LUSITANIA IS SUNK BY A SUBMARINE

Giant Liner is Attacked With Warning Off the Coast.

Twenty-three men were killed from this port, as the clock ticks, an irregular snore of floats on a calm sea marks the grave of the Lusitania, first transatlantic liner sunk by a German submarine.

First Cabin Loss Heavy.

The heavy loss of life among the first cabin passengers is believed to have been due to the calmness and self-possession they displayed in face of danger. Most of them were at luncheon when the steamer received her death blow and decided to join the rush for the boats and life belts.

No Warning Given.

Investigation has failed to reveal that the steamer was given warning of the proposed attack by the submarine, which appears to have been lurking off the Irish coast bent upon destroying the largest and fastest ship engaged in transatlantic traffic.
