Chiropractic For Women

Chiropractic offers a reasonable, logical method of maintaining or regaining one's health. Particularly is this true among women who are constantly faced with the fear of nervous collapse or a surgical operation. The Chiropractor concerns himself particularly with placing the body in such condition that the nervous system may function normally. He does this without the use of drugs, electricity or massage. It is accomplished through adjusting the small segments which comprise the spine and in many, many thousands of cases he has proven without question of doubt that women can be safely restored to normality through Chiropractic Adjustments. If you do not realize that you owe a physical well-being to yourself, certainly you cannot deny that you owe it to your family. Call at my office and permit me to examine your spine and advise you as to whether or not I can be of service in your particular case.

Remember we have the only Neurocalometer in the county.
