FRIDAY, OCTOBER 10, 1913.

The whole nation breathed easier when it was learned, officially that the late earthquake shock on the Isthmus had done no damage to the canal. There has always been a question as to whether the canal locks and other works would stand a severe earthquake shock. Fear for damage from that source is now considerably lessened.

At the opening session of the International Congress on Alcohol, at Milan, Italy, September 22, Prof. Marchisava, Physician to Pope Pius, was the chief speaker. His subject was "The Pathology of Alcoholism," and in his address he summed up his studies, researches and observations extending over a period of fifty years of active professional work and he found a preponderance of evidence to convict alcoholic beverages as a bad thing. He was enthusiastically applauded.

We have heard on good authority, that Portland cheese dealers sometimes label cheese made in other localities than Tillamook County, "Tillamook Cheese," and sell it with the understanding that it is Tillamook cheese. This is generally done when the dealers are out of Tillamook cheese. This matter should be looked into. It is strictly against the law and the dealers who practice the deceit should be punished. Harm and loss may come to our dairymen through this violation of the law which should be stopped at once, if it is possible to stop it.

The Standard Oil Company is reported to be working on a process involving an entirely new process of making gasoline from crude oil, which will greatly increase the amount of gasoline obtainable and reduce the percentage of fuel oil. Already the appliances for the new process have been installed in the big plant of the Standard Oil Company at Whiting, Ind., at a cost of $1,500,000, and also in the plant at Alton, Ill. It is expected the fuel will appear in a few weeks and will sell for about four cents less a gallon than the present price of gasoline. It is believed it eventually will be possible to convert 75 per cent of crude oil into gasoline.

Secretary of State Bryan has been criticised considerably because he has seen fit to make several addresses at summer chaletaus during the past season. While making these addresses our secretary has used only that time which would be allotted him for his summer vacation. If he has seen fit to make speeches rather than spend his vacation amid pink teas, or other like entertainments that is his business. One of Mr. Bryan's great enjoyments is to talk and if he can get more pleasure, and incidentally more money, by giving lectures than he can by following the pleasures that some other men enjoy, he should have the privilege of giving lectures if he so sees fit. It will be noticed that most of Mr. Bryan's critics belong to the old stand pat gang that have never allowed an opportunity to slip to hold him up to ridicule. If Mr. Bryan spent twice the time he spends in making speeches, in hobnobbing with representatives of the interests, not a word would be said by our over zealous stand pat newspapers. It is a rare treat and education to hear Mr. Bryan talk, and if he has decided to spend his vacation time in giving lectures, the nation is that much benefited.

FIRST ROAD PRIMER DUE.

Eugene, Or., Oct. 7.—A road primer, the first of its kind, is to be issued by County Judge Thompson, who for a long time has been studying the problem of securing some method of teaching properly the principles of road-building at the country schools. The book is to be written by Hollis W. Libbo, County Surveyor, and be published by the County Judge. Although intended to be used as a means of instruction primarily in Lane County, the book will be available for schools all over Oregon. It is believed it will meet a general demand.

"We're blazing a trail in this line, just as Lane County has blazed a trail in other lines in road construction," said Judge Thompson yesterday. "This book, so far as I know, will be the first of the kind, but it will be of great value in the schools. It will not only teach the children, the future generation, the elements of road construction, but it will bring this phase of education home to the parents.

"At present we need a book of this kind in the schools of the Siuslaw district, where Miss VanBiber has already introduced road-building and road-construction as a course, and where she has offered prizes for the best road. The ordinary teacher cannot teach such a subject as this, and a road primer, or textbook of some kind, is necessary."

[Editor's Note: A road primer for our public schools would certainly be a fine thing. The greatest burden which the people of this country have to bear at the present time is the "mud tax," and apparently the thing we know the least about and the thing we take the least interest in, generally speaking, is the matter of good roads. In many localities, heretofore, it has been the tendency of workmen to see just how little they could do on the roads, and we are sorry to say that this is apparently the case even in our own county these days. It is plain to be seen that the people need to be educated as to the value of good roads and as to the cheapest and best way of building them. A practical course in road building would not be out of place in every school. The knowledge which the young folks would gain thereby would mean much for the future.]

MEXICO.

From Harper's Weekly.
One of the current ideas of the time, taken for granted by most people, is that a man has a right to go into a half civilized country in order to make money by speculative investments and then, if political conditions in that country interfere with his money-making, he has the right to involve his own nation in war to protect his so-called interests, thus forcing his countrymen to interrupt their useful activities, and spend their money and their blood, and brutalize their civilization, for the sake of looking after his dividends. This is not President Wilson's view. His conduct of the Mexican situation has been remarkable for patience, and for a firm but tactful adherence to those general principles by which his whole life and thought are guided. As he has stated publicly, he wishes to act "not in the interest of any person or body of persons who may have personal or property claim in Mexico." Those foreign newspapers which have been calling his policy in Mexico amateurish may imagine that their own conduct of Balkan affairs and other complications in Europe and Asia is professional; but they will have hard work to convince enlightened American that professionalism of that sort is superior to amateurishness of the kind that President Wilson is exhibiting.
