

The Town Cow And Her Owner

Every family that can afford to do so should keep a cow. It's mighty fine to have an abundance of milk and cream and home-made butter.

By packing surplus butter to be used during the time the cow is dry and by feeding skim milk to chickens or calves, any family can easily use all the milk given by one cow.

Hundreds of calves will be knocked in the head at birth during the next few weeks in this county unless saved from such fate by those who care for and feed them. The farmer cannot keep all of them.

Feed one or two calves for veal this year.
