FRIDAY NOVEMBER 19, 1915.

From Monday morning at 7 a.m. until Thursday evening at 6 p.m. it rained a 48 inches in Tillamook. This seems like a lot of rain and it certainly was. But that we have no kick coming. Thousand south winds bring good health to our people and make the grass grow. Our winter time are a good thing for the county.

The Oregon Journal, which has until now been published once a week only, is now publishing a full page of news including fiction, which reaches us in the afternoon and which gives us just as late news as the Oregonian. The Journal's new service is excellent and cutting better for its time.

The new management will no doubt increase the Journal's subscription list in this vicinity.

There is a move on throughout the state to create a sentiment in favor of having the state print its own school books. We believe this is a fine idea. Some other states have tried out the proposition to a great advantage. The school book trust hits the poor as hard as any other combination and should be dealt with in some manner.

The Oregon Post, a Swedish paper published in Portland recently published a thirty-two page special edition. The publication is interspersed with cuts of prominent Swedish citizens and families of Oregon. Tillamook and vicinity was given space and there were photos of some of our prominent Swedish people. The Oregon Post is the only Swedish paper published in the state. The special edition was indeed creditable and proved beyond question that the Swedes are doing their part and are making a very creditable showing in the development of the state.

The following incident upon the firing-line in France, if true, is significant of much. A board was hoisted in the German trenches bearing the inscription, "The English are Fools." After a while it was taken down, but reappeared with this addition, "The French are Fools." And then the board was taken down, and a third time appeared with the addition, "We are Fools." And a last time it went down and reappeared with the inscription, "Why not all go home?"

The annual budget for county expenditures is published in this issue. The court was not in accord in regard to the road levy. Judge Hare and Commissioner Owens, stood up for a nine mill road tax, while Commissioner McKimens stood for a seven mill levy, but did offer to compromise on an eight mill levy. This matter like all other questions under consideration can be threshed out at the budget meeting.

Mistakes in the handling of county work may have been made during the past year, but most of the mistakes the court has not been directly responsible for. The work has been new to every member of the court, which fact should be taken into consideration. We believe the court is composed of honest conscientious men who are endeavoring to do their best, and we do not think there is any question but what next year will see things moving along much better.

WILLIAM ALLEN WHITE PICTURES JUROFS JOY WHEN STATES GO DRY.

South California has gone dry and the lawyers and distillers are jubilant. They always sell in much more business in dry states than in wet states, that they always order new automobiles and build additions to their houses and increase their capitalization whenever a state goes dry.

The tent that makes of opposing prohibition of buying votes, the business covers, following business men, putting out of living circulars and other state affairs—of course, that look on one. The whole world knows that the brewers and distillers just close prohibition, because they will be money more than under prohibition than under the local option, and will be much more money in the local option counties than in wet ones. The heavy press is, and the lawyers and business men for the money. So the dry result in South California is exactly as in the hearts of the real friends of the State.

SCHOOL NOTES

The fifth grade work the lines school in competition with the sixth and fourth grades. The school work came in second in the last contest.

The boys in the Manual Training Department are undertaking under the direction of Mr. Reed, the construction of small carpenter and building shops. Edward Reed and Lowell Edwards are building a cabinet for Mr. Reed. Some of the seventh grade boys are making a lot of fine boxes for the use of the county agricultural school library, and several of them will soon be in the way. The boys are at present preparing an annual sidewalk on the school grounds. Mr. Reed is anxious to have an opportunity to teach the boys carpentry by actual practice. He hopes to secure contracts for small buildings such as woodsheds which can be handed to the proprietors of those for whom they are built. He will be glad to take up the matter with anyone who has need for such small buildings, between now and spring.

The County School Master's Club will meet Saturday noon at the High School. This club includes all men who are teaching in the county of Tillamook. The local school men are entertaining those from other parts of the county. The domestic Science department will serve luncheon as a part of their regular class work of the girls who are taking cooking.

Charles and Harry Fletcher have nearly completed a boat which they have been building in the Manual Training Department. Bob Meyers has a canvas covered canoe under way. Other boys are planning to make boats during the winter.

A cold-weather outfit has been ordered for the Manual Training Department. Mr. Reed is expecting to teach the boys what to do for lost shoes.

The school library has received its appropriation of books from the County School Library. For some reason this was somewhat reduced this last year but nevertheless a splendid lot of books is now being prepared for circulation by the library class.

Two new students were received in the High School this week, namely: Alfred Fletcher, who returns to graduate with the senior class and Charles Mills who entered the Commercial Department.

SCIENCE AND PROGRESS

Uruguay claims 1,000,000 population.

Michigan's 1915 mineral products were valued at $72,000,000.

Mining properties in Minnesota are valued at $2,925,000,000.

The gold production of Alaska from the end of last year was 228,392.340.

About 25,000 horsepower is developed in the explosion of a charge from one of the biggest cannon now in use.

After extensive tests French experts decided that modern viators are equal in some to, if not better than old ones of marvelous reputation.

Electric locomotives have been built in a German railroad having heavy tracks that draw loads of 2,000 tons at 40 to 50 miles an hour.

Wall street estimates $24,000,000 daily for 4,000 messenger boys, who save it through the streets. It is really heavier in securities and untraded checks.

Escape seeds for which hitherto no one has been known, have been found to contain an oil which is especially suitable in the manufacture of soap, and a South America refinery is making preparations to produce it on a large scale.
