FRIDAY, JULY 1, 1913.

The cool refreshing weather which we are enjoying is in striking contrast to the searing hot sun that is at present afflicting the East, where scores of people are dying and hundreds have become prostrated. Those who have never experienced the severe hot weather of the East have no idea as to what the people of that locality suffer during the summer months. It is the severe hot and cold weather of the Eastern states that is driving so many people to the Pacific Northwest. Let them come, there is plenty of room for them.

The last issue of the Headlight contained a column or more of matter devoted to uncalled for criticisms of the citizens who are endeavoring to untangle our present financial difficulties, by segregating the warrants that were unwisely issued by last year's council, with the idea of securing some kind of an adjustment of the same. Had the old council acted wisely and looked after the business of the city as it should have done, in certain particulars, there would be no need of the citizens going to the trouble which they are now taking. The fact of the matter is, the citizens have been forced to take a hand in this thing for their own protection.

The Headlight, apparently, has no sympathy for our people in their predicament, and is endeavoring to cause further embarrassment by publishing statements that are liable to mislead. It is indeed interesting to note the fervor and zeal that Mr. Baker displays in flying to the relief of the Warren Construction Co., whenever the interests of that company may be in the least interfered with. From Mr. Baker's attitude one would naturally think that the Warren Construction Co. had been to us a great public benefactor, and that the citizens who are at present struggling for their rights ought to be thankful for the privilege that some have apparently taken advantage of, Editor Baker included, of worshipping at the shrine of this foreign institution. Newspapers are supposed to stand by the home people and their interests. Not so with the Headlight, however, and the question that is uppermost in the minds of many of us is: Why has the Headlight taken such an unnatural course in regard to the present controversy?

The issuing of a warrant of $800 and more to the Warren Construction Co. for payment of the discount which a warrant previously issued to that company was subjected to, was a gross mistake on the part of the council, as was afterwards admitted by one of the councilmen, and it seems to us that the company displayed an extra amount of gall when it asked the council to issue such a warrant. The company apparently was not satisfied with the six per cent interest which the warrants provided for.

No one with common sense will say that we are under any moral obligation to pay such a warrant as the one above mentioned, and if the committee lately appointed by the citizens can reach an agreement with the Warren Construction Co. whereby the warrant for $800 can be returned to the city, the committee will have done a good work. If the Headlight cannot aid the citizens in regard to this matter it should at least keep quiet and not adopt tactics that to many of us seem absolutely rotten.

There seems to be some division of opinion among the temperance people of the state in regard to future action relative to the Oregon dry campaign. Some of the Prohibitionists think we can, and would like to, vote Oregon dry in 1914, while others are in favor of waiting until 1916. Those in favor of a dry campaign for 1914, seem to put great stress and hope in the woman's vote. Another argument put forth in favor of a 1914 campaign is to the effect that the state of Washington will have a prohibition fight on hand that year and the liquor forces will of necessity be divided somewhat if Oregon also puts up a fight for prohibition at the same time.

Those in favor of a dry campaign for 1916 argue that 1916 being a presidential campaign year we will have a better chance of getting out the farmer vote, which the drys greatly need, 70 per cent of that vote being in favor of the dry regime. Those in favor of the 1916 idea argue that we need more time for preparation, and the opportunity which 1914 affords of getting rid of the Home Rule law which is such a handicap to the temperance movement.

We believe that those who are in favor of the 1916 program have the better of the argument. There will be a much better chance for putting Oregon in the dry column in 1916, because the temperance people will have a longer time in which to organize and get ready for the fray, and it is a well known fact that preparation is about the whole thing to any fight.

The dependence which the 1914 advocates are putting in the women's vote, is in our opinion, of little weight, if we are to take a few facts and figures into consideration. For instance, take our own liquor fight here in Tillamook last spring. In that fight, with the women voting, the temperance people got the most severe beating they ever received, the vote standing 420 in favor of saloons and 246 against saloons.

We were always of the opinion that it would be impossible to get women to sign a petition for a saloon, however, to our surprise, one of the Garibaldi saloons was able to get the signatures of twenty-eight women on its petition last spring, and this in a locality that had at that time a comparatively small population. And we have it on good authority that 125 women signed a petition for a saloon at Banks.

These reports and others like them lead us to believe that the women's vote on the whiskey question is going to be divided about as the men's vote is, therefore some time and attention must be paid to organizing the women as well as the men against the saloon men.

It seems to us that so much organizing is to be done before Oregon can be voted dry, that it would be folly to attempt it before 1916, by which time the temperance forces could get in shape for a supreme effort, with a reasonable chance of winning.

CHOLERA TO BE STOPPED

State Sanitary Board to Ask Governor for Two Proclamations

Salem.—Rules to prevent the spread of hog cholera, glanders and other contagious diseases of animals were discussed at the first meeting of the state livestock sanitary board, provided for in an act passed at the recent session of the legislature. The board decided to ask the governor to issue two proclamations, one that all horses, mules and jacks must be tested to prove their freedom from glanders before being brought into the state, and the other that all hogs shipped into the state, other than those for immediate slaughter, shall be immunized from cholera by the use of a serum.

Charles Cleveland, of Gresham, was elected president of the board.

Witness' Body Found in Sea

Fort Stevens.—In the discovery of a body declared to be that of Private Crawford, the location of Private Lowe's hospital at the Presidio near San Francisco, and a letter from Corporal Shade indicating that he fled to Canada on deserting from this post, the mystery that has surrounded the disappearance of the government's three important witnesses, in the case against Private Waldo Coffman, who is charged with spreading treasonable propaganda among the troops, is believed to have been partially cleared up.
