MRS. J. C. PANGBORN DEAD.

On Friday, evening, Oct. 24, at 9:50 o'clock, Mrs. J. C. Pangborn died at the Tillamook Sanitarium, after an illness of 12 weeks. Mrs. Pangborn was operated on the Tuesday previous to her death and it was hoped and thought for a time that she would regain her health.

The deceased was a member of the Methodist Church and a fine Christian woman. She leaves a husband and three children: Marvin, aged 9, May, aged 7, and Irene, aged 4; and a mother and many other relatives. Miss Blanche Rouse was born in 1853 near Malden, Ill., and in 1903 she was married to J. C. Pangborn at Malden. In March, 1912, they came to Tillamook County, buying the Carver place and making their residence there.

On Monday morning Mr. Pangborn and children, accompanied by Mrs. Jacob Brocken and Miss Addie Rouse, sister, and Arthur Campbell, cousin of the deceased, left with the body for Malden, Ill., where the funeral services will be conducted by Rev. Kuhlman, who was pastor in charge of the Methodist Church here last year.

Before leaving on Monday morning a short prayer service was held at the Doty home, which was attended by relatives and friends of the deceased.

There is a feeling of deep regret and sorrow felt by all of this community who knew the deceased, because of her untimely death. Women of her stamp are most certainly a loss to any community.

Mr. Pangborn is not decided as to whether he will sell his property and remain in the east or return and make his future home here. His many friends hope that he will see his way clear to return.

BUTTER AND CHEESE MAKERS MEET IN ANNUAL SESSION

President Townsend Delivers Interesting Address in Reply to Address of Welcome by Chas. Kunze. Meetings Interesting, Weather Ideal

The annual convention of the Oregon Butter and Cheese Maker's Association and the Oregon Dairymen's Association convened in this city on Monday evening at the Tillamook Commercial Club.

The first to hold this convention was the Butter and Cheese Maker's Association, of which T. S. Townsend is the president. There was a good attendance, and much interest was taken in the first meeting.

Charles Kunze in his address of welcome to the Butter and Cheese Maker's Association, said:

"It is a great pleasure to me to have the opportunity at this time to extend to you a hearty welcome from the different cheese and dairy organizations and the members of the Tillamook Commercial Club. We consider it quite an honor to have the cheese and butter makers to convene with us. We look upon an occasion of this kind as a great educator, and whereas the people of Tillamook County are in the junior class of your work and have quite a bit to learn along these lines, we will be able to assure you a good attendance at this time.

So far as having to take the junior class of your organization, it is not that we are not interested in your work and would like to have taken an active part before, but where conditions naturally have been favorable to host your meetings in the winter time, until just lately it was very unfavorable to the people of Tillamook County. Previous to the railroad being built to Tillamook there were but two public carriers, one was by mountain road on which you generally faced from five to fifteen feet of snow and the other was by water, where, with the southerly winds you stood a good chance to be bar bound from one to two months at a clip.

Now, gentlemen, I merely mention this so that you will not criticize us too strongly for not having shown more interest in the state organization or for not having made a better showing for membership in your secretary's books, for we fully realize the important part the cheese and butter makers fill in the dairy industry, from the time the dairymen turn the furrow to sow his crops, which are to be converted into milk, and then delivered to the cheese or butter factory and the returns therefrom compensate him for all his labor. Not only have you got to satisfy the dairymen but you also have to satisfy the consumer as to his fine taste.

We fully understand that the dairymen take a certain part of the responsibility in producing good, clean and wholesome milk, realizing the fact that the cheese and butter makers and the dairymen ought to work together in working out the best results, and whereas the opportunity is available at this time to solve these great problems, I extend to you a hearty welcome from the dairymen, cheesemakers and citizens of Tillamook.

President Townsend, in reply prefaced his reply with a few remarks regarding Tillamook. He said:

"There is no town or city in Oregon that gives me more pleasure in having the Butter and Cheese Makers Association meet, than here at Tillamook; because it was at this place twenty-one years ago, that I built my first butter and cheese factory in the state of Oregon, and I might also state that it was the first commercial factory to be built in Tillamook County.

"This was the beginning of creamery work in Tillamook County; and the farmers not being acquainted with the method pursued by creameries, to have their milk and cream taken off their farm to be worked up; many of them looked upon the new industry with some suspicion. But when the building and machinery were ready for operation, the business started with a rush. My business relations with the farmers of Tillamook County were so agreeable and pleasant that it is always a pleasure to come back to Tillamook."

Mr. Townsend then delivered his annual address to the association, his subject being "Quality Goods," which was as follows:

"To members of the Butter and Cheese Makers Association, I want to say that the object of our association is purely for educational purposes, that we may meet together and confer with one another as to better methods in handling our milk and cream products, and manufacturing these into butter cheese makers of "Tillamook County," when it comes to "quality goods" have the butter makers of our state somewhat beaten.

"It is a well known fact that a few years ago the cheese factories of this county got together, made up their minds that they must have 'quality goods'; they made up a fund, as we understand, among themselves, for the purpose of employing an inspector, a man who would visit their cheese factories at regular intervals and inspect the cheese made at each factory; and when the cheese did not score as 'extras', his stamp was not put on such goods. Here they began their educational work, and when the cheese maker was lacking, he was instructed what method to use in making better goods; and today Tillamook County has the reputation of making very fine cheese, 'quality goods'; and they deserve this reputation because they have worked for it.

"Now, it is up to us as butter makers to see if we cannot do equally as well, and go them one better if possible; and I trust that at the session of this convention facts may be brought out, which will be of great benefit to us all."

Considerable discussion followed the reading of the President's address, which, at first, was devoted to butter making and the large amount of poor quality placed on the market. The president went after the butter makers to do better. Both the president and A. H. Lee impressed upon the association that it was a superior quality that was wanted and for which there was always a good market, and their association should get together to bring this about. Both of these gentlemen mentioned the new tariff law and stated that both milk and cream had been placed on the free list and that a large amount of butter and cheese was being shipped into the country, it was of superior quality and it was up to the butter and cheese makers to turn out as superior an article. They did not know what effect the new law would have upon the dairying business. Several reasons were given for poor quality butter, some of which were unsanitary surroundings, inexperienced makers and wrong starters. F. W. Christensen then gave some useful information as to the success which attended the manufacture of cheese in Tillamook County, one of which was that the cheese makers had instructions not to receive milk that was unwholesome. The greatest success was in organizing the different co-operative factories and turning out a uniform grade of cheese. In regard to cheese makers he stated that experienced makers had come here from the East, but strange to say, some of these had not made good. The system which he had inaugurated, that of giving young men two or three years apprenticeship in the local factories, was working most satisfactorily, so much so that some of these young cheese makers were carrying off the best prizes in the cheese contests.

President Townsend appointed the following committees:

Resolutions: L. B. Ziemer, F. W. Christensen, Guy Ford, A. H. Lee.

Auditing: Hugh Barber, A. A. Underhill, J. C. Robinson.

By Laws: A. H. Lee, L. P. Holgerson, A. Underhill.

Tuesday mornings subjects were "Quality" by L. P. Holgerson of Junction City, and "Factory Inspection" by Deputy Dairy and Food Inspector, L. B. Ziemer, both of which were followed with discussions.

A motion was made and carried that a telegram be sent to the National Convention assuring that the Oregon Association was heartily in accord with the National Association.
