FAIR BOARD MADE NO MISTAKE

Several citizens have been criticizing the fair board for allowing the Al G. Barnes circus to set up on the fair grounds, claiming that the board has to go to the expense of cleaning up and also that the circus came directly from California to Tillamook. Members of the board want to correct this impression. The circus is paying for the cleaning up of the grounds which is being done by the City Transfer company. The show and all its constituents wintered in Illinois, showing at points between that state and Tillamook during spring and summer months. The last time they showed in the state of California was in the fall of 1923. At the time the hoof and mouth disease broke out the circus management cancelled all of the several engagements in that state. Consequently all these reports of the mismanagement on the part of the fair board are ill-founded for they were well aware of all conditions before they considered the circus' proposition.
