When we grow-ups Trudge Off to School

We all perhaps can recall the days when trudging off to the opening of school, how conscious we were that we were not as well or were better dressed than were some of our young friends. Foolishly enough our immature minds weighed the subject heavily. No doubt it re-acted upon our studies.

Those were days before the J. C. Penney Company store. Now, with attractive assortments of clothing and footwear to select from, every boy and girl can be completely outfitted here at a considerable saving of money. Help the children to help themselves with their lessons.
