The commercial fishing season on the upper Rogue river, comprising the territory between Grants Pass and the mouth of Jump-off Joe creek, closed at midnight July 31. It is expected that a general inspection of all the irrigation projects in Oregon in which the government is interested will be made by Franklin K. Lane, secretary of the interior, during his visit to this state next month. Senator Chamberlain has been authorized by the public land committee to report favorably a bill reducing the age limit under which homesteaded or other entries may be made by male or female persons, to 18 years. Major James F. McIndoe, of the corps of United States engineers, announces that it is the intention to begin work on the north jetty at the mouth of the Columbia river in October. The old territorial seal of Oregon, which was discarded when Oregon was admitted to the Union in 1859, now is the official seal of Multnomah county and incidentally the first seal which this county has ever had. A small cloudburst hit Shanks accompanied by a high wind and lightning. At least of water stood in the streets of Shanks and outbuildings and fences were turned over and damaged. A monument marked "Lincoln National Highway" has been placed on the road leading from Klamath Falls to Lakeview, where the county line between Klamath and Lake counties crosses the road. Announcement was made by Governor West of his recommendations to the interior department for the distribution of the 10 per cent road fund provided by the department through the sale of timber lands in forest reserves. Morrow county citizens have raised over $2500 to hold a county fair on September 23, 24 and 27. A good premium list will be offered for all classes of livestock and farm produce and a baby show will be among the attractions. Joseph Kreis, a Chicago engineer and inventor, is at Cherrville, looking for a location for the White Cross Producers and the American Homes association. Its object is to provide small tracts for homesteaders of limited means. While Eng near Wilson Oliver, running out of Grants on the O.V.R. & N., was engaged in fixing the headlight, his engine crashed into a string of freight cars. He suffered a broken leg, four broken ribs and numerous bruises in the collision which ensued. One of the greatest collections of aquatic, Indian curios and sea mosses ever displayed is promised at the third annual amateur carnival, which will be held at Port Orford, August 10 and 16. The dedication of the Port Orford granite palace is also to be a feature of the carnival. A threshing machine was blown to pieces by a steam explosion at Ely Ely's big wheel north of Pendleton. Frank Wilkins, the separator tender, was seriously burned, and 25 acres or more of grain was destroyed in the fire which followed. The contractor probed that they will finish the dam (Grand Dam) on the Southern Pacific branch from Eugene to Coos Bay within 30 days. One end of the dam is over 317 feet into the mountains and the other is 54 feet, with 249 feet remaining to blast out. Representative Skelton has urged the public lands committee to take up at once the ranch homestead bill, which requires homestead improvements of a certain cash value per acre. He urged that the bill, which has already passed the senate, be made an emergency matter and become a law at this session. A feud, which has been going on for the past three years between J. M. Beasly, negro farmer of Clatsamas county, and Lawrence Myers, a white farmer of Clatsamas precinct, culminated when Myers ambushed and attempted to kill his colored neighbor. Myers was arrested by Sheriff Mass and brought to Oregon City. His bail was fixed at $1000, which he was not able to raise, and he was lodged in jail. The supreme court of Oregon handed down 19 opinions, the largest number ever given out in one day. The court rendered 66 opinions during July, also establishing a new record for any one month. In one of its important rulings, the court held that initiative measures should not be placed on the ballot for the special referendum election called for next November.
