Tillamook People To Buck Combine

Big Paving Deal Arouses Citizens; Royalty on Pavement Nearly Three Fourths of its Cost.

Telegram, April 30:
In a suit recently filed, and coming up for hearing soon, the City of Tillamook presents one of the most alarming and grasping transactions yet recorded in the history of the paving combine's work in Oregon. These Tillamook citizens say that the combine first had the Tillamook charter fixed up so that it would be a convenient working medium. Then they rushed through a great improvement plan, which resulted in a city with 1350 people and $200,000 assessed valuation, incurring in the year 1912 improvement charges aggregating $340,000. Most of this terrifying outlay was for a patented pavement, covering 71 blocks, a great deal of which is said to be absolutely worthless, after it is placed. Thus the humble property-owners say that they have been muzzled while improvements aggregating more than half the assessed valuation of the community were being made, but that when the work was finished, at an enormous unit charge, it is declared of a very inferior quality, and some of it is pronounced useless.

In addition to charging the paving people with conspiring and conniving to get their talons on most of the peaceful little community that is famed for its butter and cheese, Tillamook residents say they will prove in court that the Warren Construction Company, Elwood Wiles, and the Clark-Henry Company go through a fraudulent pretense of competitive bidding and apportion the work out among themselves at an enormous figure. When the paving question came up, and the hand-made, carefully-selected new charter of Tillamook was invoked, it was found by the aroused property owners that specifications had been inserted, which called for the patented pavement. Bids on no other kind were tolerated. In a great breadth of public spirit, and to prove how keen "competition" might become, the Warren Construction Company agreed to let any company in the whole great world lay its patented pavement by paying the mere trifle of $1.47 a square yard royalty. Even with this proviso on record, Elwood Wiles bid $2.02 a yard to lay bitulithic, but the Warren Company went under him to $1.98.

Tillamook men say this farce is apparent to them, and in its working effects, it is a destructive, vicious combine. They say that Wiles and one or two others have a secret agreement with the Warren Company to lay the bitulithic pavement at a very low royalty, where it is necessary to pass the work around a little, to prevent the monopoly from becoming too hideous to the public.

An injunction suit has been started, restraining the Mayor and Councilmen from trying to collect $137,000 that has been assessed against Tillamook property to pay for the pavement. This hearing promises to get at the vitals of the combine, if the Tillamook people can command all the evidence promised in their preliminary inquiries. This they are confident of presenting to the court at the proper time. They declare their ability to prove that they have been jobbed, both as to the amount of improvement work done in 1912, as to the price paid for the work, and as to the quality of the work, as revealed following completion. Without a patent protection, and in view of the cost of raw materials at Tillamook, the residents who have entered the court declare that a good pavement could have been laid there for $1 a square yard.

Tongue & Bagley, of Hillsboro, who were first taken into the case, have retained Fulton & Bowerman, of Portland, and when the issue comes up for trial at Tillamook, probably some time next month, one of the most interesting fights yet made against the paving combine is expected to develop. R. W. Montague is the attorney for the Warren Company.

Tillamook's Paving Troubles.

Editorial, Telegram of May 3:
In Tillamook they are having paving troubles. Paving monopoly has fastened its grip on this community, just growing to municipal manhood, and with the same species of greed it has

PRESIDENT KERR WILL BE HERE MONDAY, MAY 12.

On Monday, May 12, President Kerr, of the Oregon Agricultural College, will be in Tillamook City and will address an audience at the Court House upon the subject of "Demonstration Farm Work." Mr. Shrock, Deputy Dairy and Food Commissioner, will accompany Mr. Kerr.
One o'clock in the afternoon is the hour set for the meeting at the Court House and it is hoped and expected that there will be a large attendance of farmers especially.

CIRCUIT COURT ADJOURNS UNTIL JUNE.

On Saturday, Judge Galloway adjourned Circuit Court until June 2, at which time the suit against the Warren Construction Company, which the citizens have instituted and the suit which the Warren Construction Company has brought against the city will be tried. The suit Hadley vs. Hadley will also come up for further consideration at that time.

In the suit of Hadley vs. Hadley, it will be remembered that the widow of the late C. B. Hadley, brought suit through her attorney, Oak Nolan to secure a share of property which was in the hands of C. E. Hadley, a son, at the time of C. B. Hadley's death, the plaintiff alleging that there was a partnership between C. B. and C. E. Hadley. In the meantime C. E. Hadley secured a settlement with Otelia Hadley, the plaintiff, paying her $7,000 to let the suit drop. The plaintiff did this, however, without consulting her attorney, Mr. Nolan, who was not settled with through the transaction. Mr. Nolan is now endeavoring to bring the suit to trial, regardless of the settlement, and with this end in view, he has filed with the court a deposition made by Otelia Hadley to the effect that she made the settlement because of undue influences brought to bear upon her. Judge Galloway has continued the case until June 2, with the understanding that Otelia Hadley come into court with the $7000 which was paid her, after which he will consider the matter of reinstating her as plaintiff and allowing the case to come up for trial.

In the damage suit, Frank Long, Sr., administrator of the estate of Wm. Campbell, deceased, vs P. R. & N. Ry. Co., the jury, after being out all day and part of the night came to an agreement and rendered a verdict which gave to the plaintiff $2,000 damages and costs. It has been said that the company offered to settle for this amount previous to the trial, but this statement is not true.

CONTRACTORS FIGURING ON CONSTRUCTION OF NEW ODD FELLOW BUILDING.

Workmen are now busy making the excavations for the new I. O. O. F. building and contractors are figuring on the construction of the same.

The new building will be 10 1/2 x 80 feet, two stories. The ground floor will be rented to the First National Bank and a store, the bank to occupy the corner. The second floor will be occupied by lodge rooms and office rooms. There will be some twelve office rooms, ten of which have been already rented. The lodge rooms will consist of the lodge rooms proper, a banquet hall, reception room and kitchen.

The new building will be a great improvement to our city and will cost when completed about $20,000.

Christian Church Will Be Dedicated.

Sunday, May 11, is Date Set. A Fine Program Has Been Prepared and Committees Are Working Hard.

Next Sunday, May 11, is the date set for the dedicatory services for the new Christian Church, and Rev. Jope and the committee in charge are working over time to get things in shape by that date.

Other features of the services will be music by a large chorus of voices and vocal solos by Mrs. Jennie Roy Romeyn and C. H. Altheide.

After much labor and sacrifice the members of the Christian Church have about completed a fine church edifice which is costing them nearly $20,000. The new building is equipped with up-to-date facilities for handling the Sunday School and ample provision is made for the entertainment of the young folks. The new edifice is a credit and ornament to the city.

INDUSTRIAL FAIR WORKERS VISITS COUNTY.

Last week N. C. Maris, field worker for Industrial fairs, in company with Superintendent Buel, covered the county pretty well in their endeavor to arouse an effort and enthusiasm in behalf of industrial fairs for the children of the county, the fairs to take place this fall.

They met the people of Beaver and vicinity on Tuesday and arranged for a meeting which will take place on the evening of May 12, at the Beaver School house, at which time necessary committees will be appointed.

On Wednesday evening a mass meeting was held and committees appointed to look after the work of the schools of that locality.

On Thursday evening a meeting was held at Bay City and necessary committees appointed.

On Friday evening a meeting was held at Nehalem and committees appointed to look after the work for the schools in the north end of the county. Everyone seems to think the industrial fairs are a good thing, and they certainly are, but it takes a great deal of push to make a success of them.
