SETTLEMENT OF TILLAMOOK COUNTY

Continued from page 4) Green's for pitch and rigging. For this journey we had three Indians, and as the very bad horses could pack loads, therefore five horses were used to do the packing. It took about one week, and the second. They came with them a little sugar, and the first we had had while. It happened to be a week to do cooking and a strong cup of tea and candies to supper. "Bishop" was the first one at the time he sat down he looked a few seconds, finally he said, "Hello, Didymus! Why tell me 'twas communion you have not given as the sea will answer the purpose, call in all the brethren too, and let us all part as the Indians say when something good or new, 'Twas Sunday' or a good body drank so much tea we could not sleep, so we telling yarns and singing midnight, and then turn-could use a sail needle, in making her sails and putting them ready for use, so that when we were ready for the canvass there would be no delay, and on the 29th day of December 1854 we had everything ready to launch our schooner but one necessary thing, and that was tallow to grease her sliding way with. You must bear in mind that very little tame grass seed had been sowed, therefore stock had in the main to forage for themselves during the winter months consequently there was not any fat stock among our company's herds from which we could obtain the necessary article. Various devices were thought of for effecting a launch but was given up. Finally Captain Hendrickson said he thought the sediment at the bottom of the bay, spread on the ways in the same manner as tallow, would answer the purpose first class. We held a solemn convocation to consider the case and few including myself, entertained Hendrickson's idea as practicable, but he was positive his plan would work like a charm, and eventually decided to prove to us by demonstration. Taking for his purpose two planks, he took them to an incline, and obtained a quantity of the sediment. He smeared one side of each plank pretty thickly over, and then placed the two smeared sides on each other holding them in place with one hand. He remarked to Mr. Thomas "look here, I'll show you that my plan will work." Therefore he jumped upon the plank, and in less time than I can tell it, he lay square on his back for the top plank slid down and off the other one, getting to the perpendicular, he looked around and remarked, "Now, what do you think of that?" We all of course, laughed heartily, and Thomas said, "Well, I think the plank is a far better rustler than you are, for I see it has thrown you, still I think when we put that sediment on those ways, and drop the vessels shoe down on it, that the heft of the vessel

Charles Lee was born in Ashton, England, Jan 20, 1845, and passed to his final reward at the Vidito hospital in this city, November 26, 1924, being 79 years, 10 months and 6 days old.

He came to this country with his brother, Thomas Lee in 1855, living in Canada ten years, then moving to Kansas and residing in the middle west until 1888 when they came to Tillamook. They took up a homestead at Netarts where they made their home until sickness compelled them to come to the hospital. His brother preceded him to the great beyond on August 8, 1922. Charley was an example to his friends and neighbors for his kindness, generosity, integrity and splendid character.

He leaves to mourn his loss a niece, Mrs. Martha Johnson, and a nephew, Sam McLarnan, both of Los Angeles, California, and a large number of friends. Mr. Lee was a faithful attendant at the Presbyterian church, and never missed services when able to attend.—Contributed.

SNIPES HUNTING BECOMES POPULAR PASTIME

Snipe hunting has again come into its own. This favorite sport of hunters has for its latest devotee Miss Helen Church, member of the high school faculty.

The snipe being a wily and elusive bird it is necessary to hunt it in the dead of the night so Miss Church under the chaperonage of several other members of the faculty, seasoned snipe hunters of earlier days, and a number of students also well versed in the art of snipe catching, was transported to Tillamook river, which is said to be one of the haunts of the wary bird, last Friday night about eleven o'clock.

Here Miss Church went out into a field and began her hunt. One ally, Miss Carver, remained with her to help carry in the catch.

A profound secrecy is being maintained by Miss Church in regard to the number of birds she bagged, presumably because of the stringent game laws.
