FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 19, 1913.

A large number of pupils have taken up the work of the domestic science class in our school. This line of work is bound to prove a blessing for the city. It is high time we were training our girls to be useful as well as ornamental and the domestic science course is one of the ways of doing it.

Light burning of underbrush to remove litter has been practiced in India, with the idea that it improves conditions for forest growing. Now after long investigations forest officials there say that the fires are harmful, that full fire protection must be extended everywhere, and that to be really effective this protection must be continuous.

Bro. Baker's headlight is apparently in a very agitated state of mind these days. We really feel sorry for you Bro. Baker. Being a good dog for the Warren Construction Co., is no doubt satisfactory to even one whose sensibilities are as blunted as are yours. However you have gone into this thing of your own accord, and you can blame no one but yourself for the mess you have got into. If you had been sense enough to keep quiet for a reasonable length of time there might be some chance to shake the apparent unpleasant condition that now surrounds you and in time set yourself right. Bro. Baker you remind us of a fellow dancing to the tune of an electric battery which he cannot let go of, while the situation may be a serious one for you, it is not the cause of much mirth to his onlookers.

RAISE BOUNTIES ON COUGARS, WOLVES AND OTHER VARMINTS.

Portland, Sept. 17.—At a meeting of the state fish and game commission it was determined that a bounty in addition to the regular state bounty should be paid for the scalp of all carnivorous animals which are destructive to wild game. The state bounty on bobcats is $2, but an additional $1 will be given by the commission for such scalps. The bounty on cougars was raised from $10 to $25, timber wolves from $5 to $25. With these increased bounties it is believed that many woodsmen this winter will take up trapping and hunting, as it will prove profitable to them. They will be able to get a good sum from the sale of furs in addition to the scalp bounty.

The commission determined to prohibit the raising of California quail. A large number are being distributed in various sections of the state, and it is feared that unless they are protected they will be slaughtered. State Game Warden Finley reported that during this summer he has distributed 549 pairs of quail to the public.

MAKING BREAD THAT IS GOOD AND WHOLESOME.

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Ore., Sept. 15, "Bread should be in flavor sweet and nutty and the odor should be the same as the flour. It should be completely baked that when pressed it immediately springs out upon release of pressure. The color should be golden brown, top, sides and bottom. The loaf should be evenly raised with no cracks, protruding or uneven crusts. The bread when cut should have a soft, velvety texture, all harshness absent. It should slice smoothly without crumbling. The holes should be numerous, small and of uniform size. The color should be a slightly creamy white," says Mrs. Henrietta W. Calvin, dean of the School of Domestic Science and Art, Oregon Agricultural College.

While everyone knows good bread from bad, it is not everyone that knows how to apply the principles required to secure the many details that constitute good bread. The details are simply and entertainingly given by Mrs. Calvin in College Bulletin No. 83, Extension Series 3, just issued by the Extension Division.

Any housekeeper who feels like trying to make bread of the appetizing kinds described and is not quite sure of the process, may secure a copy containing the easily followed directions by addressing R. D. Hetzel, Extension Division, O. A. C., Corvallis, Oregon. Other bulletins of this series are Principles of Cake Making and Principles of Jelly Making.

The Lord knows, and most of the people know that we have plenty of churches, but lots of folks don't go to any. The churches cost money and effort to keep them up, and they ought to be used by all the people. Don't be on the exception list. Come to church.
