FRIDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1913.

Col. Geo. R. Colton, governor of Porto Rico, says that after a three years' fight, the lottery swindle which has robbed the people of that island of $2,000,000 a year has been effectively suppressed. Only another indication of the beneficent effects of United States rule in Porto Rico.

President Wilson is now reported as saying that the passage of the tariff law only half completes the emancipation of the American people from industrial bondage—that the enactment of the currency reform bill must follow. To the latter the president has set himself with the same resolution he showed over the tariff legislation. For a little quiet man, Woodrow Wilson has Theodore Roosevelt beaten for persistent strenuousness and bull dog tenacity.

The conventions which will hold forth at the Commercial Club rooms in this city next week will give our farmers and town people an opportunity to learn a great deal about the dairy business in a general way. Some splendid lectures will be given on different subjects relative to the dairy industry, all of which will be of much value to Tillamookers. A special invitation is given to every rancher in Tillamook County, whether he belongs to the associations which will be represented here next week or not, to be present at the meetings. Let everyone turn out and help make the affair a grand success.

The growth of the automobile industry, and the use of these horseless vehicles, in the United States, is shown in some figures recently given out. During 1912 automobiles in this country paid in registration and license fees $5,638,878—a figure which exceeded the value of our exports of automobiles in 1906. In 1911 we exported automobiles to the value $16,924,361, and in the following year the total reached $23,703,969. In 1912 we had nearly as many automobiles in New York State as there were in France and Germany combined. Finally, the total number of automobiles on our highways in 1912 was a round million. And Detroit is the chief center of the automobile manufacturing industry in the United States and in the whole world!

An important advance toward self government, and perhaps independence, has been made in the Philippines, since Francis Burton Harrison went out as governor-general. The natives are to be given a majority of both branches of the Philippine legislature. They have controlled the popular assembly, but the American commission or "Senate" has had the veto power and has been the actual government. Two American commissioners are soon to retire, and natives and not Americans will be named to succeed them. A transfer of power and control will thus be quietly effected, the natives getting six out of the nine commissionerships. Upon the use they make of this new power will very much depend the further steps toward complete autonomy of the Philippines.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, "the old man eloquent" of Canada, undaunted by his crushing defeat two years ago on the question of reciprocity with the United States, has returned to the charge. In a speech last week at Ottawa, which was enthusiastically received, he surprised his opponents and many of his supporters by reviving reciprocity and tariff issues. Sir Wilfrid and his principal advisers, including all his old ministers, assert that the new United States tariff will have the effect of making the lowering of the tariff the prime issue in Canadian politics. Several old time Conservative newspapers are already indicating that they will support the new low tariff campaign. Foremost among these are the Ottawa Citizen and Toronto World. The new tariff law in the United States, by removing the duty on food stuffs, has greatly stimulated shipments across the border—so much so as to raise perceptibly prices off the Canadian side. Free traders argue that this proves that reciprocity or the removal of tariff barriers would benefit Canada. High tariff advocates, however, will insist that the present condition is best for Canada—free trade in what she has to sell, but protection against the products of the United States.

Dr. Wilbur F. Crafts, who was present throughout The Hague International Opium Conference, and has kept posted on the progress of the movement for a worldwide treaty to end the opium traffic, reports that since the close of the conference in July three of the ten governments which had up to that time refused or failed to sign have added their signatures, namely, Peru, Norway and Sweden, leaving only seven yet to sign—Austria-Hungary, Switzerland, Turkey, Greece, Serbia, Roumania, Montenegro. Five of these are Balkan states, too busy of late to give attention to such matters. The only Balkan states having large commercial interests in either opium or cocaine are Turkey and Greece. After these signatures are all in there must be ratification by forty-five governments and then a period of diplomatic correspondence as to when the treaty shall be put in force. Because of the great public revenues and greater profits involved, says Dr. Crafts, there is sure to be need of a strong driving power of international moral sentiment to get the treaty through these stages.

Among the bills that have been referred to the people to be voted on in November is the County Attorney bill, which provides that each county shall have an attorney, instead of a district attorney doing the work for several counties, with deputies to assist, as has been the case in the past.

We believe the county attorney idea is a good one. It is in vogue in nearly every other state in the union. Under the present method there is too much opportunity to shift responsibility; the county attorney would do away with this, as he would be directly responsible to the people.

The expense for a county attorney would be very little more than what is now paid for district attorneys.

People are finding objections to the bill because Gov. West's appointees will hold office until 1916 if the bill carries. We understand that the appointments were made to hold until 1916 because of the fact that the district attorneys have been elected to hold office until that date, and the new bill provides that the district attorney shall be appointed county attorney in the county in which he resides, and setting the appointive date to 1916 will give district attorneys an opportunity to hold office during the time for which they were elected, and will cause all the appointments to terminate at the same time.

In most cases this arrangement may be satisfactory, but where the governor has arbitrarily made an appointment not satisfactory to the people, the people of the county so affected will undoubtedly feel that an injustice has been done them by appointing a man that they do not want and then not give them an opportunity to vote on the question for so long a time.

The bill in the main is a good one, and we believe one desired by the people as a whole, but the long terms granted the appointees will undoubtedly be the cause of many voting against it.

The Bible School is growing with leaps and bounds.—We have regular and qualified teachers for every class. We have two adult Bible classes—one for married people, and the other for young unmarried people of both sexes.

People's praise and gospel service at 7:30 p. m. The sermon will have for its theme: "Four great religious facts that cannot be denied."

The Guild House which is being erected on the west side of the church is not a residence for the pastor and his family as some have supposed, but a house for the congregation. It will consist of three rooms: a large front room, 45x30, and two rear rooms, each 15x17, one for a parlor and the other a kitchen with all modern appliances for serving suppers. It is our aim to make this new building the social centre of the parish. The front room will be fitted up with chairs and a stereopticon for educational and missionary lectures. Strangers sojourning in our city are extended a cordial welcome to all the services of the church.

FARMERS' WEEK BOILED DOWN INSTITUTE WORK

Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Ore., Oct. 20.—Farmers' Week as conducted this year will be a concentrated and developed farmers' institute, with all the machinery of the Oregon Agricultural College available for the farmers' use. The work will be intensive, practical and objective. The students of the Farmers' Week will have the use of all the advantages supplied by the State—instructors, buildings, laboratories, experiment plots, orchards, fields, gardens, livestock and machinery.

One of the most important phases of the work will be rural organization, cooperation and credits. Farmers who see the necessity of something more than large crops to make their work as successful as it should be will be informed of successful methods of organization and direct marketing, as practiced in most European and in a few American countries. European farmers are making better progress than American farmers. The chief causes of this are the better cooperative, credit and marketing methods of the European farmers. These systems will be explained by Dr. Hector Macpherson who went to Europe to investigate them, and recommendations for rural organization in Oregon will be made by himself and other experts.

An opportunity will also be given farmers to examine the approved machinery and tools of the College collection, and as far as possible to test their merits.

The dairy demonstrations will include selection, feed and management of the dairy herd; sanitary methods of milking and handling milk; and separating, ripening and manufacturing cream.

Further information about the work of Farmers' Week may be had by addressing a request for College Bulletin No. 88 to Professor R. D. Hetzel, Extension Director, Corvallis, Ore. Reduced rates for this course will be granted by all Oregon roads.
