FRIDAY OCTOBER 22, 1915.

The Teachers' Institute closed on Wednesday, and the teachers have all returned to their school work proper. During the institute they heard many lectures and talks that were not only a source of much valuable information, but were an inspiration to them, all of which will have its effects during the days to come. There is no question but that the annual county institute has been a great factor tending towards the advancement of our schools. Any of the up-to-date and leading educators of the state, we are sure, will bear with us in regard to this point.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

Successful Gathering and a Large Number of Teachers Present.

The annual institute of the Tillamook County Teachers' Association, a successful close on Wednesday afternoon, after holding session for three days. The program was of unusual interest and the teachers who attended returned to their homes with a larger view of their profession.

County school superintendent W. S. Buel opened the institute with an address of welcome. He also gave the plan of the institute's work. Addresses were delivered by Mrs. M. L. Fulkerson and Charles H. Jones in the morning session and in the afternoon Mrs. H. C. Hanson, local high school history teacher, and T. H. Dunstan, county fair board president, spoke on interesting subjects. Mr. Dunstan told of the work done by the schools of this county toward the state fair. The afternoon session was closed by M. S. Pittman, of the State Normal, speaking on "A Better Position." An evening audience was well instructed by splendid lectures from Dr. R. W. DeBusk, of the State University and Prof. E. D. Kessler, of O. A. C.

On Tuesday morning Dr. DeBusk spoke on "Play and its Meaning to Child Life" and out of the depth of his knowledge he delivered a wonderful lecture to the audience. Professors M. S. Pittman and E. D. Kessler also gave interesting lectures. In the afternoon Charles Jones and Roy C. Jones spoke on interesting subjects.

On Wednesday morning three splendid addresses were delivered by Frank Welles, Prof. Kessler and Mrs. Harriet Heller, of the Boy's and Girl's Aid Society, of Portland.

To many of the institute attendants the program on the last afternoon equaled or surpassed any session of the whole institute. With the exception of one speaker the program was given by local teachers. Professor P. C. Crockett gave a splendid talk on "Public Speaking in Connection with English." Miss Hazel McKown gave an interesting talk on "School Music." Professor Karl Onthank, local principal of schools, delivered an interesting lecture on the "Health of the Child."

Institute was pronounced most successful by all in attendance and from the names of the instructors on the program many splendid lectures must have been delivered.

SCHOOL DISTRICTS AND THE TILLAMOOK COUNTY FAIR.

President Dunstan Gives Some Timely Advice to Teachers and Pupils.

J. H. Dunstan, president of the Tillamook County Fair Board gave some timely advice at the meeting of the Teachers' Institute in this city on Monday, to teachers and pupils of the county. We give his speech in full, for it is something that concerns every school district in the county. He said: "The people of the State of Oregon concluded that the county fair was of sufficient importance to become a permanent institution. By legislative enactment in 1913, they appropriated a certain sum of money, to be paid out each year to the people who exhibit at the county fairs, as premiums on agricultural and horticultural products and livestock."

In the same legislative act they created a body of men in each county known as the county fair board, whose specific duty is to disburse this premium money and manage the county fairs.

It has been clearly demonstrated in the past few years, that the county fairs are the greatest factors for the development of the agricultural and livestock interests in the respective communities.

Recognizing that fact, and also the growing importance and prominence the schools are taking in the fairs, in 1915 an act was passed amending the act of 1913, this amendment making the county school superintendent a member of the County Fair Board.

I will quote to you at this time some statements from a speech of E. O. Bruner, Commissioner of Agriculture for Louisiana. "An agricultural fair is a great object lesson. It is intensely educative in its character. It teaches by contrast and example when seeing is believing. It creates a healthy rivalry and friendly competition. It gathers knowledge and diffuses it; it advertises and attracts; it promotes social life and good feeling; it inculcates feelings of pride and patriotism."

"It is the timekeeper of progress; it records a community's advancement; it goes into the home; it broadens and brightens the daily life of the people; it opens mighty storehouses of information."

"The fair is a business proposition; it is an opportunity to advertise your goods and your farm products. You place them before the people, thus giving you an opportunity to dispose of your produce, and your neighbor an opportunity to better his condition by securing some of your best seeds, brood sows, fine cattle, horses, mules, sheep, etc."

"The fair spirit is taking hold on our people, interest is developing, communities heretofore lukewarm are catching the spirit and contagion has set in and annually the number is increasing, and you will notice where fairs have been held longest, you will find better stock, better farmers and better farms, hence you will see that we have everything to gain and nothing to lose by encouraging, establishing and maintaining a good county fair."

Some teachers may have the idea, that agriculture and live stock have no particular interest for them. If so, I would advise them to lose that idea as soon as possible, if they expect to hold successfully, a job as teacher in an agricultural community. Tillamook itself, which is called a city, is only a small country town, fed and nourished by the large dairy section that surrounds it. Therefore, I would not expect the Tillamook teachers from this view of the question.

I wish at this time to thank the teachers and pupils of the districts that had exhibits at the county fair this year. Many of them labored under difficulties; those who started this work early, and continued throughout the year, deserve the greatest praise.

This year we had a good fair, a very good fair, and to my mind, the school exhibit was the best part of it. You will remember that the art department had one side of the educational; next year we expect the art division to go back into their old quarters in the main building, giving all the new building to the schools.

It is very important that you make application for your space as soon as possible, so the building can be divided to care for all the districts, that have booth exhibits.

I am sure in many districts, you will find a greater interest in the fair this year, and we expect that you, as teachers will foster this interest and encourage your pupils, even if they do not have a booth, to produce something, in the classified list for the fair.

I will ask you to help us to remedy one condition which hurt our school exhibit last year; that is the change of location of teachers. The outgoing teachers, who is not to return, naturally loses interest, and the incoming teacher has no interest, until she gets in touch with her district. There were some noteworthy exceptions, however, where the outgoing teachers held an interest and assisted, also new teachers who lined up with their schools in time to help place the exhibit. I hope this will get to be a habit with all teachers.

Would it not be a good plan, whether you have organized club work, to plan for a booth exhibit, or both, to enlist one or more live pupil who have staying qualities, and at least one adult in each district, who will keep up the interest in the school fair work?

It might be arranged in remote districts, that three or four districts, combine and compete with like groups in other sections.

It is the duty of the Fair Board to make the fairs educative in their nature, and we need all the educational forces in the county with us in this work. We believe in home amusements, and think it possible to arrange events in which the people will amuse themselves. Some of the most enjoyable features of this fair, were those furnished by our own people. We have talent in Tillamook County, if properly organized to furnish entertainment as good as they have anywhere.

I trust the teachers in the rural schools will not think lightly of their jobs, and that they will remember, that the boys and girls of the county school districts are the stuff of which nations are made.

Next year we want a children's parade that will be worth while. Would like every teacher to plan for this, and every district possible to take part. It might be a friendly competition. (Continued on back page)

OREGON NEWS NOTES OF GENERAL INTEREST

Events Occurring Throughout the State During the Past Week.

Eugene Armory Dedicated.

Eugene.—With James Wilby, governor of Oregon, and George Chamberlain, chairman of the military committee of the United States Senate as speakers and more than 50 distinguished guests from all parts of Oregon, including the principal military officers of the state, the dedication of the Eugene armory Monday here. Eugene's biggest event in months. The armory, representing total expenditure of more than $1,000,000, is the largest and finest armory in the state. In the building over the drillroom alone it has a seating capacity for 1000 persons and total auditorium seating capacity more than 3500.

Port Act Test Suit is Began.

Astoria.—A suit to test the validity of the 1915 legislative measure repealing the port act and giving authority to operate lines of steamships was filed in the circuit court here. One important point at issue is the entire matter and upon which the will hinge is the ruling of the court as to whether a port is a municipal corporation similar to a city or a quasi-municipal corporation like a road or school district.

Conference Ends at Oregon City.

Oregon City.—After a three day session that was replete with a splendid, interesting and inspiring addresses and reports, the 47th annual meeting of the Oregon Conference of Oregon came to a close in First Congregational church in Oregon City. The ladies were unanimously chosen as the place of meeting for 48th conference in 1916.

SHORTAGE OF CARS ACROSS LUMBER ORDERS BEING CANCELLED

Sent Out of State.

Batem.—Unable to obtain sufficient cars for loading, the lumber industry of western Oregon, according to information in the hands of the Oregon public service commission, is practically paralyzed; orders are being called at many mills to be filled in Washington and other states and no immediate relief in sight, will cause face heavy losses.

Complaints which are poured to the commission from lumbermen throughout the Willamette valley showed a shortage of 200 cars, though the commission took up matter of obtaining relief for the lumber mills with the Southern Railway company last month and more were promised, telegrams from men indicate the shortage now is more acute. Four hundred and fifteen loaded and empty box cars flat cars have passed Ashland bound since October 1. Few of them it is declared, have been available for lumber shipments, many being motor cars.

Word received by the commission from the Southern Pacific office is no encouragement that the cars needed would be supplied. Commissioner Altheim and Miller are in San Francisco attending sessions of the railroad commissions of all the states. Information of the situation was graphed them. They will take up question of furnishing more cars to Oregon mills with President of the Southern Pacific.

Slays Two Women Then Kills Himself.

St. Helena.—After shooting and slaying his divorced wife and her sister, Mrs. S. M. Todd, Mrs. E. Stout set fire to his house and off City Marshal L. J. Chittum fired three shots at him. The last shot, he killed himself. Accompanied by the marshal the women went to Stout's house to a division of the furniture. Stout, duce the marshal to remain, saying there would be no trouble. Stout committed suicide the shot entered and extinguished Mrs. Stout was to remarry shortly.

Life Term for Self-Confessed Murderer.

Pendleton.—John G. Richards, self-confessed murderer of J. W. Ings, an Idaho horse trader, whose composed body was found in an abandoned well in the Coldwater country 10 miles from here, a few days ago, pleaded guilty before Judge W. Phelps in the circuit court and was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Packing Fruit for England.

Dallas.—The local plant of the Army Packing company in Dallas, engaged in packing 1000 tons of fruit for shipment to England, expected to have the order shipped on a steamer due to Portland about November 1.
