ington fish and game club. A representation of Netarts members was present who asked the club to take a stand against commercial fishing for crabs and clams on Netarts bay. The idea was that those sea foods should not be taken and hauled away from the bay for commercial purposes, but that persons should be allowed to take enough for their individual needs while over here. The matter was referred to the executive committee for action.

TILLAMOOK HEADLIGHT

The late contest for membership was canvassed. It was found that Captain Terry had secured 115 members, and that his opponent, Captain Schelling, had secured 114 members, making a total new membership of 229 in the county. Terry was adjudged to be the winner, but Schelling has no cause to feel discouraged, as he made a gallant fight, and only lacked one vote of tying the score. The losers will put up a banquet for the winners in the near future.

A committee was appointed by the president to arrange for a contest for the largest fish caught on tackle to be later designated, and for prizes for same. So, look out for some real big fish.

Two days after graduation he heard his country's call for men to defend the flag of this nation and enlisted

OBITUARY OF IVAN DONALDSON

Ivan Donaldson was born in Tillamook May 19, 1887 and died in Bright-on camp at Rector Station, Ore. April 14, 1924. He was just coming into the prime and vigor of manhood, being 36 years 10 months and 25 days old. He attended school at Fairview and Tillamook and later entered Pacific University at Forest Grove, Oregon graduating with honors.

Why Wash when you can have your clothes laundered at a HOME LAUNDRY for less than you could do it yourself. If mending is necessary we will do it. We cadd for and deliver.

ERNEST D. JOHNSON 412 E. 4th St. Bell Phone in the 363rd Field Hospital Company, 91 Division U. S. A.

He was sent to Camp Lewis for training, afterwards going over seas in July 1918. After the signing of the Armistice he returned in 1919 to Portland, Ore. with his Company, and was mustered out, returning to Tillamook.

After returning he became active in business being one of the founders of the Tillamook-Portland Stage Line, severing his connection with that company a short time ago. He was engaged by the Brighton mill in the lumber business where he met death.

He was married March 16, 1924 to Luta Donaldson, who with six sisters and four brothers mourn his sudden demise.

His moral character was above reproach. Was honest in all his dealings and believed in a prepared life for a hereafter.

As one said in recommending him to the public, "He is honest, sober, and industrious and is thoroughly reliable in all things."

The ex-mayor of Forest Grove in recommending him said, "I have always found him straight forward and to be depended upon. His moral character was above reproach."

ANNUAL INSPECTION FOR GUARD

Last Monday evening the local unit of the Oregon National Guard was inspected by federal officers, in accordance to a part of the government law which provides for a federal status for state troops.

The inspection was conducted by Colonel Thiley Howell, Captain Robert O. Poage, both of Vancouver barracks, and Sergeant Raymond Ramsey of Portland.

After the inspection Colonel Howell gave a talk to the assembled spectators on the citizens' military training camps, and the importance in keeping these institutions before the people.

SELLS FIVE AUTOS IN ONE DAY

J. Merrel Smith went up to Wheeler last Friday, and though Friday is supposed to be an unlucky day, he sold five Oldsmobiles in that town, in time to take the train for home. The machine he drove up was fancied by a local man, who bought it. The Mayor now declares that Friday is a lucky day—for him.
