BEEF IN WESTERN OREGON.

"I have often heard it said that good beef cannot be produced anywhere in Western Oregon," says Professor E. L. Potter, of the O. A. C. Animal Husbandry department, "and that feeds are not suitable for making good smooth cattle. After careful investigations I am convinced that this is not true. Just as good beef can be produced in Western Oregon as in any other part of the state. Inferior quality is not due to poor natural conditions or to poor feed and grazing. It is due almost entirely to inferior cattle. A very large portion of the steers are of a most miserable breeding, mixed Jerseys and non-descript stuff, resulting in animals that are underzaid, without any meat on their backs, and exceedingly rough."

Got Him Guessing.

An old miner, a bachelor, had a pretty niece, who kept his house, and at his death he bequeathed all his earnings to her on condition that she marry Tom J., a young miner in whom he had always taken a deep interest. But the pretty niece had no wish to marry Tom and put herself out of his reach by wedding a hard working factory lad. The heir at law was not at all displeased with the niece for marrying another, as he thought that now the old miner's wealth would come to him.

"That stiller belongs to me now, I reckon," he said to the trustee, a white haired old coller, who had ideas of his own. "Susan's lost it by marryin' the wrong man. So you'd better hand it over."

"Not so fast, lad," replied the trustee. "You'll have to be patient for awhile. Susan may marry and bury a dozen husbands and still come doon to you in the end."

And the heir at law is wondering whether this is really so.—London Tit-Bits.

His Fine Contract.

Giorgio Polacco's brilliancy as revealed in music does not extend to the domain of business if one may judge by a story told by Algernon St. John-Bronson. Mr. Polacco was approached on one occasion by a Milanese agent offering him an engagement at Lisbon. Mr. Polacco named a certain price as remuneration. The engagement, however, fell through, as Mr. Polacco had to go elsewhere. The next season the same agent asked Mr. Polacco his terms again and for the same city. Mr. Polacco named them. The agent, acting with a certain celerity, asked Mr. Polacco to sign then and there. This was done, and Mr. Polacco took his contract home to his wife. The latter read it. Then she folded it up and looked straight at her husband. "Giorgio," she said, very tranquilly, "you have made a great contract." "Ah," said Mr. Polacco delightedly, "I know I have." "Yes, Giorgio," resumed his wife, "you have asked and accepted less than last year—and also the season is a month longer."

Circles.

Circles are things in which people move and reason. Those who move in circles imagine that they make the world go round, and those who reason in circles are positive of it. However, a wheel is really the only thing that can move in a circle and get anywhere.

The periphery of the face makes a circle, every part of which is equally distant from a point within, called the center.

Society has circles, especially under its eyes. Those who move in social circles move because they are so unary they cannot keep still.

Marginal jars and combinal pugilism influence the belief that the family circle might frequently be termed a ring with equal appropriateness.

The girl who has many graceful curves generally has a large circle of admirers.—Life.
