TUESDAY JANUARY 12, 1915.

It has been presumed by many that the legislature will grant them special privileges as regard to the prohibition law. This is not correct. The proper use of the hotel men is that the question be submitted to the people.

That provisions of the proposed law for the regulation of liquor in connection with the prohibition law, which provides that one may order shipped to himself 2 gallons of spirits every 30 days and 24 gallons of malt liquor every four weeks, is desirable if enacted, to make a force of the prohibition law.

Some seem to think that too great a restriction has been placed on the amount to be used by those who use liquor in moderation, while others think the restriction is not severe enough and there are still others who believe that no restriction whatever should be placed on the amount one should be entitled to have.

The fact of the matter is the people who voted through the initiative and referendum the prohibition law of this state and are the same people who elected the present legislature and are the same people who elected the governor, are not going to stand for any measure that seems to be favored by the committee of the Hotel Men's Association in regard to the amount of liquor which one should be entitled to ship in.

The great majority of those who are asking for the restrictions, would not ask for that reason these privileges should be taken with a grain of salt.

The liquor interests will move heaven and earth to make Oregon's prohibition law a farce and they will certainly do it if our legislature passes a law which will allow each person to secure 2 gallons of spirituous and 24 gallons of malt liquor every four weeks.

As long as the tariff was being raised, to the advantage of the manufacturer nothing was said about a scientific adjustment of the tariff, but now that the tariff has been lowered for the benefit of the laborer the stand pat crowd is putting up a mighty cry for an adjustment of tariff schedules along scientific lines. The Trade Commission bill recently made a law deals with the phase of the tariff question very nicely. In his recent address at Indianapolis President Wilson has the following to say in regard to this bill:

"Then there is something else. The Democrats have heard the Republicans talking about the scientific way in which to handle a tariff, though the Republicans have never given any exhibition of a knowledge of how to handle it scientifically. If it is scientific to put additional profits into the hands of those who are already getting the greater part of the profits, then they have been exceedingly scientific. It has been the science of scientific. It has been the science of privilege.

"That kind of science I do not care to know anything about except enough to stop it. But if by scientific treatment of the tariff they mean adjustment to the actual trade conditions of America and the world, then I am with them and I want to call their attention, for though they voted for it they have apparently not noticed it, to the fact that the bill which creates the new trade commission does the very thing. We are at pains to see that it was put in there.

"That commission is authorized and empowered to inquire into and report to congress, not only upon all the conditions of trade in this country, but upon the conditions of trade, the cost of manufacture, the cost of transportation—all the things that enter into the question of tariff—in foreign countries as well as the United States and into all those questions of foreign combinations which affect international trade between Europe and the United States. It has the full powers which will guide congress in the scientific treatment of questions of international trade."

The effect of the European war on immigration to the United States has been very marked. Immigration through the port of New York for 1914 fell off to the extent of 601,410 persons, or 45 per cent, as compared with 1913. During 1913 arrivals numbered 1,334,914 persons, of whom 1,163,993 were aliens and 170,821 were returning American citizens. In 1914 arrivals were only 733,504; of these 573,675 were aliens and 159,829 were citizens. The number of departing aliens was greater by 37,818 than last year. During 1913 there left New York on steamships bound for foreign ports a total of 381,068 persons; during 1914 departures were 418,886. Immigration officials and representatives of the immigrant aid societies explain the falling off in immigration, aside from the war (which is the chief facts, but operated only during the last half of the year) as being due to the curtailing of work in the United States, and to an effort on the part of foreign countries to restrict emigration by providing work at home and bettering the condition of their working classes.

"THE ROSE OF VIRGINIA."

Two young men who are rivals for the hand of Rose Mason the popular young Southern society belle, are at their wits end to learn of some means by which one may win an advantage over the other. By the help of an accomplice, one attacks the honor of the other, an honorable honest and trusted employee of the Richmond Bank, and when the scheme fails, the law must step in and reward the efforts of such an unworthy schemer. The beautiful manner in which the story is worked out in the "Rose of Virginia" is rarely offered in such an able way. This society comedy in four acts, will be presented by the Dramatic Club under the auspices of the Booster's Band at the Opera House Friday and Saturday, Jan. 22nd and 23rd.

A NEW PHASE OF WAR HORROR

In every way war is horrible.

In every war horror there are shudders and recoils.

In every war shudder and recoil there is something that helps to make war forever detestable.

But here is a new phase of war horror.

It is a phase which everybody who ever rode much in a public vehicle where all sorts of human beings are crowded close together can fully appreciate.

This phase refers to the inevitable odors emitted by a million unbathed men.

These unbathed men are told about by Will Irwin, a war correspondent, in the American Magazine.

He describes his personal experience particularly in Belgium. He had a pass through the military lines, and speakes of the army as a "gray procession of death—earth, air and sky." The transport wagons were gray, the uniforms of the soldiers were gray, the motorcycles, bicycles and baggage wagons were gray, Mr. Irwin adds.

"And over it all lay a smell of which I have never heard mention in any book of war—the smell of a half million of unbathed men, the stench of a democratic raised to the nth power in trench. That smell lay for days over every place through which the unbathed soldiers passed."—Ex.

Lands Cheaply Logged Off

Feeney-Breemer Co., Put Economical Land Clearing Machine on Market

The Feeney-Breemer Co., has just completed a very economical device for clearing land in the shape of a gasoline donkey engine, equipped with a 10 h. p. heavy duty engine. The total weight of the machinery is 5,200 lbs. mounted on runners and can be pulled anywhere on a straight line by its own power.

The donkey part consists of a double drum, double friction, equipped with breaks. It has 400 feet of ¾ in. cable and 800 feet of ½ inch cable. As a demonstration it recently pulled with ease a 20 foot log 3 feet in diameter over rough ground. Anyone wishing a demonstration of the workings of the machine can witness the same by calling at the Feeney-Breemer Co. Works.

The price for the above equipment ranges from $700 for 10 h. p. up, larger sizes costing accordingly.

The engine consumes distillate, consuming 6 gallons in 10 hours, cost 10c. a gallon.

The engine used is detachable and can be used for other things.

Feeney-Bremer Co. are offering a fine proposition for two or more farmers who wish to go in together on a device that will clear their land cheaply and easily. Two men can run the machinery used and handle it successfully.

Those who may have use for such a machine will do well to investigate.
