REMINGTON UMC ARROWSHOT SHELLS

SPEED—SPEED—and again, SPEED

Your object in shooting is to get your bird with the center of your load. Of course! Then shoot these Steel Lined Speed Shells.

They are the fastest shells in the market. Their speed is demonstrated beyond question by the one test in all ballistic matters—the Electric Chronograph. Then, too, there is the experience of thousands of seasoned gunners who have been shooting the Remington-UMC Steel Lined Shells ever since they came out.

The steel lining is the thing. It grips the powder—holds it in compression—puts all the drive of the explosion behind the shot.

Your load travels quicker—your shoots up your load. You cut down the guess work on lead and angles—you get more birds.

Your dealer carries these steel shells. Get them. Use them. Find the Red Ball mark on every box of shells and metallic you buy.

PORTLAND LETTER.

Portland, Oregon, Oct. 28, (Special) — An urgent invitation is being sent out to officials and members of all Southern Oregon commercial bodies to attend a great "booster" convention at Grants Pass on Thursday, November 6. The Grants Pass Commercial Club, assisted by the business men of all Josephine County, will be in attendance to welcome the visitors. There will be a morning session 9:30, but the general convention will meet at 1:30. P. M.

The arrangement of a program for this session is in the hands of a committee of fifteen, of which Judge Wm. Colvig, of Medford, is chairman.

The principal object of this convention is to induce the people of every Southern community to concentrate all their efforts toward attracting the tourist army, which is certain to visit the Panama-Pacific Exposition in 1915, to the Willamette, Umpqua and Rogue River Valleys enroute. A great exhibit of all Oregon products is to be installed at Ashland for the purpose of entertaining and educating the traveling public, and strong efforts will be made, by the wide distribution of Oregon literature, to induce prospective visitors to this coast to purchase their tickets by way of Oregon either coming or returning.

At a recent meeting of the jobbers and manufacturers of Portland it was decided to make Buyers' Week an annual event, the next one to be held from August 10 to 15, 1914. An official report was made of the results of the buyers' week during September which showed that buyers from 233 stores in 150 towns visited Portland. Of this number 108 bought more than $500 worth of goods, entitling them to a refund of their railroad fare. While the most of the buyers came from Oregon communities, Washington, Idaho, and Montana were liberally represented and every visitor went home at peace with himself and his entertainers and satisfied that his time and money had been well spent.

With the development of reclamation projects in Eastern Oregon, the O. W. R. & N. Co. is planning a campaign to educate the water users in the actual application of moisture to the land, according to an announcement made by President J. D. Farrell. The company expects to send an experienced irrigation man from farm to farm to give actual working instructions on the best way to utilize the water. How not to irrigate is as essential as how to irrigate and the expert will put the farmer wise to all the benefits and dangers of the work.

A suggestion that might be profitably adopted throughout Oregon is that contained in an exchange to the effect that the United States Department of Agriculture is to encourage and assist in the organization of "pig clubs" among the young people in every agricultural community throughout the country. It is pointed out that pigs are everywhere a profitable crop, that even the smallest growers can make a little money out of hogs and that every family can at least lower the cost of living by raising its own pork. The "pig club" plan is a good one and worthy of general adoption.

That Oregon horticulturists have more than a local reputation is indicated by the appointment of Mr. C. R. Greisen, general manager and associate editor of the Fruit and Produce Distributor, to the position of Industrial Superintendent of the National Apple Show to be held at Spokane, November 17-22, 1913.

PURCHASER ENTITLED TO FULL WEIGHT AND MEASURE

The short weight scale and the short measure are doomed if the county sealers of weights and measures carry into effect the provisions of the new law, providing for the inspection of all weights and measures, as instructed by F. G. Buchtel, deputy state sealer, in a pamphlet just issued by him. The law applies to every kind of weight and measure used in commercial dealings.

"The county sealers are not appointed simply to test scales, weights and measures, as this law, in addition, requires them to do; to see that all scales, weights and measures are true and accurate; that they are properly used, and that all laws relating to weights and measures and to the sale of commodities by weight or measure are observed and followed, thereby insuring protection to both the business interests and the general purchasing public," says Mr. Buchtel.

"The principal object of a law of this nature is to insure, in trade, the giving and receiving of full weight and measure, and proper testing of apparatus used is the first requisite necessary to obtain this result.

"The county sealer should visit every business place in the county for which he is appointed, where scale, weight or measure is in use for the purpose of trade, and all apparatus should be tested. When found to be accurate, it should be approved by placing the seal upon it in a conspicuous place; when found inaccurate or untrue, it should be condemned and the condemning tag attached in such a manner that it will be visible, and interfere with and prevent the use of the scale."

"Under this law, a purchaser is entitled to the true net weight or measure of any commodity ordered, at the time the delivery of said commodity is made.

"It is unlawful to include the weight or measure of anything other than that of the commodity being sold, and any person selling any commodity and including in the weight or measure, as a part of the commodity, the weight or measure of any other article, is committing an unlawful act.

"If a purchaser buys a ham, he is entitled to the net weight of the ham and should not be made to pay for a canvas cover, and several ounces of wrapping paper. He also, is entitled to buy the ham at its true weight at the time of sale, and not what it did weigh one, two or three months before, and applies to the sale of all commodities that are subject to a loss or gain in weight while in storage or being held for the purpose of sale."

"While the loss of one, two or three ounces in weight, in any certain sale and to a single person, may not amount to much to him, individually, in the aggregate, the loss to the general purchasing public is very large, and for this reason the sealer should give his close attention to this practice, and insist that purchasers receive the true net weight of all commodities purchased."

"In the delivery of wood, it is the duty of the sealer, on request, to measure the wood delivered, and if a less amount than 12 cubic feet of well piled wood for each and every cord purchased, is delivered, he should bring criminal action against the person responsible for the delivery of the short measure. You are advised that wood piled in the manner commonly known as bulk-heading is not well piled. Bulk-heads cause a loss to the purchaser of from 15 to 25 percent to the cord, and, where used, a sufficient amount of extra wood should be delivered to cover the loss in the bulk-heads. You are also advised that where wood is purchased by the cord, with the request that it be sawed, that it shrinks. If a cord of the average four foot wood is sawed and repiled, the measurement of the repiled wood will show a loss of 12 cubic feet. In other words, if you order from a wood dealer one cord of four foot wood, and request that he saw and deliver it; if you receive 116 cubic feet of the sawed wood, you have what you paid for."

"On the sale of coal or of ice by weight, the dealer should, on request, where the conditions justify, reweigh or cause to be reweighed, the amount delivered, and where a less amount has been delivered than ordered or paid for, criminal action should be instituted against the person responsible for the shortage."

"The department of weights and measures should at all times be prepared to make inspections of all devices used to ascertain quantities, as well as being in a position to see that the amounts ordered were being delivered. No charge shall be made for inquiries, and the law deals with quantities and not quality."
