

TREASURY GETS $5,251,903 FROM 146 NATIONAL FORESTS

Receipts from timber sales, livestock grazing, and other forms of the 146 national forests totaling $5,251,903 during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1924 according to the report of the United States Department of Agriculture. This sum is paid to the United States treasury.

conservative. With large timber supplies that can be made to produce 2,000,000 cords of pulp wood annually on the sustained-yield basis, or roughly, 5,000 tons of paper a day, with thousands of miles of sheltered inland waterways that favor economical logging and transportation, and with large resources of water power that can be developed at a relatively low unit cost, the prospects of a rapid and substantial growth of this new industry in southwestern Alaska are bright indeed.

OREGON HISTORICAL SOCIETY WILL GIVE PRIZES FOR ESSAY

The Oregon Historical society has selected "The Hudson's Bay Company and the Oregon Country" as the subject for the 1925 C. C. Beekman History Prizes and Medals. The prizes are four in number, viz., first, sixty dollars; second, fifty dollars; third, forty dollars; and fourth, thirty dollars; and will be awarded for the best four original essays on the above named subject written and submitted by girls or boys over fifteen years of age and under eighteen years of age, attending any public or private school, academy, seminary, college, university, or other educational institution within the State of Oregon.

The conditions governing the competition are as follows: (1) The essay submitted in competition must not exceed two thousand words in length.

(2) The essay may be in handwriting or in typewritten form, preferably upon paper of commercial letter size, either ruled or unruled, the several sheets being numbered consecutively and written on one side only, with blank space of about one and one-quarter inches at top and left-hand margins.

(3) The essay shall be accompanied by a separate sheet containing the name and postoffice address of the writer, the date of his or her birth, and the name of the school attended.

(4) There shall also be delivered with the essay a certificate signed by a teacher or instructor of the educational institution attended, stating that the writer of the essay is a pupil or student attending the same.

(5) In order to be considered in competition the essay must be delivered, by mail or in person, to The Oregon Historical society, public auditorium, 253 Market street, Portland, Oregon, not later than March 1, 1925.

(6) All essays submitted in competition will be numbered and submitted, without the names of the writers or other identifying marks, to three judges selected by the undersigned committee.

(7) All competitive essays will be judged according to their general merit and excellence; but the judges will also take into consideration, in passing thereon, neatness of manuscript, accurate orthography, correct grammar and composition, and purity and clarity of diction.

The Oregon State Library in Salem has a reading list or bibliography upon the above named subject which will be sent to any Oregon student on request. Books pertaining to the subject are obtainable in most Oregon public libraries. Oregon has a system of local libraries, supplemented in many cases by county library systems, and in all cases by the Oregon state library. Students desiring such books should apply first to the local library, which, if not having the books, should secure them from the county and state libraries. If the local library cannot give this service, which is usual, or if there is no local library, the student should write directly to the Oregon state library in Salem, which makes loans of books free of charge, except postage, to all citizens of Oregon.

In writing to the Oregon state library students should state the information desired and not merely confine requests to some particular book or books sought, thereby enabling the state library to substitute other material in case any book requested is not available.

THE PACE MAKER OF FOREST FIRES

(By Wallace Hutchinson.) The pace maker of man-caused forest fires is the pernicious cigarette. In the national forests of California, out of a total of 1,679 timber and brush fires that have occurred to September 20, this year, 28 per cent were due to smokers, and in practically every case that means cigarette users. Of all man-caused fires, smokers are responsible for 40 per cent. And the number of such fires is steadily increasing year by year, keeping stride with the steady rise in the use of "fags."

United States Treasury department figures disclose the fact that during the month of July, 1924, there were manufactured a total of 6,683,000,000 cigarettes; an increase of 750 million over the number turned out during the corresponding month in 1923. If this pace is maintained throughout the current fiscal year there will be made and sold in this country more than 77,000,000,000 cigarettes.

The bureau of internal revenue reports that the consumption of cigarettes in the United States has increased 50 per cent in the last two years. Manufacture of the "pills that satisfy" are turning out this year almost 1,200 cigarettes for every man and woman in the country over 21 years of age, or an average of three cigarettes for each person per day. And yet these same manufacturers, despite their knowledge of the fact that cigarettes are the chief cause of countless disastrous fires, have never yet given their whole-hearted support to any movement for public education in fire prevention and suppression.

This season in California, due to the hazardous fire conditions, smoking has been restricted to camp grounds and improved places of habitation on many of the national forests. And it may not be a far cry to the day when like restrictions will be enforced on all hazardous fire areas. Anyone who has followed closely the fire game knows that the safeguarding of our forest wealth depends in no small measure on more complete and effective control of human agencies which cause fires, including smokers, campers, sportsmen, recreationists and commercial users of national forest lands. The handwriting is on the wall, and it is to be hoped that among smokers and vacation seekers, as well as cigarette manufacturers, there may be found the Daniel of forest preservation who will interpret the all-too-plain inscription:

GIVE ALL THE BOYS A CHANCE

Interest in the "World Series" is not confined to adults. Many a school boy's knitted brow is only a ruse to conceal his thoughts. Instead of Euclid's propositions, his meditations may be on his baseball heroes and their chances for victory. And why not? Play, games, and athletics are a recognized part of the school's physical education program. These activities offer, without doubt, one of the best opportunities for the development of good conduct and healthful habits. Are their possibilities realized?

The teacher-coach should, by example and attitude, inculcate the ideals of fair play. Pupils should learn to despise everything tricky or mean, to abide by the rules and the spirit of the game, to strive to win by their own superior athletic prowess, and to recognize it appropriately in others. They should learn to be sportsmanlike. This implies, when winners, the lack of undue boasting; and, when losers, the first in congratulating their successful opponents.

Well-planned athletics contribute immeasurably to physical fitness, happiness, honesty, cooperation, consideration for others, sense of fair play, and character. Each and all of these are worthy goals. Should this highly desirable type of education be confined to the few already physically fit?

Undue concentration on "the team" may well be supplanted by interesting the pupils in the organization and development of a number of play groups and teams within the school. Inter-class games and contests between the school's teams are highly desirable and to be preferred to inter-school contests if both can not be provided. Well-directed participation by the many is essential to the greater good to the greater number.

COUNTRY CHILDREN ARE THE HEAVIEST LOSERS

About 20 millions of American children have just begun their school year of 1924-25. Each one of them should attend as nearly 200 school days as possible. That is the length of school term in our best schools. On the average, children are in school not much more than 165 days. For rural schools the term is much shorter. The cost of keeping the schools open will be not less than 1 3/4 billions of dollars. It has been estimated and probably correctly that every day in school is worth from $16 to $17 to a child because he will be able to earn that much more in later years. It is fair then to say that 20 millions of children attending 160 days each this coming year represent actual production by the schools of some 50 billions of dollars of potential wealth, nearly thirty times the expenditure for the schools.

Not many investments are as good as that or pay such enormous dividends. We could estimate the school day as worth much less than $16 a pupil and still have many times a good justification for all the money we spend on education. But great as the return is we can not afford to reduce it by keeping children out of school or by letting them go irregularly. A child ought not to throw away a $16 day for any trivial reason. In a few years he will be compelled to compete with others who have made the most of that day and of as many more school days as they could. It's good business then to keep the school open for a long term and keep all the children in it every day.

NOTICE To the parents of the boy who took a red Hawthorne Deluxe bicycle from near the public library steps on the evening of September 26. Please return to owner, Emil Benschheid, one mile west of city. 99-11p
