NEW HOME OFFICE BUILDING OF THE ASSOCIATION, PORT HURON, MICH.

On June 18 the city of Port Huron, Mich., enthusiastically welcomed home Miss Bina M. West, supreme commander of the Woman's Benefit Association of the Maccabees. In recognition of her remarkably efficient work for the association, the people gave her the honor of a public lunch. The city commission and was participated in by all the social clubs and business organizations of Port Huron. To quote the resolution of the city commission, it was a remarkable tribute to "Miss West, also worker for generosity and humanity."

The Woman's Benefit Association of the Maccabees gives its protection and fraternal interest to white women of good moral character. It is non-political and nonsectarian, and dispenses its fraternity in fifty-five states and provinces.

The protection of the association can be secured for whole life, and whole life combined with disability benefits; last illness and burial benefits; also sick benefits. The rates are scientifically graded, and no member pays more than the cost of her own protection. When it is known that Miss West has, with her own hand, signed away over $12,000,000, an estimate can be formed of what this association has already done toward mitigating the dread ordeal incident to death.

Every year finds this association progressing, but the past four years have exceeded its greatest advancement. Women, by securing fraternal protection, are free to seek out new fields of endeavor and become more independent and capable. A woman's convention without one word of dissent is rather an unusual thing. This was the experience, however, of the recent eighth quadrennial convention of the association in New York. Every session was a model of business ability and parliamentary procedure, and plans were laid for the present quadrennial term which were aimed to meet the great and growing work of its 1,870,000 women.

Many important features were placed before the convention for decision, one being the changing of the name from the Ladies of the Maccabees of the World to the Woman's Benefit Association of the Maccabees.

Another important step taken was the acceptance of plans for a hand some new home office at Port Huron, Mich. This will be a large, magnificent two-story white stone building on the main street of the home city of the order, where the supreme commander, Miss B. M. West, started her project twenty-three years ago. To give the reader an idea of how this society has progressed it will be of interest to know that Miss West started out with a $150,000, no members and business in organized what today is meeting the needs of 1,870,000 women in the matter of home protection through fraternal insurance. Miss West has been a noble honored and adored by her members, and as an insistent of their esteem the convention endeavored to prevail on her to accept the well earned salary of $10,000 a year for the next term. In a masterful address she declined, stating that the work of the association was uppermost in her mind, not the remuneration.

Steps were taken at this meeting of representative women to endow a state-hospital service in every state. Ohio, Illinois and Michigan already having their service in satisfactory use. By this philanthropy every member requiring expert medical attention may have it free of cost to herself. Addresses were given by Mr. Miles M. Dawson, fraternal insurance actuary of New York city, and Mr. James V. Berry, Michigan insurance commissioner, congratulated the association on the signal success it has attained. "Your association," said Mr. Dawson, "is the first woman's benefit society in the United States to be established on a sound basis, and through the foresight of your peerless leader, Miss West, you are the largest society of your kind in the world. I congratulate you."

den abandonment of the objectionable part of her demands was set down to pressure exerted by some of the great powers that were unwilling to let Japan get too much out of this war at the expense of a friendly though feeble neutral.

Next to the United States, China is Japan's best customer and will be her best as soon as railroads are built and the interior becomes more accessible to Japanese and other foreign trade.

China only buys at the rate of about a dollar a head of her population from the outside world and Japan believes with good reason that the trade can be increased fourfold within a few years.

Japan's aggressive attitude towards China produced results not anticipated, but promptly felt. The Chinese could not arm themselves to resist invasion, but they could and did stop using and buying Japanese goods.

HOW CHINA BEAT JAPAN.

China and Japan settled their differences so suddenly that the rest of the world has been unable to grasp the meaning of it all. Japan appeared to be on the verge of attacking her large but inert and helpless neighbor to enforce territorial and other claims that struck Americans as being unjust and unprofitable. China seemed to be utterly defenseless and Japan's sud-

THE CONQUERING AEROPLANE.

Automotives, locomotives, steam-trains and motor-cars are daily increasing in number and efficiency, but the king of them all, the aeroplane, is destined to take the 22d century our present conception of speed. Already 426 miles per hour has been achieved by machines that may be constructed early next year compared to three, four or five miles per hour, and while going at this tremendous speed, the machine is at all times under perfect control.

After the first moment, what a vast and wonderful field of usefulness is opened up to the aeroplane, and how readily service the great role is destined to play in the civilized world.

It will be the future mail carrier, it will be the first of the conquests of the 22d century.

It will be the first water "tanks" at sea, it will be the first "tanks" at the front.

It will be extensively used by armies for scouting and reconnaissance, and for other forms of secret attack. It will be used to patrol coasts, and for the protection of our shipping lanes from our own "pirates" engineering work etc.

It is now used in hunting game and in making photographic surveys etc.

It demands a more valuable scheme in studying meteorological conditions, and other special work, having been used in 1910 for the purpose of studying the aurora borealis in the mountains of Northern Ontario in the city of Toronto.

They even refuse to take Japanese money on any terms, and when a Chinaman refuses to take money he means business. Japan found herself facing a trade boycott by four hundred million people. No such concerted movement on a scale comparable in any way to this was ever known in the history of the world. Japan demanded that the Chinese government stop it. The government obeyed by issuing a decree to that effect, but posters on dead walls could not make a single Chinese wear Japanese cotton, eat Japanese fish, use Japanese utensils or take Japanese money.

All China was flooded with circulars and posters passed from hand to hand which called upon the people to boycott Japan and Japanese goods and money. In their own way the Chinese are well educated and all of them could read these patriotic circulars. The blow was felt first and hardest by the moving picture shows controlled by Japanese which shows that the Orient is moving fast. The Japanese government demanded the punishment of the printers of these circulars but they were printed within the pale of the foreign settlement in Shanghai where Chinese law could not reach.

Japan was baffled and Japan was poor. She could not stand the loss of China's trade, and war would not help. The inference is that China commanded the boycott which Japan demanded more than armies in the field. It is all very oriental and therefore obscure to Americans, but China seems to have found a way to defeat Japan and maintain her own territorial integrity without shedding blood—which is an improvement on European methods. —New York Paper.

THE LONGEVITY OF THE SHAKERS.

The remarkable longevity of the Shakers is claimed by them to be due entirely to the self-inforced rule of regular sleeping hours and meals, the kind of clothing worn, the manual occupation and the food partaken of at the settlement. The most of the Shakers are enthusiastic vegetarians. Contrary to the authority of many food authorities, they consider tomatoes as exceptionally healthful. They use them for breakfast, dinner and supper, all through the tomato season, while the Lebanon Shakers put up about four hundred gallons for their own use every winter. As these Shakers have not had a case of fever in the family for thirty years, have almost no other sickness, and scarcely ever a doctor, it looks as though their diet agreed with them. Another vegetable that they specially prize is celery, which they think good for the nerves. Apples in abundance are also a staple article of diet, served baked in a warm sauce or even in pies and puddings.
