

COUNTY CALF CLUBS LAUDED BY WRITER

"I hope the people of Tillamook county appreciate the fine job of club work which the county leader, D. H. Kennedy, is doing here," said George N. Angell of the Oregon Farmer, of Portland, who was in Tillamook April 26 for the club gathering at Fairview grange hall. "Club work has been called the copper cable through which our agricultural and rural home life may be electrified and made to function efficiently, and in my estimation there is nothing which the people of Tillamook may support with better prospects of satisfactory returns. The boys and girls of today are the men and women of the future, and advancement in the science of agricultural production, marketing and home-making must come largely through the training of the country youth."

Angell said that he had considered himself pretty well posted on what was going on in club work here, but that he was surprised at the size and enthusiasm of the gathering at Fairview, when approximately 100 youngsters enjoyed a baseball game, a "feed" at noon and a short afternoon program. "There were a few parents and local club leaders present," he said, "but there should have been two or three times as many. Without the active support and cooperation of the parents, the work cannot possibly accomplish the best results. Your business men, too, would have their eyes opened by attending a few such meetings. Down in Jackson and Josephine counties business men are forming active partnerships with club youngsters, each advancing the money necessary for the purchase of a calf and agreeing to visit his partner at home at least three times during the season. Incidentally, this arrangement touches Tillamook particularly, because most of the calves that were purchased there were from the good cows of the Tillamook county cow-testing association."

There is no great fault to be found however, the visitor said, with the support given club work by a county which contributes more than $500 in cash prizes for club livestock exhibits and judging at the county fair, as Tillamook has done this year. No other county in the state will offer as much, and no other county can boast of having had a larger or more enthusiastic club gathering than the one at Fairview.

"The practical results to agriculture, from having boys and girls actively interested in its problems, are evident on every side." There are numberless illustrations of them in Oregon, and for that matter right here in Tillamook. Theodore Resch of Clackamas county carried on a production project for six years, won over $1000 in cash prizes at the shows and set himself up in business as a breeder of Chester White swine, with $2500 worth of purebreds sold or on hand. John Fleming of Multnomah county, who in the past three years has won many prizes, not only laid a foundation of purebred Holsteins for himself, but converted his father to the purebred idea, and today they are in business together. Andrew Lagler of Nehalem has made a club record to be proud of, and there are others—the Williams boys, the Schild girls, Jack and Elizabeth Mowry, Ted Jacobs, a score of them—who have worked hard and done well. All honor to them and with Governor Allen of Kansas, let us believe in the dreams that young men dream, in the visions that young men see, in the castles that young men build, in the fruition and performance of all these splendid dreams and wonderful visions. For where, without the dreams of the young lighting up the future with glorious possibilities, would be the deeds of the old glorifying the past with heroic achievement? That nation will most certainly endure which gives intelligent and constructive attention to the development of its boys and girls."

BIG KLAN DEMONSTRATION MAY 31st

Tillamook Klansmen will put on one of the largest ceremonies in Tillamook, on the evening of May 31, ever staged in Oregon, outside of Portland. Thousands of Klansmen will be present. Ceremonies will be held at the fair grounds, and a big barbecue, consisting of two big beeves, will occur at the grounds. A monster parade will be one of the features of the evening. Details are being worked out by the local clan, and it will be a hummer. Three bands and an airplane will be here to furnish music and sky stunts. The Grand Dragon and other good speakers will make speeches at the fair grounds. Remember the date, Saturday May 31. The fair grounds will be illuminated by the fiery cross. If you miss this monster demonstration, you will miss something worth while. It is planned to make it one of the greatest outdoor demonstrations in the state, held outside of the metropolis. Initiations will take place at the fair grounds.

LOCAL WOMAN'S CLUB HAS ANNUAL LUNCH

The annual luncheon of the Tillamook Woman's club was held Tuesday at the Masonic hall. About seventy members and guests were present. Mrs. R. H. McGrath acted as toast mistress and first called on the club president, Mrs. W. B. Alderman, who in a charming manner welcomed the guests. Mrs. A. G. Beals was called on for a response and extolled the merits of the two last presidents. Mrs. Leslie Harrison gave a brief resume of the club work accomplished during the year and that which is in progress. Arthur Beals was present for a short while and in a few well chosen remarks told of the benefit to the community of a club of this nature and encouraged the women in their work. Miss Ragsdale sang two delightful songs accompanied by Mrs. E. E. Koch on the piano. Mrs. Helen Ebinger also sang two numbers which won much applause.

This is the second annual banquet of the club and in attendance shows a marked growth over the past year. On May fourteenth the annual election of officers will be held at the club room and a large attendance is expected.

POLITICS GETTING WARM

company, has been absent from the county for some time, which will probably count against him.

The most interesting part of the present political fracas, from the average voter's view, is the race between H. S. Brimhall, the present county clerk, and J. C. McClure, who is very likely to move his things into the clerk's office next January first. When McClure first filed for nomination to the office his backers were a few of the prominent business men of this city and quite a number of the farmers near Tillamook. In the past two weeks, however, Brimhall's former lead has been cut down considerably, with the almost positive prospect of him losing his place.

In a rambling talk before about thirty people at Garibaldi last Wednesday evening, Brimhall undertook to answer some of the criticisms which have been aimed against him by street talk and by the Headlight, which he accuses of being "sore" because he did not dole out enough printing to the paper. Brimhall could be accused by practically every business house in Tillamook county if his actions in this regard should be taken as a basis. He has almost consistently avoided placing any orders for county supplies through local dealers, preferring to deal with Portland firms. Quite a number of the Tillamook business men who helped put Brimhall in office are disgusted at his actions in sending to outside points for supplies when he could buy a better grade at less money in Tillamook.

There is nothing personal being brought out against the present county clerk but many have expressed themselves as thoroughly disgusted at his inefficiency. This view is being rapidly adopted by a majority of the county taxpayers.

The man who has been urged to run for the county clerk's office, J. C. McClure of Bay City, is thoroughly efficient in office work and his cause is rapidly gaining favor.

Following is an appeal made this week by the camp fire girls: "The camp fire girls need another guardian. The present one lives out in the country and it is not always possible for her to attend meetings. She will be glad to be assisting guardian. There ought to be some woman in this town whose time is not entirely taken up with other matters, who would like to take over this circle of camp fire girls. If any one would like to do so please come to our meeting Friday night, 7:30 o'clock at the Christian church."

been let for the erection of the building, although the site has been selected. The new factory will be constructed about 300 yards west of the D. T. Werschul residence on the road between Cloverdale and Pacific City, on a knoll overlooking the surrounding country.

The Oretown, Meda, and Pleasant Valley factories have all, or are, installing separators this year. This results in considerable saving to the patrons and means about three cents more for butter fat than where no separator is installed.

Feed prices have strengthened somewhat, oats, corn, and barley being sold at $40, mill run at $32, molasses-meal at $40, and corn at $40. Other feeds show a slight advance. These prices are considerably less than present retail prices in Portland, in fact, the Portland jobbers are asking about $43 Portland for ground corn and corresponding prices on other grains and feeds.

The association is in position to take on some contracts for alfalfa for the coming season, and in view of the fact that present indications pre-announce a very short crop, on account of the lack of rainfall and snow in eastern Oregon and Washington, it would appear that the present would be a good time to get at least a portion of next winter's alfalfa. Alfalfa hay could be had at about $18 Tillamook today in car lots, this for the best hay. It is thought that prices later on will be considerably higher, but, of course, a lot depends upon the season.
