BRIEF NEWS OF OREGON

The twenty-fifth annual convention of the churches of Christ in Oregon will meet at Turner July 6-14.
At a meeting of automobile owners recently Jackson county's first automobile club was organized at Medford.
John Cox, a blacksmith of Medford, is dead from the effects of a blow on the head. The police are searching for L. Jackson.
The twenty-sixth annual convention of the Oregon State Pharmaceutical association will be held at Gearhart Tuesday, July 6, to Friday, July 9, inclusive.
Miss Anna Castleberry of Clifton, Okla., and Miss Grace Gillett of St.
Paul have been selected as instructors of domestic science at the Oregon Agricultural college.
The Marion county grand jury in a report to Circuit Judge Kelly has declared that it had found numerous frauds in connection with the expenditure of road funds in 1914.
From present indications, this will be the year of heaviest traffic Crater Lake has experienced. At this early date travel has been practically twice what it was thus far last year.
In the butter contest for the state of Oregon, conducted by the Oregon Agricultural college, the Junction City creamery was an easy winner for the month of June with a score of 95.
The visit of United States Commissioner P. P. Claxton to Oregon Tuesday was made the occasion of a round table conference of county school superintendents at the Oregon Agricultural college.
W. L. Johnson, of Portland; Leslie D. Howell, of Salem, and G. V. Lin-ner, of Portland, have been appointed field engineers in the interstate commerce commission and assigned to railway valuation work.
A conference of all the commercial bodies in western Oregon will be held at Salem within the next few weeks to consider the federal supreme court's recent decision in the Oregon & California land grant case.
The forest service is advertising for sale 242,000 feet, board measure, of western yellow pine. The rest is sugar pine, Douglas fir and white fir —all located upon the Crater national forest in southern Oregon.
A crew of men from the federal reclamation service at Tule lake, Klamath county, are making some borings and excavations around the lake to determine whether it would be possible to reclaim the district.
Stating that a case of rabies had been discovered in Yamhill county, and another one in Polk, State Veterinarian Lytle has issued an order prohibiting dogs from running at large in zones within five miles of where these cases were found.
Six Oregon cows won honors in the Register of Merit butterfat tests for 1914, according to an announcement made in New York by the American Jersey Cattle club. The animals were owned by Edward Carey of Carlton; W. S. Ladd, Portland, and C. N. Mc-Arthur of Portland.
Announcement has been made by the state industrial accident commission that all employers and employes who have been under the workmen's compensation act for six months or more will be exempt from the July contribution, and it is estimated that the exemption will aggregate $60,000.
A campaign has been launched to eradicate the Canada thistle from Linn county. Gale S. Hill, district attorney, has sent out notices to 148 land owners on whose property thistles are growing advising them that if they do not cut the thistles themselves the work will be done by county road supervisors and the expense made a lien on their land, as provided by law, until the county is reimbursed.
The interstate commerce commission has held that the through transcontinental carload and less than carload commodity rates to the Willamette valley and south of Portland points, made by adding to Portland rates the local class rates from Portland to the points of destination, were not unduly preferential to points between Portland and Tacoma, but ruled that they must be abolished.
Members of the state fish and game commission are considering the advisability of removing the state game farm, from Corvallis, where Chinese pheasants and other game birds are raised each year for distribution through the state, to some other locality on land owned by the state. The present state game farm, comprising 30 acres, is not owned by the state.
It is operated under a lease, which expires next fall.
The report of State Treasurer Kay for six months ending June 30, shows a balance of $1,565,429.55 for the general fund. Mr. Kay said the big balance was an assurance that the state would not have to pay interest on any warrants this year. Disbursements for the six months totaled $3,773,364.15 and receipts, $5,927,647.23. The balance January 1 was $1,411,145.49. A law passed by the recent legislature merged all funds in the general fund, and made it possible for the state to discontinue paying interest on warrants.
