During September, 1914, when the city of Birmingham, Ala., was wet, there were 244 arrests for drunkenness as against 85 arrests on the same charge during September, this year with the city dry. During the same month last year there were 372 arrests for disorderly conduct as against 201 for September this year.

Speaking in the dunes, M. Bark Russian minister of finance, recently stated that, notwithstanding her enormous expenditure, Russia had succeeded not only in deriving necessary resources from the national wealth, but had also filled the gap due to the stoppage of the sale of alcohol. The war expenses of 1915 would reach 250,000,000 pounds. The total national savings had increased by 187,500,000 pounds which proved that the country's resources were adequate to carry out these operations. He insisted that this beneficent and salutary prohibition should be maintained until the war. Dr. Sappala of Helsinki, who has lately visited Petrograd, writes to the New Republic that Russian savings banks, since vodka was abolished, have all had to employ extra tellers, because of the immense increase of savings deposits.

FARM NOTES

One-seventh-hundredth part of a grain of radium will thoroughly fertilize a ton of soil, and cause grain to grow with great rapidity. Where this experiment has been tried, it has been noticed that all the leaves become very dark. Radishes and carrots raised in this soil grow to six times their usual weight.

In a recent address before the American Society of Civil Engineers, James H. Lewis, state engineer of Oregon, urged the importance of developing water power in the west for the manufacture of nitrate from the air. He said in the event of war the available supply of nitrate in the United States would be exhausted in thirty days. We are entirely dependent upon Chile for our supply now.

There is a process for drawing nitrogen from the air by means of powerful electric furnaces. Employment of this process is all that has saved Germany from a position of famine in the present war. No plant for using this process on a commercial scale exists in the United States. Mr. Lewis said a $5,000,000 project on the Columbia river, which would supply the national demand for nitrate, was held up solely because of uncertainty as to title to water power.
