CAUGHT BY A LION

Fearful Adventure With a South African Man Eater.

FLUNG RIGHT INTO ITS JAWS.

Ordeal of a Transvaal Ranger Who Was Pinned Over His Horse's Head Only to Be Gripped in Midair by the Savage Brute—The Dramatic Finish.

If any one is eager for adventure hunting lions in their native jungles will offer him abundant opportunity.

In August, 1931, he was returning from a month's patrol to the Olifants River and had arrived within two days more of the goal.

As he rode through the dry bed of the creek, where the path crossed it in one of its windings he saw something move out of the reeds and melt away into the darkness ahead.

He had scarcely time to reflect that this was an odd performance for a reed bank when he became conscious that it was an antelope, but a lion in the act of scrambling for a spring.

His back went rigid as he saw the lion's head and neck in the air, and he felt the horse's hooves striking the ground.

He was man and wife all went in different directions. The horse made off at full speed, followed by the lion which in turn was pursued by the dog.

The first thing he realized was that it was trotting off with him down the path. He was held firmly by the right shoulder and, lying on his back, his face was on a level with the brute's neck.

It was a desperate predicament and as soon as he was able to collect his thoughts a little he began to wonder whether he would be killed outright or tortured first.

The lion works quickly in such cases and suddenly he remembered his sheath-knife, an ordinary six inch blade, which was carried in an open leather case at the back of his belt.

Reaching underneath himself with his left hand, he discovered that the knife had not been lost, so pulling it out, he bent all his energy on holding it tight and awaiting a favorable opportunity.

Fortune favored the brave, and the ruler's chance came when the lion after going with him about 150 yards laid him down under a small tree for the purpose either of shifting its grip or of commencing operations upon him.

Feeling very carefully behind the left shoulder for what he judged to be a vital spot, he struck a couple of back handed blows with all his force, using of course, his left hand. It turned out that each of these strokes reached the heart.

For what seemed hours, but was no doubt only a few seconds, man and beast stood facing each other the latter silent and the former, with some hazy idea of the power of the human voice, shouting out every abusive word that rose to his tongue.

Not Debatable. "How about your idea of introducing parliamentary rules in your debates with your wife?" "Give it up. She was too quick at it."

Dispelled His Fears. Old Gentleman—It is folly to talk of marriage for years yet. My daughter is a mere child. She knows nothing about the world and could not manage servants. Mr Sumpurse—Oh, that needn't make a slightest difference! We shan't have any.

A man who covers himself with costly apparel and neglects his mind is like one who illuminates the outside of his house and sits within in the dark.

Breakfast In a Good, Warm Room PERFECTION SMOKELESS OIL HEATER. A "warm" breakfast—the kind that sends you out ready braced for a good day's work—should be eaten in a warm room. You lose half the good of the meal if you are shivering in discomfort while you eat it. A Perfection Smokeless Oil Heater makes breakfast a cosy meal for the whole family. No smoke or smell with a Perfection. Easily cleaned. Easily moved from room to room. An ornament anywhere: a luxury in the bedroom; a necessity in the sewing-room or the bathroom. Dealers everywhere; or write for descriptive circular. STANDARD OIL COMPANY (California)

Why Salves Can't Cure Eczema

Since the old-fashioned theory of curing eczema through the blood has been given up by scientists, many different salves have been tried for skin diseases. But it has been found that these salves only clog the pores and cannot penetrate to the inner skin below the superficial crust where the eczema germs are lodged. This—the quality of penetration—prevents the salve from doing any good. The quality of penetration—prevents the salve from doing any good.
