THE KAISER AT HOME.

How He Freed His Mind to His Daughter's English Governess.

Many interesting facts bearing upon the Kaiser as a family man and also his proud ruler of an empire are given in "Memories of the Kaiser's Court" by Miss Anne Topham, who was for some time English teacher to the monarch's only daughter, now the Duchess of Brunswick. From this book we learn that the Kaiser was wont to make jokes with his family at the breakfast table and even to indulge in punning.

Miss Topham and the Kaiser frequently held conversations on the subject of England, and upon one occasion her imperial master remarked: "You English people, you drink those awful fiery spirits—horrible stuff—whisky, brandy, what not! How can you imbibe such quantities of poison, one liquid, ruining your constitutions, simply ruining them—whisky and soda everywhere? No, it's awful! I tasted it once—like liquid fire—ugh! Your drinking habits are fearful!"

Though professing great admiration of English everyday life, the Kaiser had a profound contempt for English politics and politicians. "Not one of your ministers," he said to me on one occasion, "can tell how many ships of the line you have in your navy. I can tell him—he can't tell me. And your minister for war can't even ride. I offered him a mount and every opportunity to see the maneuvers. Thanks very much for your majesty's gracious offer. Sorry can't accept it. I'm no horseman, unfortunately. A minister of war, and can't ride! Unthinkable!"

During his visits to England he evidently took careful note of valuable relics and mementos of bygone ages, and after one of these visits he thus expressed his thoughts: "Ah, you have never had a Napoleon to plunder and burn your country houses! Your Reynoldses and Gainsboroughs, where would they have been if Napoleon's marshals or his soldiers had seen them? Perhaps burnt or destroyed or sent to the Louvre. Think what it must mean to the children of a house to live with one of those pictures, to absorb it unconsciously into their mentalities! They must grow up with a love of beautiful things. They cannot help it. We have nothing of the kind. Our houses were stripped and burnt."

ILLNESS CAUSE OF FORD'S DEPARTURE

Stockholm, via London.—On account of his serious illness, Henry Ford has been compelled to abandon his trip. The remaining members of the expedition will continue on to Copenhagen and The Hague with the idea of carrying out Mr. Ford's original plan for a permanent arbitration board.

Mr. Ford's leaving the party on account of illness is regarded as a serious handicap.

Rev. Mr. Aked, Judge Lindsey and others have explained that it was imperative that the expedition should proceed to The Hague to carry out the original plan as far as possible.

Governor Hanna, of North Dakota, quit the expedition in a rage because he alleged that his informal calls on Norwegian officials were misrepresented as connected with peace propaganda, thus placing him in an embarrassing position.

LOADING A SOLDIER.

Weights the Privates in European Armies Have to Carry.

The weight a soldier in active service has to carry often becomes a burden, and frequently in a retreat or a tight march it is thrown away.

Nearly all the soldiers belonging to European armies have to carry about with them in the field a kit which ranges in weight from thirty-eight to sixty-one pounds.

The equipment that the different soldiers carry about with them is very similar. It generally comprises a rifle and bayonet, with rags and so on for keeping them clean; an ironing-plate and, of course, a number of rounds of ammunition. Then there are the various articles of clothing with hangers, and a first aid outfit.

All the soldiers with one exception carry a knife, fork and spoon, water bottle and mess tin. The Russians, who are the exception, carry a wooden spoon only, which they keep in their boots. There is also a supply of food tinned and generally one or two reserve or emergency rations. Together with an overcoat and the knapsack and similar accoutrements, the load to be carried is a considerable one.

The Russians carry most, the weight working out at sixty-one pounds, while the British, French and Germans come next in order, carrying weights of forty-seven, forty-four and thirty-eight pounds respectively.—Pearson's Week
