disease, altho we cannot vouch for this.

"Of course, the neighboring states of Nevada, Arizona, and New Mexico have rigid embargos and no goods can be shipped into these states. In a (Continued on page 6)

YOUNG BOOTLEGGERS FINED AND JAILED

Alva Vanderpool, a Garibaldi boy of eighteen years, was arrested on a charge of possession and sale of intoxicating liquor at the above place last Monday. He was arraigned before Justice Stanley last Tuesday and pleaded guilty to the charges, and was fined $150 and sentenced to thirty days in the county jail. He was also taxed with the costs. In case he does not pay out, he will have to be imprisoned until his fine is paid which fine will not exceed 105 days service. In passing sentence upon the youth, Judge Stanley stated that owing to the youth of the boy he would not impose a greater fine. It is believed that the boy was a tool to older persons. It is the old story of good parents, and of bad companions.

ROCKAWAY BEACH READY FOR SUMMER

Buildings are Rising and Ones Now There Being Improved to Accomodate Trade

(By W. J. Schumacher)

Rockaway people are preparing for their summer visitors which are already beginning to arrive. Numerous new cottages are being built to take care of the increasing number of tourists which come to the beaches each season. Several new business houses are also under construction and concessions have most all been let.

The state highway commission is asking for bids to complete the last gap of road on the Roosevelt highway between the Jetty and Brighton in Tillamook county and prospects are that the work will be done before the beginning of summer. With this piece of highway open the road will be shortened by several miles between Rockaway and Seaside. The route will follow the Nehalem bay and will be a beautiful drive.

With the possibilities of the new road at once, several new places are springing up along the route; small stores and garages are being built, also ground is being cleared for auto camps, which heretofore has been very limited on account of the heavy timber. Rockaway will have several acres ready for camp ground before July 1, which in addition to her present ground, will accommodate several hundred automobiles.

The owners of the Manhattan-Tillamook stage line are opening an office in Rockaway. They will run four stages a day connecting at Tillamook with the Portland stages. Tickets will be sold for the entire trip at reduced fares. They will also make connections at Miami with the Seaside stages. With these accommodations passengers can leave Portland and make the complete circle, visiting several beaches on one trip.

They have also bought the boat Phoenix, which was wrecked at Barview during a storm last November, and have fitted her out for an excursion boat. She will have first class accommodations for over sixty passengers. As there is no wharf at Rockaway she will leave from Garibaldi and make regular daily trips.

The dance pavilion will open the first Saturday in May, when it will be under the same management as last year, who announce that they have acquired additional ground and intend to build a substantial addition to their hall to take care of the growing crowds.

The citizens of Rockaway had a very enthusiastic meeting April 10 (Continued on page 2)

BIG LUMBER TRAIN TAKES FIVE ENGINES

On Friday last a long train of lumber left the coast for its trip over the coast range divide for Portland, where all lumber is distributed and routed to the north, south and east. There were two big engines in the front of the train, and three other large mountain climber engines helped to push the long and heavily loaded train up to the summit. The sight seemed to be an unusual one to the people along the road, and many of the residents were out to witness the big wheel caravan of cars on its journey up the heights and over the coast range divide. The writer got the impression that this was the first lumber train to employ so many engines, and that it was to be later a regular feature in the company's transportation methods.

TUESDAY LAST DATE FOR REGISTRATION

Last Tuesday was the last day on which candidates could file. The primaries occur on May 16th, and it is reported that there will be a heavy registration in the county. Tuesday was also the last day for registration. Considerable interest is now being displayed in the coming county primaries, and there promises to be an exciting time at the polls. This is foreshadowed by a heavy registration.

NEXT COUNTRY FAIR ON OLD GROUNDS

Mistake in Budget Makes Necessary Change in 1924 Plans

ERROR IS BLOW TO FAIR

"Who Killed Cock Robin?" is Being Asked by Fair Enthusiasts of County

Owing to the fact that the $28,700 voted for improving the new fair grounds was not placed in the county budget for 1924, that sum will not be available for the purpose for which it was voted, and will not be collected; nor will any one be taxed to pay it. For the reason that the above stated amount was not placed on the tax roll for 1923, the special tax cannot be collected, and the whole item is void.

The failure to have the $28,700 carried to the budget and placed upon the rolls for collection, will render further improvement of the new fair grounds impossible at this time. The only thing left for the fair board to do, is to hold the fair on the old grounds this year, and the board has decided to take this course. Just what it will cost to put the old grounds in condition, has not yet been decided by the board, and will require investigation and estimates, which will later be made.

There remained about $5,000 from the money appropriated in 1920 for the fair, and that fund has been taken care of the improvements on the new grounds, so it is said. The sum of $15,000 for the coming fair was placed in the budget last year, and that amount will be available, too. (Continued on page 4)

LOGGER IS KILLED BY FALLING TREE

A. Haikura, a rigger in the employ of the Wheeler Lumber company, at their north fork camp, was instantly killed by a falling tree early in the morning of the 12th inst., a limb striking him and breaking his neck. His skull was also fractured by the tree. The man was 33 years old, and single. He had been with the company for about seven years when the accident occurred which ended his life. He had relatives in Washington. The remains were taken in charge by the coroner of Clatsop county, the camp being just over in Clatsop county.

COUNTY GAME CLUB INCREASES NUMBER

Contest Adds Over Two Hundred Names to Rolls of Protection Organization

The Tillamook Game and Fish Protective association held a meeting at the city hall last Friday night, which was largely attended.

The matter of the proposed slaughter of the deer of Oregon, which has been advised by some people in the state who are fearful of the spread of the hoof and mouth disease from California to this state, and who believe that deer will be responsible for disease introduction into this state from the California side, was discussed by County Veterinarian J. N. Shaw, who asserted that so far as he knew the disease had never been spread by deer; and the club went on record as being opposed to a wholesale open season for the slaughter of this species of wild game. The club decided that the laws should remain as they are.

A resolution was unanimously adopted pledging the club membership to aid in the protection of wild game and fishes, and in upholding the laws now in existence on that subject. The resolution is practically the (Continued on page 5)

SECOND-HAND DEALER ARRESTED MONDAY

T. B. Turney, who runs a second-hand store in this city was arrested last Monday on a charge of violating a city ordinance which forbids such a dealer to buy articles of any description from a minor. Turney pleaded guilty to the charge, and was fined $15 and the costs, before City Recorder White. The action was based upon the discovery of some water faucets in the store, when Sheriff Aschim, armed with a search warrant, entered the building looking for some similar articles which had been stolen from the fair grounds some months ago. The fair property was not found, but instead the faucets found were identified as the property of Frank Matthews, a contractor in this city. The articles were stolen from premises belonging to Mr. Matthews some time ago. The fair board is still looking for the articles stolen from the buildings on the fair grounds, last winter, but thus far they have not been successful. Some boys or grown ups will get into serious trouble one of these days for molesting property at the fair grounds. Vandalism recently committed on the grounds has been reported, and the authorities are on the watch for the marauders.

FOREST PROTECTION WEEK APRIL 21 TO 27

Movement Originated by President Harding is Carried On

PRESERVATION IS VITAL

Schools and Churches Being Asked to Help in Work of Protection of Natural Resource

(By L. E. Garwood)

In 1921 President Harding issued a proclamation setting aside a week in April for the observance of forest protection. The movement received such favorable comment that in the following years of 1922 and 1923 the same proclamation was sent out over the nation and a great deal of helpful publicity was given this work, through lectures before schools, civic bodies and clubs; motion pictures and various displays of fire fighting equipment were used to bring before the public the ever increasing danger of forest fires and what the subsequent loss means to the community.

This year, President Coolidge has followed the precedent set by President Harding and has asked that the nation observe the week of April 21-27 as forest protection week. To the people of Tillamook county this proclamation should have a double significance. Tillamook county is primarily a timber growing county. Probably not more than 10 per cent of the total area of the county is tillable land. This means that Tillamook will always depend on its natural resource of timber to furnish its pay-rolls and to bear the burden of taxation, that the community may build adequate schools and roads. At the present time, funds raised through (Continued on page 7)

J. C. MCCLURE, BAY CITY OUT FOR COUNTY CLERK

Last Wednesday J. C. McClure of Bay City filed for the primary nomination for County Clerk. Mr. McClure is said to be one of the best book men in the county, and was at one time deputy sheriff of this county. He ran against the present clerk, H. S. Brimhall, and failed by only a few votes of election. His filing at this time was at the request of many friends, who predict that he will make a strong showing at the polls next May. He is well educated, and thoroughly competent; his education having been completed at Willamette University.

WILL BUILD CHURCH, PLAN EPISCOPALIANS

Members Here Anxious to Have Their Own Building and are Making Preparations

(By Fred C. Baker)

Tillamook city will be adorned with another attractive church building and parish house when the present plans of St. Albans mission are carried out, which, it is expected, will be in the near future. St. Albans mission is a branch of the Episcopal church and connected with the diocese of Oregon, of which the Right Rev. W. T. Sumner is the presiding bishop. For several years Archdeacon H. D. Chamber, and then Archdeacon J. C. Black have conducted monthly services in this city, with the result that there is now sufficient interest taken in the mission to justify a building program.

There appears to be quite a number of Episcopalians scattered throughout the county, as well as in this city, and like congregations of other denominations, those who have made their church affiliations with the local mission feel that it is to the best interest of the Episcopal mission to have their own place of worship if that denomination expects to make the same growth and progress as other church organizations are doing in this city.

As Tillamook city will have a big building boom this year, with a large number of pretty, substantial bungalows and business buildings to be erected, the erection of the parish house and church building will also add to the attractiveness of the city and help to induce home seekers to locate here, where there are now quite a number of really attractive and handsome church buildings, the latest to be added to the list is the new Methodist church.

It is often remarked that there are too many church buildings and too many empty pews in small towns like Tillamook, but however that may be persons who contemplate making their home in a city like ours, if they are church goers, look for the church they are affiliated with, so in that respect all churches and church denominations have their attractions and influence where people are looking for new locations, to say nothing of the moral influence and better environments for young people all these church denominations have upon the community at large.

St. Albans mission succeeded in purchasing city property situated at the northeast corner of the intersection of 6th street and 3rd avenue east, where it is proposed to erect the buildings.

It is expected that considerable financial aid will be obtained from (Continued on page 3)

WHITNEY LOGGER HAS ANKLE BROKEN

Lande Darby, an employee at the Whitney company logging camp got one of his feet tangled in a steel line at the camp last Friday; with the result that his right ankle was broken. He was brought to this city immediately after the accident for medical treatment.

WHO IS TO BLAME FOR BUDGET ERROR?

Just Where Fault Lies is being Investigated on Every Corner

EVERYBODY IS BLAMED

Politics Expected to be Changed by Mistake Accredited to Local County Officials

Much agitation was manifest this week when it was learned that the $30,000 which was voted by the taxpayers of this county last November had been left out of the county budget and that this fund could not be collected or the new fair buildings constructed this year.

Just who is to blame for the deficiency is what is puzzling Tillamook people, but quite a number of strong statements have been heard from voters, regarding what they are going to do to certain county officials next election.

The mistake was first discovered a few days ago when Treasurer Mills received some tax money from the sheriff and found that no funds had been collected for the proposed new fair buildings. As a side light on this affair, the fair board was about to let a contract for the construction of the buildings when the lack of funds was discovered.

Results of indignation meetings, tabulated, are as follows: E. H. Stark is responsible for the mistake, as he is janitor of the court house; County Agent Pine is undoubtedly the guilty one for he was active in getting the funds voted in the first place; Sheriff Aschim must be guilty, as he did not collect the funds; Assessor Johnson is charged with the crime because he did not make the one-mill assessment on the county property; the county court are the principal ones damned as they did not put the item on the budget; Clerk Brimhall is guilty because he prepared the budget and failed to include the item; the officials of the Port of Bay City are blamed because they are officials; City Recorder I. W. White and Chief of Police Henry White must take the burden of responsibility because they were born with two legs and arms each. Every taxpayer in the county is to blame because they did not discover the omission when they read the published budget.

However, after much discussion pro and con this week, a majority of the attorneys in this city are of the opinion that, as the budget originates in the clerk's office, the primary cause of the mistake is there. The county court depends on the clerk to furnish with certain material to make up the budget, and in this particular case the material was not all furnished. Otherwise, argue the lawyers, what good is the county clerk, anyway? If the court has to collect these items themselves, the county might (Continued on page 2)

APARTMENT HOUSE TO RISE ON SIXTH

In addition to the many other improvements scheduled to take place in this city the present year, Rollie W. Watson will build a new apartment on his property on Sixth street between Second and Third avenues east. The ground floor will cover a space 105x71 1-2 feet, and the building will be two stories in height, with an estimated cost of $30,000. There will be fourteen suites—seven three-room apartments, and seven two room apartments, on the upper floor, including baths and closets, with a total of 35 rooms.

The first floor will consist of a garage for general storage, wash rack, ladies' rest room, and additional storage capacity for guests. Ground was broken for the improvement last Monday, and it is believed that the apartments will be completed by September next.
