Carl Possetti vs. the Southern Pacific Company is a suit filed in the circuit court. The plaintiff alleges that defendant has entered upon his land without consent and is maintaining thereon a bridge pier of large timber pilings and a railroad trestle, and that defendant is operating upon the trestle numerous railroad trains and motor cars, and by reason of this plaintiff's right of way is obstructed, and has become perilous and dangerous, damaging the plaintiff to the amount of $2,000 which he now sues to recover.

While in conversation with D. T. Werschkul of Cloverdale, a few days ago, he informed us that while digging a deep ditch through some of his bottom land this summer he discovered nine feet below the surface of the ground a fireplace. The fireplace was composed of three and four layers of stones one upon the other. It was oval shape, about three foot across it and five foot long. At the center the ground was scooped out somewhat and in the depression was found about a bushel or more of ashes and embers of a one time fire. An interesting question is, how long ago and by whom was the fire place built.

On Wednesday night J. Brown who is night watchman for the S. P. at Kodak's cut, very narrowly escaped death. He was on top of the water pump which is located at the Kilebis River, making some repairs when he accidentally fell a distance of fifteen feet, striking the track below. The fall knocked him unconscious and he lay on the track for some time before he was discovered. His discovery by a fellow workman who was out for a stroll was rather by accident and if he had lain on the track five minutes longer he would probably have been run over by the freight which was due about that time. As soon as Brown was discovered Dr. Boals was called and he was soon revived. He is now out of danger.

Presbyterian Church Notes

The Field Secretary of the Oregon Anti-Saloon League, Mr. George N. Taylor, will speak from the pulpit next Sunday at the 11 o'clock service. He will outline the policies adopted by the representatives of the churches constituting the headquarters committee. Mr. Taylor has had an extensive experience as a traveling salesman in a large part of the U. S., and has contributed with his pen to the eastern dailies, treating of the colonist question in the South. In the line of Sunday School evangelism he has given considerable attention. He finally gave up his hardware customers and the road that he might devote all his time to the evangelistic and missionary work which called for the application of his ability as a man among men. As a specialty salesman he learned to put things up in bundles for carrying home. The Anti-Saloon League of Oregon had use for just his type and talent, so called him to its field service. He will have a message on Sunday morning for the men and women citizens who may be concerned with the tasks that confront the church here on the coast. A good and large hearing should be given him.

"Religion Kept in Place" is the subject of Mr. Youel's sermon in the evening at 7:30. Each person present will be conscious of the cordial and home-like feeling of these evening services. A young people's service will be held at 6:30.

All are cordially invited to each and all of these services.
