FRIDAY MAY 7, 1915.

Everybody get ready for the cha-tauqua and bust for it. A good cha-tauqua is worth the support and consideration of every loyal citizen. The cha-tauqua entertains, instructs and is a means of getting our people together, all of which will do us good. If everyone will boost a little we can make it a success. Let us do it.

We have been told that because of some dissatisfaction on the part of H. Wheeler, ever certain timber land assessments that a recall of Governor Johnson is being agitated. We understand that the trouble has been brought about through a misunderstanding as to the amount of timber actually on the lands in dispute. It seems to us that the proper thing to do would be to re-survey the land and find out just how much timber there is on the land and settle the matter for all time. It also seems to us that an attempt to settle the matter by a recall would be very unwise. This idea of financing a recall election every time some local happens to displease someone is an abuse of a special measure. The recall should be invoked only as a last resort. It costs money to conduct elections, and it is high time that everything possible should be done to keep expenses and the red-tape down.

Four bills establishing non-partisan state-wide elections in California have been signed by Governor Johnson. Under them candidates for political office, except candidates for representatives in congress and United States senator, will have party label.

California has certainly made a move in the right direction. The idea that the party label should be the principal qualification of an office-seeker is certainly obsolete and behind the times. Governor Johnson, who has sponsored for the above bills passed in California should be given much credit for their enactment as they represent a forward step in progressive politics. We believe that Oregon should follow California's example and put the "red-tape" in politics out of business. Voters are looking more and more to the character and qualifications of a man than they are to his political antecedents.

CONCRETE IS FAVORED BY MULTNOMAH GRANGES

A special committee of the Vermont general road construction committee of the granges of Multnomah county returned from inspection of various types of pavements in the vicinity of Chehalis and Centralia and in the section around Tacoma and as far toward Seattle as Auburn. H. A. Lewis of the committee said yesterday that the special committee is unanimously in favor of concrete for the hard surfacing of Multnomah county roads, pursuant to the $1,250,000 bond issue recently voted.

The committee will report at a meeting of the general committee at Central library at 10 a. m. Friday. Resolutions concerning the paving type favored by the Grange will come up at the meeting.

On the inspection tour the special committee rode in automobiles over concrete, brick, Warrenite, wood blocks and asphalt, in various conditions and questioned officials concerning the number of years pavement needing repair had been laid. The committee consulted at Tacoma with M. Roy Thompson, superintendent of the state highways department of Washington; King County Engineer Denton and other officials experienced in laying various types of paving.

The special committee consisted of J. J. Johnson, master of Multnomah County Pomona grange and Evening Star grange and chairman of the general committee; President H. A. Lewis of the Multnomah County Fair Association, representing the Russellville grange members of the general committee; R. P. Basmussen of Corbett grange, John Sherb of Multnomah grange at Orient, J. W. Townsend of Fairview grange, and H. A. Darnall of Lewis grange.

Townsend, Basmussen and Lewis attended the meeting of the board of directors of the Multnomah County Fair association yesterday, and Lewis declared that concrete was favored by sentiment expressed at the meeting. Roy W. Gill of the general committee said that a majority of the farmers of western Multnomah county favor concrete.

The general committee consists of three members of Multnomah County Pomona grange and three members of each of the 10 granges of the county, appointed in response to a resolution of Pomona grange.

COMMERCIAL CLUB MAY DISBAND

At a special meeting of the board of directors of the Commercial Club Wednesday night it was decided that another attempt will be made to have the regular annual election of officers, and unless enough interest is shown by the membership at this meeting, which has been set for Monday the 10th, steps will immediately be taken to disorganize the club.

Two attempts have been made by the officers to have the regular annual election, and both times, the meeting was adjourned for the want of a quorum. The board has decided that there is no more use trying to keep up the club unless it can have the united support of every business man in the city, and unless there can be a successful meeting and election on next Monday, the furniture will be stored and the club rooms given up.

Find Old Mail in P. O. Building
 Evidence of mismanagement on the part of E. Alexander, former postmaster at Astoria, was discovered today by workmen who are tearing down the old Bay View Hotel building, with a kind of surprise. The building Alexander used for a post office, is owned by Peter Brown estate and is being moved from its former position adjoining the old hotel.

In a room underneath the old post-office building workmen found a box or more of old papers and letters, many of which were United States mail that had never been distributed. Several packages of letters were put aside and still bore the facing slip of the postal clerk who was on the train at that time. One package in particular bears the date of March 11, 1911. Some children who were playing around the pile of rubbish happened to get hold of a package of these letters and in looking them over discovered one addressed to W. Beamish, and took them to him, and took him and took them to him who discovered in one of the open letters a check for $20 drawn on the First Bank of Bay City, Ore. and payable to Mrs. Henry Leander, of Garibaldi, Ore. Among the letters were several for prominent business men of Garibaldi and vicinity, who for years have been at loss to know what had become of their mail. All the letters so far discovered have been turned over to the present postmistress, Mrs. Anna Ellis.

Alexander is now serving time at McNiel's Island for the embezzlement of some $2000 of post office funds.—Bay City Examiner.

AROUND THE FARM

"Nature abhors a vacuum" if you don't plant crops to grow weeds or torches. Make soil grow something useful. Farm Journal.

The farmer who thinks he hasn't time to sit down and away an hour or two when very tired is making a mistake.

Do you raise enough wheat last all the year round? Is it to be that farmers did not buy a lot of hay grain, and day few raise enough for own use.

Why not demand a more liberal supply of hay? It is not so difficult to the farmer as it is to the consumer. It is not so difficult to the farmer as it is to the consumer. It is not so difficult to the farmer as it is to the consumer.

All of us know of those where it was John's pig-wetting time, when it was longer. The farmer who youngsters, it is an idea that yields immense returns.

The reading farmer has a lot of enjoyment that the man who works out of him. Taste for reading is a habit children to respect looking for them.

FIGHTING WHEAT

Fields Heavily Infected by Fly Should Be Plowed Deep (Prepared by United States Department of Agriculture)

Before the warm days would seem advisable to plow the wheat but to plow the fields as are heavily infested (especially fly larvae) the result is a deposit of them seven inches. This is not in protecting the fly from the soil. The fly larvae which later to destroy the wheat, which will not be cultivated.

The Hessian fly has been winter and through last winter in recent years. Scientists of the Bureau of Entomology, California, San Missouri. In the fall of 1914 a serious outbreak of the pestling. The results of the 1914 were very disastrous. Some of the wheat through the winter, winter wheat is not to plow under the wheat, a thing necessary and besides the fly, the fly will not be cultivated.

There were some more with aged fields that were allowed farmers depending on present conditions to destroy. So far as has been reported, preliminary and climatic conditions had generally favorable conditions, so it seems advisable to plow under the wheat, which will not be cultivated.
