RELIGIOUS DEBATE
 (By N. W. Phelps)

The Council of Trent said, speaking of the reading of the Bible: "And this permission they MUST HAVE IN WRITING." Now comes Mr. Davey saying: They do not need permission. Now, either they must have permission or there is no such thing in the church of Rome as infallibility. If this infallibility in matters of faith and morals (which was later many times and in many ways declared to extend to things temporal) does not cover Bible reading, then what subject could it cover? If the Council and the Popes have made rules on this subject they are infallible if there is such a thing with them. Now either the Council and the Popes are liars or Mr. Davey is mistaken about Roman Catholics being allowed to read the Bible without permission.

Gregory the VII, Innocent III, the Council of Toulouse, the Council of Trent, all placed Bible reading under the ban. Pius the VII, denounced Bibles as "pestilences."

How does Mr. Davey answer? By mouthing over a cat-like lament: "What will the Dear Public think." We have been aware for many years that the only thing the Roman Catholic hierarchy fears is the "facts" before the public. When the public knows, the hierarchy falls. "What will the open-minded intelligent public think?" We know what they think. They think that the Roman Catholic Hierarchy is what she is, a hypocrisy professing to be founded on the Bible, but so far lacking such foundation for anything it does that it dares not allow its laymen with entire freedom to read and understand the Bible. Mr. Davey says, and once he admits the truth, if Roman Catholics desire to interpret the Scripture they can do so, but they must step down and out of the Roman Catholic Church. Why Roman Catholic laymen will allow a wine-drinking priestcraft to place such a value on their intelligence is beyond my understanding.

The "open-minded intelligent public" knows that there is no country in the world to which the monstrous tread of pussyfooted Roman Catholic officialdom has come in which she has not burned and destroyed Bibles.

They know that with a bland smile and soft words, but with a heart as cruel as that of Leob of Chicago, it places the name of Christ over bastles where young and innocent girls are ground into Roman Catholic profit through 12 hour days, behind torturing machines.

"The open-minded intelligent public" knows that men who have the profession of heaven and the practices of hell, gather to themselves innocent girls, bind on them burdens too heavy to be born "which they themselves will not lift with the weight of their finger", drink like overfed swine at the trough of this torturous, inhuman, and altogether unchristian sacrifice, and call it doing things for the glory of Christ. Who can think of the loving Christ building a Nunnery, and blandly stretching out his hands to bless such an inhuman system of robbing womanhood of their Christian liberty and right to a lawful motherhood.

This "public" knows that if Christ were here now, He would look this mess of wine-drinking, oat-taking, priestcraft in the face and say: "Scribes, Pharisees, hypocrites how can ye escape the damnation of hell."

This "Public" knows, that the Roman Catholic Hierarchy is that "harlot of the ages which has birthed such dwarfed, twisted, Nero-like, lovers of untruth as Mr. Davey shows himself to be when he says that Protestant Catholics have shed more of Roman Catholic blood, than Roman Catholics have of Protestant Catholic blood, in the presence of that river of blood that has flowed from the bushwhacking, vein-ripping, fiend-like, machinations of the Jesuit dreamed and devil crowned Roman Catholic "inquisition." Lorente says, (Mr. Davey says he burned the records) that the Spanish Inquisition in Spain alone slaughtered 341,000. Such a vast number in such a small country, yet one man is able, according to Mr. Davey, to wipe the history of that black scar from the face of the earth. Go look at the hundreds of torture machines and understand that such a thing is impossible. This Mr. Davey would be able to see if he were not blindly following the pages of his Roman deception.

What is this horror, this darkness, this blind ignorance, this ghoulish thing, that produces a soul like Mr. Davey's, which passes with a light remark, so VILE a business as the manufacture of such a LUST INFLAMING concoction as "BENEDICTINE". And use the words "used to" as if they had gone out of the hellish business of making drunkards in the NAME OF CHRIST and the POPE, when in the year 1923, in one city (Washington, D. C.) 33 gallons was taken up by the prohibition officers. If 33 gallons were taken, how many

WERE NOT TAKEN. If this was the condition in Washington, what must be the condition in Roman Catholic Chicago? This honest-minded, truth-seeker of the Oregon Catholic Truth Society, is such a devout a seeker after truth that he declares in one breath that the Roman Catholic church is not fighting prohibition and in THE NEXT ADMITS (the facts) that this holy Roman Stew is in the BOOZE BUSINESS. If Mr. Davey's hierarchy desires Prohibition it must be because they can, by becoming LAW BREAKERS, secure a higher price for their product. It is said of this product, with the Pope's Tiara thereon, that no drink known to the underworld is more just exciting. The receipt for this soul damning concoction is a sweet secret with the "Benedictine Monks" of the Roman Catholic church. Oh no, they are not fighting the 18th amendment. Fifty-five per cent of the fifty odd who introduced beer bills into Congress were Roman Catholics.

BOOZE has wrought so much ruin, destroyed so much life, ravaged so much virtue, blasted so much hope, blighted so much ability, robbed man, so often and so much, of God, that a great nation like America has written its prohibition into its Constitutional law, yet Mr. Davey is forced to admit that his church is in the business. ROME AND RUM WALK TOGETHER. They are friends, they are pals, they are chums, they put their feet on the same brass rail, they stick their bloated faces over the same bar, they glory together at profits gained at the price of manhood, womanhood, childhood. So sodden, so low, so far from all that is clean, that is Christ-like, from all that is Biblical, so linked up with the rum devil that it undertakes to make Christ a distiller of BOOZE. To make the Christ who said: "Look not thou upon the wine when it is red in the cup, when it moveth itself aright, for at last it biteth like a serpent and stingeth like an adder," so make Him, into what they themselves are, a maker and a guzzler of BOOZE. Thus making Him a liar and downright hypocrite. This is that lovely, gentle, kind, long-suffering, Christ-like Christian spirit, wherein and whereby men like Mr. Davey "compass heaven and earth to make one convert and when they have made him he is fourfold more the child of hell than before."

Only a few moments would have enlightened Mr. Davey to the fact that the wine which Christ drank, the wine which Christ MADE, the wine which Paul told Timothy to drink, was "gleukos." Strong says: "Gleukos—SWEET or new wine." But Mr. Davey is compelled to find some ground for making Christ a "Booze" maker and a "booze" hister in order that the laymen who pay the bills might continue to think his institution holy. I am told that Mr. Davey has often known his cups when the contents moved aright and afterward his head moved awry. I wonder if Mr. Davey thought he was defending Christianity with that little defense of "booze?" Well, his "intelligent public" knows more of Christianity than that, thanks to the Protestant Catholics of America. "BENEDICTINE," what kind of a devil is Mr. Davey's Christ, anyway, that he is able to toss the foam so lightly from such a cup of iniquity? Not until light is like darkness, good like evil, prostitution like virtue, can this malodorous, wine-drinking, "Benedictine" making, Batholomew Massacreing, thing be like Christ. "What if they did use to make "Benedictine," as if the business of sending men to hell should be laughed at. Truly the Roman Catholic is so sodden in its age-old practice of justifying every known depravity by mouthing over a lingo of holy words, that it is no longer able to see or appreciate its own depravity. Like bats they fly in the night and know not that there is a day. Mr. Davey does not seem to know that his "intelligent public" has made an OUTLAW of booze makers, and booze histers. I have seen the worst of men in the wildest, Wild West days, but to find an institution soulless enough to make "booze" in the name of Christ, I must turn to Mr. Davey and his holy roman stew.

I have already shown that what Mr. Davey calls persecution in France is men claiming their right under God to think for themselves. Mr. Davey and his church is persecuted unless like an overfed porker they are lying belly down in the trough. "All the rights," is what Mr. Davey and his hierarchy desires, anything else is persecution. I presume the new turn in France, just when the Pope thought himself back in the feed lot, will cause a new wave about persecution to arise. Roman Catholic France is so disgusted with the oppression and beastly practices of the Pope and his priestcraft that they have elevated a "Protestant Catholic" to be president. America is the last pup to open its eyes to priestly intrigue against liberty.

How has Mr. Davey answered? He

YOSEMITE ECONOMY RUN RECORDS prove ZEROLENE increases gasoline mileage

For years this Company has claimed that Zerolene, because it lubricates better, enables the average car to go about five per cent farther on a gallon of gasoline than when other oils are used.

A few weeks ago this claim received the most remarkable confirmation in the results of the annual Los Angeles-Camp Curry (Yosemite) Economy Run. Six out of the seven trophies offered, including the sweepstakes, were won by Zerolene-lubricated cars. The sweepstakes winner, an Overland Model 92, driven by Joe Bozzani, traveling the 400 miles of desert and mountain roads, averaged 29.36 miles to the gallon of Red Crown gasoline—an achievement which the 1924 contest rules made all the more remarkable as they forbade coasting or stopping the engine.

Right here, in the official records of this economy run classic, is your answer to the oil question. Why pay tribute to the superstition that eastern oil, merely because it costs more and is made in the East, is in some mysterious way "better?" Experienced drivers, out to make records, don't share that superstition—why should you?
