RAILROAD WORK BEING DONE ON TRASK

Game warden Leach, who made a trip to the headwaters of the Trask River last week, reports that some 300 men are employed in the construction of what is known as the Carlton Railway. The rails are laid nearly to the summit and a gang of 30 surveyors are working this side of the summit coming this way. Mr. Leach says that the work being done is first class and that the road is not an ordinary logging road, but is as good as any passenger road need to be. He says a grade is being made wide enough for three tracks. It has been stated that this road will ultimately be built to Tillamook. Indications seem to point that way at least, and the probabilities are that this road will be into this locality before the Hill line.

From East Oregonian:

Dr. James Withycombe, republican nominee for governor of Oregon, has become strangely cautious on live politics and social questions, apparently as a consequence of some indiscretion talking in Oregon City and elsewhere recently. He spoke at Stanfield Friday night and delivered the fourth of July address at Echo Saturday. But at neither place did he mention politics or get within sight of any topic having any political bearing.

To a representative of the East Oregonian at Stanfield Dr. Withycombe stated he proposed to be very careful as to his statements hereafter as he felt he had "said too much" on some occasions. Presumably he referred to his recent speech at Oregon City where he severely criticized those who brought about the exclusion of Chinese labor from the Pacific northwest. Dr. Withycomb regretted the Chinese had been driven out and said they would have been valuable in clearing land in Clackamas county.

At a recent luncheon in Portland the republican nominee declared that he is still favorable to the assembly plan for making nominations regardless of the fact the people repudiated the assembly nominees by a heavy vote four years ago.

BRIEF NEWS OF OREGON

Opening of all the main roads of Polk county was completed last week.

Prompt action by Mrs. A. Austin, wife of Albany's chief of police, prevented the escape of a prisoner her husband had placed in the city jail.

Young prune orchards in the country, about Monmouth are making a rapid growth, surpassing apple, pear and cherry trees in many places.

An order has been placed for 80,000 pounds, or 40 tons, or two carloads, of paper for use in printing the initiative pamphlets. This amount of paper is sufficient to print 300,000 copies of a pamphlet with 123 pages.

Retail meat, poultry, fish markets and grocery stores do not come under the workmen's compensation act, according to an announcement of the state industrial accident commission. The commission said the businesses were not of a hazardous nature.

After many months of correspondence between the state railroad commission and the officials of the Southern Pacific and Oregon Electric, the two railroad companies have agreed to a rate of $2.25 on coke shipped from Fairfax, Wash., to Salem.

The immense flag provided by the people of Oregon for the gigantic tree that is to do service as a flagpole in front of the Oregon building at the exposition was raised at San Francisco, the ceremony being the principal feature of the Fourth of July celebration on the exposition grounds.

The state printing board has decided to bring the state printing department under the workmen's compensation act. The construction work on the Tumalo irrigation project has been brought under the act, so all the hazardous industries under the supervision of the state have been given protection under the new law.

There were 34 industrial accidents reported to State Labor Commissioner O. P. Hoff last week, this being the largest number reported any week this year. Three of the accidents were fatal. J. O. Foulke was killed as Coyote in connection with railroad work. Duke Staul was killed at Goblie while logging. Claude Beaman was killed while logging at Camp Creek.

A. W. Cornell, a farmer living near Riddle, Douglas county, never saw a streetcar in his life until he came to Eugene in his automobile and the first one he saw he collided with. He ran into an Eleventh avenue car with his automobile as he entered the city. He appeared greatly chagrined and offered to pay for the damage done to the car, although his automobile was damaged more than the car.

Deputy Sealer of Weights and Measures Buchtel announces that all counties but two will soon be equipped with weight-testing and measuring apparatus. Mr. Buchtel has received equipment for Baker, Harney, Lincoln, Multnomah, Union and Umatilla counties. Immediately after testing the apparatus it will be divided and forwarded to the various county clerks.

Twenty-nine measures will be voted on at the general election in Oregon next November, which is nine fewer than were submitted to the voters at the last election. Eleven of the measures to be placed before the voters were submitted by the last legislature. An important amendment to be voted upon provides for statewide prohibition. It would prohibit the manufacture or sale of intoxicating liquors in the state. Another amendment would abolish the state senate. It was initiated by the officers of the Oregon state grange, Oregon State Federation of Labor, People's Power League, Farmers' union, Farmers' Society of Equity and Proportional Representation bureau. An amendment for proportional representation, initiated by the same organizations, provides that every voter may vote for any one aspirant for representative in the legislative assembly and no more. The 60 aspirants who receive the greatest number of votes throughout the state would be declared elected.

Water permits issued by State Engineer John H. Lewis during the quarter ending June 30, call for the expenditure of approximately $11,000,000 to make use of the water. There were 147 permits to appropriate public waters issued during the quarter. The proposed ditches and pipe lines aggregate 202 miles in length, and provide for the development of 1715 horsepower and for the municipal supply of six towns. One of the most important of these permits is that granted to L. C. Seawell of Payette Idaho. He proposes to irrigate 10,34 acres with the waters of the Owyhee and Crooked creek in Malheur county. This land lies a short distance from Ontario. The Eastern Oregon Land company of San Francisco proposes to irrigate 4818 acres in the Willow creek valley in Malheur county with the waters of Burnt river. The water is to be conveyed from the Eldorado ditch, which was constructed many years ago for mining purposes. The six towns for which water was appropriated for municipal supply are Turner, Marshfield, North Bend, Heppner, Myrtle Point and Falls City.
