FRIDAY, MAY 21, 1915.

At the go by plans to get started Italy backers into the war is the wish of the allies.

If any of our stand pat friends have had it in their minds that "preparedness" must be the issue in order that they should have something to "view with alarm" at the meetings of the State Grange and the Farmers Union should it, they will find that the points to the fact that the farmers of Oregon are alive to their interests now as they ever were.

The State Grange of the State of Washington at its recent session adopted a very aggressive resolution which in effect declared that before the nation went to war the question should be submitted to a vote of the people. In point as a state have to pay the bill and make the sacrifices and therefore are entitled to a voice in the matter. Another good suggestion has been made in connection with this idea and that is to the effect that those who vote for war should be the ones called upon first to go.

Chas. Kunze is offering some good premiums, the same to be given at the county fair, to the girls exhibiting the best specimens of darning on stockings and the best specimens of patch work on pants. This is a step along practical lines and is to be commended. Many a girl has been taught new fangled ideas in great numbers, who, when it comes to the ordinary, practical things is found sadly in need of the proper training. Of course we expect that our stand pat friends will say that this is all useless because there will be no need of patched pants and darned socks when a change of administration takes place, but regardless of their arguments it is our opinion that the girl, and especially the girl on the farm who is trained to do the ordinary things well is the girl that is a real help in the past and will always be a real help in the future in the lifting of burdens.

FAIRVIEW GRANGE HOLDS SPECIAL MEETING

On Thursday afternoon the Fairview Grange held a special meeting for the discussion of hard surfaced roads. The afternoon session was thrown open to the public.

At the request of the master of the Grange, Wm. Maxwell, Mr. F. D. Bester read a report which had been received from the Multnomah County Pomona Grange through the courtesy of J. J. Johnson of Multnomah County, pertaining to the late inspection which a special Multnomah County Grange committee had made in regard to the different kinds of hard surfaced roads in the State of Washington. The reports also included findings on the subject from other parts of the United States.

The report was very exhaustive and interesting and gave much valuable information from a decidedly disinterested standpoint.

It seems from the report that the cement road has by far the best of the argument. It is by far the cheapest and most durable, giving the best general satisfaction for country roads. It is very essential, nowever, in the construction of cement roads, that the proper material be used. The success of the cement road lays to a very large degree on the shoulders of the man or men who have the work in charge, who must see to it that the material put into the road is just right.

The reading of the report was followed by some discussion as to whether our present macadam road foundations could be used in the construction of cement roads. It was brought out that they could be and to very good advantage. It seems to be the intention of the road engineer to use our present
