FRIDAY, JANUARY [illegible], 1913.

[illegible] of the [illegible] On January 1, [illegible] the whole telephone system of the [illegible] into the hands of the state. For a year the courts have been deciding what sum [illegible] for the property. The telephone company asked [illegible] 000, and the [illegible] court of equity has just decided that $[illegible] is a fair price.

Senate bill No. 151 providing that the people of counties whose territory is affected by the proposed formation of new counties shall be allowed to settle such matters by their own votes, instead of by statewide submission, a bill which was passed by both houses of the legislature during the 1911 session but was vetoed by the governor, has been passed over the governor's veto by both houses this session. Just what the terms of the bill are we do not know, but if the matter of county division is decided by a majority of the voters in the county to be divided, some well merited divisions might be blocked by not having votes enough. For instance the county seat of a county may be situated to one side of the county which contains a big percentage of the population and we believe, that as a rule the larger population will vote to keep their counties intact no matter what the merits of the case may be. We believe the matter of county division should be left entirely to the state legislature.

The Commercial Club of Tillamook City is in debt and needs assistance. The club should have the support of every business man in the city. We are now facing a period in the life of our city when as business men we should be banded together for the public good. Harbor improvements accompanied by the development of our timber resources will soon be under way and it is now up to all of us to see that a united front is presented so that Tillamook City may take full advantage of the oncoming prosperity. This united front can be made only through organization, and we already have that organization in our present commercial club, so let us all stand by the club. There is nothing that counts so much for the benefit of or yields a greater influence for the welfare of a city, than the personnel of its business men. Towns that have been fortunate in having strong, level headed business men have been known to forge ahead and surpass other localities of greater natural advantages. Our business men must not forget that a great deal depends on them.

By a vote of 45 to 13, the house late Friday passed senate bill 45 of the last session over the Governor's veto making its fourth performance of the kind of the day.

The bill which becomes a law by reason of its having passed both houses over the Governor's veto, provides for the appointment of a State Veterinarian, deputies and county veterinarians, the creation of a State Livestock Sanitary board, and the appropriation of $50,000 to put law into effect, with an annual appropriation of $25,000. It also provides for compensation for owners of stock killed on account of contagious diseases. Veterinarians are required to report cases of such diseases to the State Veterinarian.

At the outset of the prolonged debate that followed the introduction of the bill, Representative Hagood, of Multnomah, Governor's West's personal mouthpiece in the House, announced that the chief executive had never had any objections to the bill, except that it carried an appropriation of $50,000, which amount he did not believe the state treasury was in a condition to meet at the time the bill was passed two years ago.

This bill will no doubt prove a good one. The State needs stricter regulation in regard to contagious diseases of animals. That part of the bill which provides for compensation for owners of stock killed on account of contagious diseases is also good. Every time a contaminated animal is killed the whole state is benefited and for this reason the state as a whole should bear a portion of the loss.

THE DECLARATION OF PRINCIPLES.

We believe in the coming of His Kingdom whose service is perfect freedom, because His laws, written in our members as well as in nature and in grace, are perfect, converting the soul.

We believe in the gospel of the Golden Rule, and that each man's habits of life should be an example safe and beneficent for every other man to follow.

We believe that God created both man and woman in His own image, and therefore we believe in one standard of purity for both men and women, and in the equal right of all to hold opinions and to express the same with equal freedom.

We believe in a living wage; in courts of conciliation and arbitration; in justice as opposed to greed of gain; in "peace on earth and goodwill to men."

We therefore formulate, and for ourselves adopt the following pledge, asking our sisters and brothers of a common danger and a common hope, to make common cause with us, in working its reasonable and helpful precepts into the practice of everyday life:

"I hereby solemnly promise, God helping me, to abstain from all distilled, fermented and malt liquors, including wine, beer and cider, and to employ all proper means to discourage the use of and traffic in the same."

To confirm and enforce the rationale of this pledge, we declare our purpose to educate the young; to form a better public sentiment; to reform, so far as possible, by religious, ethical and scientific means, the drinking classes; to seek the transforming power of Divine grace for ourselves and all for whom we work, that they and we may wilfully transcend no law of pure and wholesome living; and finally we pledge ourselves to labor and to pray that all these principles, founded upon the gospel of Christ, may be worked out into the Customs of Society and Laws of the Land.

"THIS BILL MUST BE KILLED" (?)

If the friends of temperance want to judge of the value of any anti-liquor measure, they should subscribe for some of the leading liquor journals, and carefully consider the comments of the men whose fortunes are dependent upon the success or failure of such legislation. Any lukewarmness on the part of good citizens toward the Kenyon-McCumber bill (formerly known as the Kenyon-Sheppard bill) ought to be changed to fervid zeal, by the reading of the following paragraph from Bonfort's Wine and Spirit Circular, addressed to the liquor men: "This bill is the most dangerous measure ever aimed at the liquor traffic. What have you done to defeat it? This bill MUST be killed. If you fail to do your part, don't complain if the bill passes and your business is ruined."

The bill has not yet passed the Senate. Keep the wires and the mails busy with emphatic reminders to your Senators that the bill MUST PASS. Read again the urgent appeal of the president of the Tennessee W. C. T. U., which appeared in last weeks Signal, and see how much its passage would mean to prohibition territory but, remember that "it would be the hardest blow ever struck the liquor traffic."

DRINK FILLING FRENCH ASYLUMS.

Advocates of moderate drinking not infrequently refer to France as an example of the harmlessness of the drink habit. Such superficial thinkers should be confronted with the terrible series of statistics which specialists attached to the principal Paris lunatic asylums have just given to the public, and which are published in a late issue of the New York Times.

The figures given show that since the time when exact records were begun, 1868, the proportion of the inmates among the men brought there by drinking has increased from 14 to 47 per cent, and among the women from less than 2 per cent to 20 per cent.

"Most of these unfortunates," say the specialists, "are psychopaths descended from other alcholics." They conclude with the following appalling statement which deals directly with the population question in France:

"Of every thousand children born of alcholics about one-third disappear either at birth or in the first two or three years, and among the survivors there are a large number of idiots, epileptics, many degenerates devoid of moral sense, and instinctively perverse creatures of abnormal impulses.

"It is enough to regard the great group of various species of mental degeneracy bequeathed by alcholics to their children to be sure that alcoholism supplies the men's side of the Paris asylums with three-quarters of their population."

He Got Along Fine.

Thomas had never been able to carry a tune, and after he had been for awhile in a class where singing was obligatory his mother felt curious to know how he managed to keep up with the singing.

"Thomas," she inquired, "how do you get along in your singing class?"

"Fine!" declared Thomas.

"Why, that's lovely," said his delighted and mystified mother. "What does your teacher say about it?"

"She says," replied Thomas cheerfully, "'Now, Thomas, if you don't feel like singing you needn't.'"—Chicago Record Herald.

Putting It to Good Use.

"I suppose you've been very careful about the books you let your children have?"

"Oh, yes, indeed! There's our Jim—we intend him for a statesman. Jim was raised on the Congressional Record."

"The Congressional Record! Well, well!"

"Yes; we let him sit on it for years so he'd be raised enough to eat from the table."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Song Bird.

They say the birds are timid. Great heavens, to be so small and lovely in a world of hawks and snares and yet dare to sing as if the gods were good! In all the wide creation there is nothing braver than the heart of a singing bird.
