THE OLD RELIABLE
Tillamook County Bank

The Stillwell Ave and Third St. S. intersection including the large Snuffer implement warehouse and vacant lots adjoining have all been fenced off by wire fencing, with entrance on Third St., for the first Tillamook County Fair that is now going on as we go to press. Three large tents have been erected to hold the cattle, horse and poultry exhibits, sheds were built for the swine and all other exhibits were displayed in the large building which had been appropriately decorated for the occasion. Several concessionaires have secured locations within the grounds, where those who wish can "blow" their loose change for a chance to hit the "biggie babies," "loop the girdle" or "ding the gong".

The severe rain and wind storm of Tuesday and Wednesday did not, as many had predicted discourage the officers or stop the exhibitors from making a grand rally on Thursday, as soon as the clouds broke, and whip things into shape for crowds so that everything has proceeded according to program one day late. The exhibitors and visitors would naturally have been more numerous if the storm had not come but to date there is no complaint and the show is all any one expected and a great encouragement for a better one next year.

Exhibition Hall.

The big warehouse transformed into an exhibition hall and filled to capacity with the various exhibits is the most interesting feature of the fair, especially the Women's departments Mrs. O. A. Schultz Supt., has a most complete display in the art section showing fancy needle and crochet work, paintings, etc. The domestic science section had a fine showing of cakes, bread, preserves, jellies and canned vegetables. The women can be depended on at any time to make their features of any public enterprise a success. The display of the public schools is not very large and undoubtedly owing to the weather making it impossible for those from the north and south end of the county to bring in their exhibits. Cheese is largely in evidence and has a conspicuous place, as it should have, among the exhibits, other dairy products are not much in evidence excepting the Gladwell dairy which has a very creditable display of its products. The Dahlia display is especially fine and large, every known kind is exhibited.

A number of the enterprising local business men have put in fine tasty booths showing and demonstrating their wares. The Haltom store has an especially fine one, also King and Smith, hardware, Jones-Knudson, furniture, and the Tillamook and Clough drug stores. The Fairview Grange as usual is to the front occupying a large section of the hall with a fine and varied display of fruits, grains grasses and domestic science articles. The demonstrator is also there with several kinds of milk separators and testers, electric devices, automobiles etc.

Secretary Blalock has his office in one corner of this building and is kept on the jump all the time but has the able assistance of the president and directors, and the superintendents of the various departments.

The Band's Music

The performance of the Tillamook band during the fair was good. The excellent quality and generous quantity of music furnished by them was one of the features and was greatly appreciated by the natives and visitors. Marcellus Koempe, the new leader, first visited Tillamook as a member of the Third Regiment band during the recent encampment and was then engaged to conduct the band, taking charge July 22nd. Regular rehearsals were held but owing to haying and rush of work the members could not attend regularly until the last few weeks; however, their work is fine considering the short time for practice. The band numbers only fifteen pieces at present but if it is kept up under Mr. Koempe the membership can be greatly increased. It is hoped some arrangement will be made to retain the director. He leaves next week for a visit with relatives at North Yakama, Wash., but hopes to return.

Fair Notes.

Secretary Blalock's exhibit of grains, grasses and fruits from his Sunnynook farm near Beaver, that is shown in the hall is a fine advertisement for the county, showing what can be produced on a ranch. There is no doubt many others could make an equal if not better showing if they would have enough enterprise to do so.

The ancient shooting iron owned by E. T. Epplett on exhibition was found down on the prairie and is quite a curio. It suggests that any thing relating to old pioneer days would make an interesting feature of the fair and that the Tillamook County pioneer associations should hold their reunions on fair days.

At the Thursday evening meeting it was decided to adjourn the annual stockholders meeting for the election of officers to Saturday afternoon Sept. 13th.

Friday and Saturday weather conditions were ideal and the farmers took advantage of it to flock to the fair and those days good attendance was had. The grounds being crowded all day.

Sixteen young ladies of the Royal Daughters class of the Christian Church gave a very fine patriotic flag drill Saturday morning in front of the exhibition hall, keeping time to the music furnished by the full band. A large crowd witnessed the drill and enjoyed every feature of it.

M. R. Hannenkratt and E. T. Epplett are very efficient gate keepers and saw that no "deadheads" got by. Clarence Atterbury is acting as special policeman during the fair days.

MERCHANTS EXHIBITS.

Haltom's Exhibit.

The exhibit of the Haltom department store shows the great interest and enterprise of the owner in helping make the fair artistic and successful. Mr. Haltom, the leading merchant in his line in the city, carries the largest stock of goods west of Portland. Considerable labor and expense was required to fix up his exhibit and it has been admired and praised by all the lady visitors.

Clough's Exhibit.

Clough's exhibit of Rexall goods and other commodities in his line was tasty and well arranged. A large quantity of Clough's Orange Cider was given away as well as other articles.

Jones-Knudson Furniture Co.

A cosy corner of the exhibition building is one furnished by Jones-Knudson Furniture Co. Easy chairs and other upholstered furniture are on exhibition and are used by weary fair visitors. Their exhibit is useful as well as ornamental.

King & Smith Co.

King & Smith Co., have a fine exhibit, which is drawing the attention of many fair visitors. They are up-to-date in their line of business and are always anxious to please.

The Tillamook Drug Store.

The Tillamook Drug Store, Koch & Hill proprietors, has a fine exhibit. Drinking cups and other articles are given to visitors and they have done their share towards beautifying the exhibition building.

The Parades

Three parades were held, led by Frank Severance and N. G. Myers on horseback acting as marshalls and the band. The stock parade in which all the prize winners were entered was finest and most interesting and was over three blocks long. The blue ribboned pedigreed animals seem to realize they were on exhibit and made a fine showing. Tillamook County's leading industry was represented by Swiss cheese makers in a large conveyance driven by Chas. Kunze followed by the Swiss dairymaids in their quaint old country costumes. The automobile parade took place on Friday afternoon and about 25 cars were entered, some very handsomely decorated especially the I. O. O. F. and the G. A. R. cars. The civic parade took place Saturday afternoon in which fair officials, Fairview Grange, G. A. R. and W. R. C., Royal Daughters, school children, King & Smith in Juveniles, and other organizations participated.

Cattle Tent.

Superintendent Dr. Reedy of the live stock department has made fine provisions for taking care of the stock. Stalls had been built in the large tents and were pretty well filled. The Jersey breed predominating although there were also a good representation of Holstein, Durham and Guernsey. The stock was all judged by experts from abroad the first day and were tagged with the blue and red ribbons during the fair and our local experts had a chance to verify or condemn the decisions of the judges. The list of the prize winners will be given in our next Tuesday's issue.

Horse Tent.

The display of horses was not large nor representative of that class in this county although there were a number of fine entries. A two year old mare exhibited by Joe Donaldson and her half brother owned by Jonas Olson were a sample of what is produced and were the admiration of all spectators, both weighing over 1500 pounds.

Poultry Tent.

A fine large poultry exhibition would have been had if the weather had not interfered as Supt. Booth of this department had been assured by many of the poultry fanciers that they would be represented. Tillamook County has many fine flocks of chickens and ducks and the showing made is not a fair exhibition of what we have. Poultry is an interesting thing to almost everyone and the chickens, ducks turkeys and pigeons shown had many admirers among the visitors.

Agricultural Lectures.

The lectures given by Professors Scudder and Hyslop of the state agricultural school were not attended as well as the merit of the instructions given deserved. These gentlemen are farmer raised agricultural educated men and have experimented at the O. A. C. along the lines beneficial to the Oregon rancher, who is living in the most favored climate for cattle ranching in the world. In the Willamette Valley where the O. A. C. farm is located, they have demonstrated that an acre will support three cows by stall feeding, and Tillamook county ought to do equally as well if the right kind of methods are used. In their talks they showed how this could be brought about and convinced their hearers to that effect. Many of our best ranchers heard the lectures and were so impressed, that they hope to have the services of the agricultural school experts for institutes to be held in the near future.

Demonstrators.

Usually manufacturers take advantage of county fairs to demonstrate the many different kinds of machinery used on a ranch, thereby directly showing the farmers the uses of many devices that he is ignorant of. There was one grain shredder in operation on the grounds although we have no doubt the machinery dealers now realize they missed a golden opportunity to advertise.
