TUESDAY NOVEMBER 16, 1915.

Tillamook cheese has gone up another cent and is now selling for 16c. Never mind Bro. Baker, we know it is a very sorrowful affair, but cheer up old man, if you can keep the cows dried up you may still run a small chance of regaining that rest office.

41,388 persons paraded in Chicago in protest against the signing of the Sunday closing law. This is the first time we have ever heard of such a vast force of defiance of law in this country. Chicago now knows that it has at least 41,388 anarchists within its borders. We wonder how many anarchists will make their appearance in Tillamook when the new Prohibition law goes into effect Jan. 1, 1916.

WHAT IS THE SECRET

Almost every convention that is held these days induces President Wilson's foreign policy and expresses confidence in his patriotism and ability. One day it is a farmer's congress, another day the Grand Army veterans, another wonder of wonders—a Republican gubernatorial nominee in the state of Senator Lodge and the Pilgrim Fathers. Former Congressman McCab, in accepting the Republican nomination for governor from the state convention of his party, jumped over all division fences in declaring: "The momentous questions growing out of our relations with the warring nations of Europe make an appeal which obliterates party lines. The president is the appointed spokesman of the nation. He knows facts which we do not know, and upon any question affecting the honor of the nation in the eyes of the world, and in the assertion of the rights of its citizens, he should have the whole nation behind him, regardless of party lines."

Such increasing evidences of national perverseness and "idiotcy" must be very discouraging to those who have been engaged in the effort to discredit the president. Instead of shaking public confidence in, everybody worth talking about insists on getting behind him. What is the secret of Wilson's appeal? Few of us believe him to be infallible, but most of us are more than willing to trust him. Perhaps the reason is to be found in the man's absolute sincerity, his unpolluted honesty. A statesman who has the moral courage to get down on his knees and kiss his cabinet in prayer is a political phenomenon. Fancy the British prime minister doing that, or the German chancellor. Washington was not ashamed to pray during great crises of the Revolution, it is said, though that did not keep him from swearing when strong words of exhortation seemed needed by his subordinates; but if Mr. Wilson got his cabinet to join him in prayer over public questions, he has done something new to modern statesmanship. The old Jewish prophets and leaders did not disdain to call upon the Lord for help on all occasions, but the custom as a feature of public administration has been honored in the breach than in the observance in recent times. Cromwell had a way of doing something of this sort, and he was a mighty bad man to fool with.

Possibly the reason men are getting behind Wilson is because the Lord has gotten behind him and endorsed him, and is working with him, and not with Emperor William, King George or the Czar of Russia. Whatever the cause, this praying president is receiving support from most unexpected quarters. Perhaps prayer is not such a bad thing after all, no matter what the scoffers and scientific skeptics may say.—Baltimore Sun.

BUSINESS FOUND GOOD

Prosperity is discussed in familiar matter-of-fact terms by Henry Clews, the well known New York banking authority, in his current letter on financial and trade conditions.

"There is no doubt about business improvement in the United States," says Mr. Clews.

"It is surpassing all expectations. Evidences of this are multiplying in every direction. The steel industry is unprecedentedly active; our exports are on a phenomenal scale; a serious ship famine exists; our farmers are reaping a record-breaking harvest; our railroads are handling an enormous and rapidly increasing traffic; our textile industry is enjoying renewed activity; dry goods merchants are endeavoring to avert an undesirable boom; building operations are being resumed on a larger scale; labor is well employed, and on every hand there are signs of a rushing activity which experienced leaders are already endeavoring to check, in order to avoid the consequences of unrestrained or misdirected energy.

"Two questions arise which demand satisfactory answers: What are the reasons for this new boom, and how long will it last? The reasons for this widespread revival are clear and easily understood. First and foremost, a big harvest with profitable prices for the farmer has been secured. It has been variously estimated that the products of the soil this year will reach a sum approaching $10,500,000,000, or 5 per cent more than last year. Every intelligent business man appreciates the effect of good crops upon business. The farmer invariably spends more freely and the local merchant must fill empty shelves; thus infusing new life into trade, industry and transportation in every direction, and particularly in the grain belt, where nature has been most prolific."

HOSE COMPANY REWARDED

On Thursday evening, at the regular meeting of the Hose Company, Mr. W. H. Harrison presented the Company with a check for $50.00 with his thanks for services rendered at the fire on his farm south of town a few weeks ago. The gift was a surprise to the boys, as they felt they had only done a duty which they always stand ready to do for anyone. A vote of thanks was immediately voted unanimously, and three cheers given for Mr. Harrison.

This was declared by the old members to be the most substantial recognition of the services of the Company from any one individual in its history. The fire itself was somewhat unique, in that it was of spontaneous origin, in a mow of hay containing about 50 tons, and only in a few instances broke out into flames, which were promptly got under control. The nearest hydrant was 1350 feet distant, and the hose had to be carried across a low swamp by hand, as it was impossible to take the carts through it. After fighting the fire for some time, this hydrant broke, so that it became necessary to lay out 650 feet more hose to the next hydrant, making 2000 feet of hose in one line in service.

The barn also contained another hay mow with about 70 tons of hay, which would have been a total loss had the fire not been kept under control. The respirators which the company bought some time ago were of great assistance, as without them it would have been impossible for the fire fighters to withstand the fumes from the burning hay.

PIRATES THRIVE ON THE WRECKAGE

From Bandon Record:

The lives lost, the dead bodies recovered, the persons missing have taken a secondary interest in the news from the wreck of the Santa Clara on Coos Bay. After waiting with lily concealed patience for permission from the boat owners to board the wreck and get their freight, merchants have begun the work of salvage with the active assistance of land pirates.

The law "Finders are Keepers" under the line of high tide at sea has many adherents along the bay side and merchants acknowledge that when they have stopped different people from driving off with loads of plunder the act has been more or less of a bluff.

There were liberal consignments of whisky and cigars on board the vessel and these were free for the time being. Men soused, inside and outside, walked the beach with their pockets filled with smokes, with Pebbleford in plenty and hilarity abounding.

Saturday morning the merchants found the ropes which held the boat to the shore cut and the work of spoilation in progress.

According to the stories of Bandon people who have visited the wreck the

Notice Of Assessment

Miami Lumber Company, a corporation having its office and principal place of business at No. 830 East First Street, in the City of Los Angeles, State of California:

Notice is hereby given that at a meeting of the Board of Directors of said Miami Lumber Company, held on the 14th day of November, 1915, an assessment of $1.90 per share was levied upon the issued capital stock of said corporation, payable immediately to C. C. Ganahl, Secretary of said corporation, at No. 830 East First Street, in the City of Los Angeles, State of California.

Any stock upon which this assessment shall remain unpaid on the 29th day of December, 1915, will be delinquent and advertised for sale at public auction, and unless payment is made before, will be sold on the 14th day of December, 1915, at 10 o'clock A. M. on said date, to pay the delinquent assessment together with the cost of advertising and expenses of sale.

C. C. Ganahl,
Secretary.

pirates have a certain interest. They are described as pitching their camp on the bluff overlooking the wreck of the wreck with perhaps a blanket for a tent and a fire of drift wood to keep warm by while they wait for low tide to enable them to work at their best. It is rather heavy work at present when the stuff has to be dug out of the holes. When the wreck breaks apart they are expected to begin work in earnest.

Many of these campers are Indians or half breeds and those who are white look the part. With a red bandana around the head, a red flannel shirt and with a rope for a belt, they could pose for a painter or for a moving picture film.

YOUTH'S COMPANION

Have you subscribed yet for The Youth's Companion for 1916? Now is the time to do it, if you are not already a subscriber, for you will get all the issues for the remaining weeks of 1915 free from the time your subscription with $2.00 is received.

The fifty-two issues of 1916 will be crowded with good reading for the young and old. Reading that is entertaining, but not "wispy washy." Reading that leaves you, when you lay the paper down, better informed, with keener aspirations, with a broader outlook on life. The Companion is a good paper to tie to if you have a growing family—and for general reading, as Justice Brewer once said, no other is necessary.

If you wish to know more of the brilliant lists of contributors, from our ex-Presidents down, who will write for the new volume in 1916, and if you wish to know something of the new stories for 1916, let us send you free the forecast for 1916.

Every new subscriber who sends $2.00 for 1916 will receive, in addition to this year's free issues, The Companion Home Calendar for 1916.

THE TIME TO BUY A PIANO IS NOW

The piano houses all over the country are overstocked and are making special inducements to buyers. I have factory agency for the high-grade Chute & Butler and Player Pianos, and have recently secured the B. Allen Co. line, which offers unmatched Piano values. Their line comprises the following well known brands:

Mason & Hamlin, Hardman Conover, Ludwig, Kingsbury, Rembrandt, Wellington and others.

These pianos may be secured by the small $8.00 or monthly easy payment contract. You pay for the piano at the price paid by the "spot cash" buyer, the only difference being interest on the unpaid portion remaining after installment. Deduct the first payment then figure how easy the small monthly payments will be for you meet on a two or three year contract.

At the time of your purchase you receive an agreement of exchange whereby if for any reason within one year from date of sale you wish to change your piano for other make, you receive full purchase price in the change. Could anything be more fair?

These pianos are received by me on consignment and sold at no expense in selling, saves you the large commission always made by a salaried salesman. See me before buying elsewhere. It will pay you.
